A GENERAL PREFACE,

TOUCHING

The USE of theſe three Catalogues or Tables.

HAVING a purpoſe to peruſe our Engliſh Hiſtories, and thoſe of Foreign Nations, which had any Intercourſe or Commerce with the Affairs either of this Realm or Church of England: I found it no ſmall trouble to me, to know the Names of thoſe, whoſe Actions I encountred within the ſaid Peruſal. For whereas commonly great Perſons are not called by their Families, but are denominated from their Dignities: it was a matter of no ſmall difficulty to find out, what and who they were, who were preſented to us by their Dignities, as well Eccleſiaſtical as Temporal.

Upon this ground then, and to ſave me from that troubleſom enquiry for the time to come; I ſet my ſelf to draw up a compleat and perfect Catalogue of all the Perſons of chief Rank in this Realm of England, from Earls incluſively and upwards; ſo far as any light of Story, and warrantable aſcent, would direct and guide me. And having formed it in that frame and order, as hereafter followeth, found manifeſtly, that that Pains it coſt me was not ill beſtow'd; becauſe of that great Eaſe it gave me, being once compoſed.

For then no ſooner did I meet in any piece of Hiſtory with any, either Prince or Prelate, of, or in this Nation; but I could forthwith turn to him; and by computing the Times, find out exactly who he was. And yet I thought it not perfect, till I had added to the ſame all thoſe Sovereign Princes, which have born rule in all or any part hereof: whoſe Names and Actions occur, either in our Chronicles, or Forein Stories. That done, I thought it not amiſs, to note and add, as I met it, in my courſe of reading, what Kings and Prelates of this Nation have been ennobled in the Church with the ſtyle of Saints; as alſo what great Offices any of the Arch-Biſhops, Biſhops, Dukes, Marquiſſes, and Earls, had ſeverally born in the Civil State. And by ſo doing, as I received great eaſe and benefit, as before is ſaid; ſo I was eaſily intreated to let all ſuch partake thereof, who think it may be either profitable or uſeful to them: and for that cauſe have

ſuffered it to come abroad, that they that will, may take the benefit of my poor Endeavours.

And this I was the rather prevail'd upon to do, to ſatisfie the Minds of thoſe (if any thing will ſatisfie them) that either are the Enemies of Regal or Epiſcopal Power. For whereas ſome conceive that Kings were inſtituted by the People, on ſight perhaps of ſuch Confuſions as had been noted and obſerv'd in a popular Government: theſe following Catalogues will make it evident and apparent, that in this Countrey there was never any other Government than that of Kings, either in any part thereof, or the whole together.

And whereas it is factiouſly given out by others, that the Epiſcopal Authority and Regiment in and of the Chugch, is not the proper and peculiar Government of the ſame, but violently obtruded on it, by the power of Man: The Tables of Epiſcopal Succeſſion will make it evident, that the ſaid Form of Government is of as long ſtanding as the Church it ſelf; Religion and Epiſcopal Juriſdiction having been brought into this Land together.

Laſtly, If any ſuch there be, as have been formerly, that would cry down Nobility, and that Precedency and Power which ſome Men have above the reſt, they may here ſee, that from the first setling of this Monarchy in the Norman Race, that Kings of England have advanced to Place and Dignity, whom they thought most fit, and did it lans controul of inferiour People. And so they did, without question, in the Saxon times, and those before them, tho' of them we have no such clear and evident Succession, as in the rest of latter Ages; because their Dignities and honorary Titles were rather Personal than Hereditary.

Now in these Catalogues, I begin, as reason is, with that of Kings, from the first entrance of the Romans to this present time: to which I adjoyn the Kings and Princes of Wales, as also the Kings and Lords of Man, and the Isle of Wight: assigning to every one his time according to the computation of our best Historians.

The Catalogue of the Bishops I bring along, from the first planting of Religion here, amongst the Saxons; since which we have a clear and undeniable Succession in the holy Hierarchy: the former times under the Empire of the Britains, having transmitted to our Hands only some Fragments of Antiquity, by which we may perceive that the Episcopal Government was here received, together with the Faith it self; but cannot gather from the same a constant and continued Succession of the Persons governing.

Then

Then for the third Catalogue, viz. Of the Nobility, we have continued that from the Norman Conqueſt to this preſent; that at one view a Man may ſee the Quality and Antiquity of thoſe Noble Families, which are now an Honour and an Ornament to this.

I ſhall not need to ſay any more in this general Preface, having prefixed particular Prefaces to each Catalogue, to which I refer the Reader.

All the Kings which have Reigned in England, since the first Entrance of the ROMANS.

AS ALSO

Of the Kings and Princes of Wales, the Kings and Lords of Man, and the Isle of Wight, together with the Princes and Lords of Powys.

THE PREFACE TO THE CATALOGUE Of the KINGS of ENGLAND.

THE Realm of England is that Southern and more flouriſhing part of the Iſle of Britain: that which was civilized by the Romans, and made a Province of their Empire; when as the Northern parts thereof, were either neglected or not conquered. When it was under the command of the Roman Emperors, it wanted not its proper and peculiar Kings, over the chiefeſt and moſt principal of their Tribes and Nations: it being the cuſtom of that Empire, as Tacitus hath truly noted, habere ſervitutis inſtrumenta etiam Reges. Of theſe inferiour tributary Kings, thoſe which were in their ſeveral times of more power than others, may probably be thought to have aſſum'd unto themſelves the Stile and Title of Kings of the Britains: even as in after-times, during the Heptarchy of the Saxons, thoſe which gave law to the reſt, did call themſelves, and were accounted, the Kings or Monarchs of the Engliſh. But thoſe inferiour and petit Kings, being, in tract of time, worn out, and almoſt all the South reduced under the immediate command of the Roman Empire: either the Emperors themſelves, or ſuch of their Lieutenants as did here uſurp the regal State, were ſtiled Kings of Britain, till Conſtantine the Great united it inſeparably to the Roman Diadem; and in him ended the firſt Line of the Kings of Britain, according to the Britiſh ſtory.

The ſecond Line of Kings, bears date from the departure of the Romans: who being called from hence to look to their Empire in the Continent, left their Poſſeſſions here to the fury of the Scots and Picts, who dwelling in the Northern and unconquered parts, attempted to ſubdue the Southern. For the repreſſing of whoſe Rage the Britons choſe themſelves a King out of Armorica, (now called Bretagne) being extracted from the old Britiſh blood, which had long before been planted in that Region, by the Roman Emperors. Whoſe Line continued here not long, till they were diſpoſſeſſed both of Crown and Country, by the Saxons, a German people, called in by Vortiger, to oppoſe the Scots and other Nations of the North. Who having by degrees ſubdued all that which formerly had been conquered by the Romans (the Country beyond Severn only excepted) divided it amongſt themſelves into ſeven Kingdoms; which finally being all brought under by the Weſt-Saxon Kings, did at laſt ſettle, and continue in the Name of England. A Kingdom tho' of ſmall extent, compared to the greater Countries of France, Spain and Germany, yet of ſo high eſteem abroad, that it may challenge an equality with either of them, and in ſome kind hath had precedency before them.

For to the honour of this Realm, as well before as ſince it had the name of England, we may ſay thus much. It was the firſt Kingdom which received the Faith of hriſt, which was here planted, as it is affirmed by Gildas upon certain knowledge, towards the

the latter end of Tiberius's Empire. Tempore ut ſcimus ſummo, Tiberii Cæſaris, as his own Words are: which by computing of the times, will fall to be five years before Saint Peter came to Rome, and but five years after the death of our Redeemer. It ſhewed to the World the firſt Chriſtian King, whoſe name was Lucius: and gave to the Church the firſt Chriſtian Emperor, even the famous Conſtantine here born; by whoſe example and Incouragement the Faith was generally received over all the Empire, and all the Temples of the Idols, either demoliſhed or forſaken. It was alſo the firſt Chriſtian Kingdom, out of which the Jews, thoſe bitter, and moſt obſtinate Enemies of the Croſs of Chriſt, were univerſally expulſed; and out of which the inſolent and uſurped Supremacy of the Popes of Rome, was firſt ejected, after they had a long time domineer'd in the Church of Chriſt. The one of theſe performed by King Edward the firſt; the other by King Henry the eighth. Not to ſay any thing in this place of their Wars and Victories in France, Spain, Scotland, the Netherlands, the Iſle of Cyprus, and the Holy-Land.

In theſe regards, the Kings of England, as they are abſolute, ſo they are as ſacred, as of any Countrey whatſoever. Whatever Things are proper to Supream Majeſty, Scepters and Crowns, the Purple Robe, the Globe, or Golden Ball, and Unction, have been as long theirs, as any others. The four firſt are by Leland, a famous Antiquary, aſcribed unto King Arthur, who did begin his Reign Anno 506. Which was as ſoon as they were ordinarily in uſe with the Roman Emperors. And this does Leland juſtifie, out of an antient Seal of the ſaid King Arthur's, kept in his time, as a ſpecial Monument in Weſtminſter-Abby: as for their Unction, or Anointing, it appears by the old Roman Provincial, and the ancient Practice, that of all the Kings of Chriſtendom, there were none antiently anointed, but the two Emperors of the Eaſt and Weſt; the Kings of France, England, Sicily, and Hieruſalem. By reaſon of which Unction or Anointing (beſides which is united or annexed to the Crown Imperial of this Realm) it was declared Term. Hilarii 33. Edward 3. that the Kings of England were capaces juriſdictionis ſpiritualis, capable of Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction. As after the Reign of King Henry the eighth, it was declared rather than enacted, that the Kings Highneſs was the Supreme Head of the Church of England, and that he had Authority to reform all Errors, Hereſies and Abuſes in the ſame. 26. Henry 8. cap. 1. Which title of Supreme Head, though uſed by King Edward 6. in all his reign, and by Queen Mary for a while; was changed by Queen Elizabeth into that of Supreme Governor: And it is now reckoned as a part of the ſtile of the Kings of England, that they are Supreme Governors in all their Dominions and Countries, over all perſons, in all Cauſes, as well Eccleſiaſtical as Temporal.

Now as the Kings of England are abſolute at home; ſo are they no leſs honored and eſteemed abroad: The Emperor being accounted filius major Eccleſiæ, the eldeſt Son of the Church: the King of France, filius minor, or the ſecond Son; and the King of England, filius tertius & adoptivus, the third and the adopted Son. In general Councils, the King of France took place at the Emperor's Right-hand; the King of England at his Left, and the King of Scots having precedency next before Caſtile. And whereas ſince the time of Charles the fifth, the Kings of Spain have challenged the precedency of all Chriſtian Princes: yet in the time of King Henry 7. Pope Julius gave it to the Engliſh before the Spaniard, Nay, leſt the Kings of England might fall ſhort in any thing wherein their neighbour-Princes glory, they alſo have an adjunct or peculiar Title annexed to the ſtile Imperial. For where the King of France is ſtiled Chriſtianiſſimus moſt Chriſtian, and the King of Spain, Catholicus, or the Catholick King: the King of England has the Title Defenſor fidei, or the Defender of the Faith. A Title not ſo much confer'd on King Henry 8. by the Popes of Rome, as confirmed to him. For in a Charter of King Richard 2. to the Univerſity of Oxford, the ſame ſtile occurs: for which and other proofs hereof conſult the Epiſtle Dedicatory before Doctor Cracanthorp againſt the Arch-Biſhop of Spalato; and Sir Iſaac Wake, in his Rex Platonicus. But now we go to the Kings.

The Kingdom and Kings of MERCIA.

THE laſt and greateſt of the ſeven Kingdoms of the Saxons, was that of Mercia, ſo called, for that being ſeated in the middle of the whole Country, it was a March or Border unto all the reſt which abutted on it. It comprehended the Counties of Gloceſter, Hereford, Worceſter, Warwick, Leiceſter, Rutland, Northampton, Lincoln, Bedford, Nottingham, Buckingham, Oxford, Darby, Stafford, Shropſhire, Cheſhire, and that other part of Hertfordſhire, which was not under the Kingdom of the Eaſt-Saxons. By reaſon of this great extent of Empire, they were a long time very powerful, and over-aw'd their Neighbour Princes: till at the laſt, the fatal Period being come, it fell into the Arms of the Weſt Saxons after it had enjoyed theſe twenty Kings, which hereafter follow.

The Kings of WALES.

THE Britains being outed of their Country by the conquering Saxons, retired beyond the Severne, and therein fortified themſelves; which Country thereupon came to be called Wales, and the People Walſh, or Welſh-men. Not that the word Walſh, ſignified in the Saxon Language, a Foreiner or Alien, as it is conceived (for how could they be called Aliens in their native Country?) but Wales and Waliſh, for Galles and Galliſh, by changing G into W. according to the cuſtom of the Saxons. The Britains being deſcended of the Gauls, kept their old name ſtill; though ſomewhat altered in the letter, as before is ſaid: and to this day the French call the Prince of Wales by the Name of le Prince de Galles. At firſt their chiefs were honour'd with the Title of Kings of Wales, and are theſe that follow.

The

The Kings and Princes of WALES, according to the Hiſtory of it, by H. Lloyd.

IN the Hiſtory of Wales, written by Humph. Lloyd, the Kings and Princes of Wales are reckoned differently from that Succeſſion of them before laid down, the reaſon of which difference may be that he recited there the Predominant Princes, ſuch as gave Law to the reſt, whether of North-Wales, South-Wales, or of Powis-land: even as we ſee was done before in ſumming up the Monarchs of the Engliſh-Saxons, out of the ſeveral Kingdoms in the Heptarchy. Now for his Catalogue of the Welſh both Kings and Princes, he recites them thus.

THE PREFACE TO THE Enſuing Catalogue OF ARCH-BISHOPS AND BISHOPS.

THE Faith of Chriſt being here planted, as ſaith Gildas, Tempore ſummo Tiberii Cæſaris, towards the latter end of Tiberius Cæſar, was, as it ſeems, conceal'd and hidden till the time of Lucius, who publickly making profeſſion of it, procur'd three Archiepiſcopal ſeats to be erected at York, Caer-Leon upon Uſk, and London, for the North, Weſt, and Southern parts; and Suffragan Biſhops to be allotted and aſſign'd each of them. Of theſe and their Succeſ we have little Conſtat, only ſome foot-ſ

in ſome places, whereby we may diſcern ruin of Religion which had been made her the Saxons. But when the Saxons were c
verted to the Chriſtian Faith, they grew m zealous of the ſame, than formerly they been averſe to it: and gave it ſuddenly a neral and unanimous Admittance. Which ing done, that part of England which then in their poſſeſſion, was divided into two Provinces of Canterbury and Yo the antient Britains or Welſh continuing a long time after, under the Rule and Gove ment of their own Arch-Biſhop; but in the were alſo brought to yield obedience to the Se Canterbury. The Church thus brought in ſetled form and order, became forthwith of eſteem at home, that they have long time accounted Peers of the Realm, and are by ſummoned to all Parliaments; as are the Te poral Barons; and of ſuch Reputation and Fa abroad, that the Arch-Biſhops of both Prov ces were adjudg'd to be Legati nati: the Ar
Biſhop of Canterbury having a Superint dency over all the Iriſh Biſhops; as he of Yo had a direct Primacy over thoſe of the Chu of Scotland. And in the Council holden
Conſtance, what time the Fathers th
aſſembl

bled, were for the better diſpatch of Bu-divided into ſeveral Nations: the En-Nation, Anglicana natio, was reckon'd gſt the Chiefeſt. At this time ſince this h was manumitted from the Pope, it may rrantably ſaid to be the moſt exact and of the Reformation: keeping a conſtant ntinu'd ſucceſſion in the Holy Hierarchy, nſequently alſo in all Holy Orders; and oever elſe is neceſſary, either in Doctrin, nment, or Ceremony, to the Conſtitution an Apoſtolical and Orthodox Church.

As for the Method which we mean to uſe in following Catalogue, it is briefly this; we ill begin firſt with the Province and See of anterbury, and thoſe particular Suffragan which owe obedience thereunto, which ll marſhal in the order of the Alphabet, of Wales included. For howſoever they ce the honor to have an Arch-Biſhop of wn, yet being now reputed members of rovince of Canterbury, we will diſpoſe them accordingly. That done we will proceed to the Province and See of York, and thoſe Biſhopricks, which are now remaining of ame; which as the reſt before, we will ke along, according to the order of the lphabet. And this we take to be the eaſieſt for the Reader: that of the Antiquity of

the Sees, being very intricate and perplex'd and that of the Antiquity or Conſecration of th men themſelves, both changeable and uncertain For if we went according to the way of Prece dency which is now in uſe, eſtabliſh'd by Act Parliament, 31. H. 8. c. 10. We ſhould diſpo them in this manner, viz. Firſt the two Arch Biſhops of Canterbury and York, next th three Biſhops of London, Dunelm, Win cheſter, and laſt of all the reſidue of the Pre lates according to the Seniority of their Conſ crations. This is the order of Precedency whic is now in uſe, which yet is no new order in re gard of London and Winton, who antient had place before the reſt, in all aſſemblies of th Clergy: but this being changeable and uncertain as before was ſaid, we ſhall make uſe rather the other.

Now in each See and Dioceſs we will kee this courſe. Firſt, we will ſhew you the Antiquit and Ordination of each, together with the foun dation of their Cathedral Churches; what Coun ties each of them containeth, what privilege Antiently they enjoy'd, and ſtill claim to have how many Pariſhes there be in every Dioceſs by what Arch-Deacons they are governed what is the Tenth of the whole Clergy in ever Dioceſs, and how much in the Kings Books every Biſhoprick. We ſhall obſerve alſo, wha *how many of the Prelates have been extract Honourable Houſes, whoſe names ſhall be nguiſh'd by a little Aſteriſm thus , as alſo many of them have been Canoniz'd and unted Saints, who and how many of them e been made Cardinals in the Church of Rome, what Honourable Offices have been by any of them in the Civil State. In the formance of which S. ſhall ſtand for Saint, Card. for Cardinal; L. Ch. ſhall ſignifie hancellor; L. K. Lord Keeper; L. Tr. Treaſurer; L. Pr. Lord Preſident; Ch. J. Juſtice; M. Ro. Maſter of the Rolls, Ch. Ox. hancellor of Oxford: as Ch. Ca. cellor of Cambridg. By which it will appear moſt plainly what a perpetual Seminary our Church hath been, of able, and of Learned men, not only for diſcharge of Eccleſiaſtical, but even temporal buſineſs. Which premis'd once for all, we now proceed to Catalogue: beginning with the Province See of Canterbury, and following in the before propoſed.

an

CONTAINING

A SUCCESSION of the Arch-Bishops and Bishops of the Province of CANTERBURY.

CANTERBURY AND THE ARCH-BISHOPS of it.

THE See of Canterbury was first founded with the plantation of Religion amongst the English; Austin the Monk, who first preach'd the Gospel to the one, being the first Arch-Bishop of the other. The Chair hereof Originally fixt in the City of Canterbury; which being once the Regal City of the Kings of Kent, was, by King Ethelbert, on his Conversion, bestow'd on Austin the Arch Bishop, and on his Successors for ever. The Cathedral, having been a Church before in the Britons time, was, by the same Arch-Bishop Austin, repair'd, and consecrated, and dedicated to the name of Christ, which it still retains; though a long time together it was called Saint Thomas, in honour of Thomas Becket who was therein slain. The present Fabrick was begun by Arch-Bishop Lanfranc, and William Corboyl; and by degrees made perfect by their Successors. Take Canterbury as the seat of the Metropolitan, and it hath under it 21 suffragan Bishops, of which 17 are in England, and 4 in Wales; but take it as the seat of a Diocesan, and it containeth only some part of Kent, to the number of 257 Parishes, (the residue being in the Dioces of Rochester,) together with some few particular Parishes dispersed here and there in several Dioceses: it being an antient priviledg of this See, that wheresoever the Arch-Bishops had either Manors or Advowsons, the place forthwith became exempt from from the Ordinary, and was reputed of the Dioceſs of Canterbury.

The other priviledges of this See, are, that the Arch-Biſhop is accounted Primate and Metropolitan of all England, and is the firſt Peer of the Realm: having precedency of all Dukes, not being of the Royal Blood, and all the great Officers of the State. He hath the Title of Grace offer'd him in common ſpeech; and writes himſelf divina providentia, where other Biſhops only uſe, divina permiſſione. The Coronation of the King hath antiently belong'd to him: it being alſo formerly reſolv'd that whereſoever the Court was, the King and Queen were ſpeciales & domeſtici Parochiani Domini Archiepiſcopi, the proper and Domeſtical Pariſhioners of the Arch-Biſhop of Canterbury. It alſo belong'd to him in former times, to take to himſelf the offerings made at the Holy Altar by the King and Queen; whereſoever the Court was, if he was preſent at the ſame; and to appoint the Lent-Preachers: but theſe, Time has alter'd, and by the King are otherwiſe diſpos'd of. Abroad in General Councils he had place at the Popes right foot: at home, this Royal privilege, that thoſe which held Lands of him were liable for Wardſhip to him, and to compound with him for the ſame, though they held other Lands in Chief of our Lord the King. And for the more increaſe of his power and honour, it was enacted 25. H. VIII. c. 21. that all Licences and Diſpenſations (not repugnant to the law of God) which heretofore were ſued for in the Court of Rome, ſhould be hereafter granted by the Arch-Biſhop of Canterbury and his Succeſſors: As alſo in the 1. Eliz. c. 2. that by the advice of the Metropolitan, or Eccleſiaſtical Commiſſioners, the Queens Majeſty may ordain and publiſh ſuch Rites and Ceremonies, as may be moſt for the advancement of God's glory, the edifying of his Church, and the due Reverence of Chriſt's Holy Sacraments. To come at laſt to the Arch-Deacons, this Dioceſs hath only one Arch-Deacon, which is he of Canterbury; the Clergies tenths come to

to 651 l. 18 s. 2 d. q. And the Arch-Biſhoprick itſelf is valued in the Kings Books, at the ſum of 2816 l. 17 s. 9 d. q. I only add in general, that this See hath yielded to the Church 18 Saints; to the Church of Rome 9 Cardinals; to the Civil State of England 12 Lord Chancellors; 4 Lord Treaſurers; 1 Lord Chief Juſtice; and to the Univerſity of Oxford 9 Chancellors. The particulars follow.

S. ASAPH and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhoprick of S. Aſaph is exceedingly antient; firſt founded by one Kentigern a Scot, and there Biſhop of Glaſco, about the Year 560. The Cathedral there firſt built by him, upon the Banks of the River Elwy: whence it is call'd by the Welſh, Land Elwy; the Biſhop in the antient Latin Elwenſis, or Elguenſis; by us S. Aſaph, from S. Aſaph an holy man, whom, Kentigern returning into Scotland, left here his Succeſſor. It ſeems it ſtood not long, or not long in credit; there being a great hiatus in the ſucceſſion ſucceſſion of the Biſhops: none to be found between this S. Aſaph, and Geofry of Monmouth, who was here Biſhop in the latter end of King Stephen's reign. And which is more, Henry of Huntington in his recital of the Welſh Biſhopricks reckoneth only three, St. Davids, Bangor, and Landaffe: which may be probably imputed to the frequent Wars in this bordering Country (for is ſeated in the County of Flint, not far from Cheſter): which made it an unquiet ſeat for Religious perſons. This Biſhoprick, being not at the beſt very rich, was made much poorer in the time of Biſhop Parſew, who liv'd in the days of King Edward 6. For where the Biſhop had before five Epiſcopal Houſes, there it is none now left but S. Aſaph's only, the reſt, toge ther with the Lands to them belonging, by him made away, and aliened from the Church for ever: beſides, that keeping an Houſe above his means, he was forc'd to let the reſidue of his Lands into tedious Leaſes, not yet expired. This Dioceſs containeth in it no one whole County; but part of Denbigh, Flint, Montgomery, Merioneth, and ſome Towns in Shropſhire, wherein are to the number of 121 Pariſhes, moſt of which are in the immediate Patronage of the Biſhop. It hath but one Arch-Deaconry, called of S. Aſaph, which is united to the Biſhoprick, for the better ſuſtentation of it. The tenth of the Clergy comes to 186 l. 19 s. 7 d. ob. q. and for the Biſhoprick itſelf, it is valued in the Kings books, at the ſum of 187 l. 11 s. 6 d.

BANGOR, and the Biſhops there.

Bangor, another of the Biſhopricks of Wales, is of antient ſtanding; but by whom founded not yet known. The Cathedral there, is Dedicated by the name of St. Daniel, who was Biſhop here about the year 516. which being cruelly defac'd by that wretched Rebel Owen Glendowr, was afterward repair'd by Henry Dean, who was once here Biſhop. The ruin of this Biſhoprick, came in the time of Biſhop Bulkeley, who, not content to alienate, and let out the Lands, made a ſale alſo of the Bells: and going to the Sea-ſhoar to ſee them ſhipped, in his return was ſmitten with a ſudden blindneſs. This Dioceſs containeth in it the entire County of Carnarvon, wherein Bangor ſtandeth, and the whole Iſle of Angleſey; together with parts of Denbigh, Merioneth, and Montgomery, and in them to the number of 107 Pariſhes, whereof 36 impropriated. It hath moreover in it, three Arch-Deaconries, viz. of Bangor, Angleſey, and Merioneth, one of the which is added to the Biſhoprick, for ſupport thereof. The Biſhoprick is valued in the Kings Books, 131 l. 16 s. 4 d. and anſwers for the Clergies tenth, 151 l. 14 s. 3 d. q.

Bath and Wells, and the Biſhops of it.

THE Dioceſs of Bath and Wells, although it hath a double name, is one ſingle Biſhoprick. The Biſhops Seat originally at Wells, where it ſtill continues, and in reſpect whereof this Church is called in ſome Writers, Fontanenſis Eccleſia. The ſtile of Bath came in but by the bye. The Church of Wells firſt built by Ina, King of the Weſt Saxons, an. 704. and by him dedicated to S. Andrew: after endow'd by Kenulf, another King of the ſame People, Anno 766. and, finally, made a Biſhops See in the time of Edward the elder, Anno 905. the firſt that bore that Title being Adelmus, before Abbot of Glaſtenbury. The preſent Church, in place where that of Ina had ſtood before, was built moſt part of it by Biſhop Robert, the eighteenth Biſhop of this See; but finiſhed and perfected by Biſhop Joceline, ſurnamed de Welles. Johannes de Villula, the ſixteenth Biſhop, having bought the Town of Bath of King Henry I. for 500 Marks, transferr'd his ſeat unto that City, 1088. Hence grew a jar between the Monks of Bath and the Canons of Wells, about the election of the Biſhop. At laſt the difference was thus compoſed by that Biſhop Robert, whom before I ſpake of, that from thence-forward the Biſhop ſhould be denominated from both places, and that precedency in the Stile ſhould be given to Bath; that in the vacancy of the See, a certain number of Delegates from both Churches ſhould elect their Prelate, who being elected ſhould be inſtall'd in them both; both of them to be reckon'd as the Biſhops Chapter, and all his Grants and Patents confirm'd in both. And ſo it ſtood till the Reign of King Henry VIII. what time the Monaſtery of Bath, having been diſſolv'd, there paſs'd an Act of Parliament for the Dean and Chapter of Wells, to make one ſole Chapter for the Biſhop: An. 35. Henry VIII. c. 5.

But to proceed, this Dioceſs hath yielded to the Church of Rome, one Card. and to the civil State of England, ſix Lord-Chancellors, five Lord-Treaſurers, one Lord-Privy-Seal, one Lord-Preſident of Wales, one principal Secretary of State. The Dioceſs containeth in it the whole County of Somerſet, and in that 388 Pariſhes; whereof 160 are impropriate. It hath moreover three Arch-Deaconries, of Bath, Wells, and Taunton; is valued in the Kings Books, at 535 l. 11 s. 3 d. anſwers for the Clergies tenth, 353 l. 18 s. ob. q.

BRI-

BRISTOL and the Biſhops thereof.

THE Biſhoprick of Briſtol is of new erection, firſt founded by King Henry VIII. who having had the Spoil of the Monaſteries and Religious Houſes, was pleas'd to refund ſome of it back again upon the Church, for the incouragement of Learning, and increaſe of Piety. For this end he procur'd an Act of Parliament, for the erecting of new Biſhopricks by his Letters Patent, 31 Hen. VIII. cap. 9. and did accordingly erect ſix new Biſhops Sees, viz. at Briſtol, Oxford, Weſtminſter, Gloceſter, Peterborough, and Cheſter. According to the tenor of which Act, he did immediately erect ſix new Biſhopricks, on the foundations of ſuch antient Monaſteries, as he thought fitteſt for that purpoſe, and moſt convenient of honor, in regard of their Situation: Wherein he failed not any where ſo much as in this of Briſtol, the Dioceſs thereof being very much diſtant from the See; atque alio ſub ſole jacens.

Now for this Biſhoprick, the ſeat thereof is Briſtol, as before I ſaid, one of the faireſt Cities in the Realm of England; and a juſt County in it ſelf. The Cathedral Church is Dedicated by the name of Saint Auſtin, founded by Robert Fitz-Harding, Son to a King of Denmark, once a Citizen here; and by him ſtored with Canons Regular, Anno 1148. But this foundation being diſſolv'd, King Hen. VIII. made it a Biſhops See, and plac'd therein a Dean, and ſix Prebendaries, as it ſtill continueth. For 32 years together in Queen Eliz. time it had never a Biſhop, but all that while was held in Commendam by the Biſhops of Glouceſter: the Patrimony of the Church, being in the Interim much waſted. The Dioceſs hereof contains, beſides the City of Briſtol, the whole County of Dorſet (belonging heretofore to the See of Salisbury:) and therein 236 Pariſhes; of which 64 impropriated. It hath only one Arch-Deacon, which is he of Dorſet; is valued in the King's Books, 338 l. 8 s. 4 d. and anſwers for the tenth of the Clergy, 353 l. 18 s. ob. q.

CHI-

CHICHESTER and the Biſhops thereof.

THE See of Chicheſter, was antiently in the Iſle of Selſey, not far from thence: firſt planted there by Wilfrid Arch-Biſhop of York, who, being baniſhed his Country by Egfride King of the Northumbers, did preach the Goſpel to the South Saxons. To him did Edilwach, the South-Saxon King aſſign this Iſland for his ſeat; and after Cedwal King of the Weſt-Saxons, having won this Kingdom, built in the ſame a Monaſtery, which he made the Biſhops See. Here it continued till the time of Biſhop Stigand, who firſt remov'd the See to Chicheſter, the principal City of theſe parts; firſt built by Ciſſa the ſecond King of the South-Saxons, and by him called Ciſſan Caeſter. The Cathedral Church was antiently Dedicated to St. Peter; new built by Radulph the third Biſhop here, after the See remov'd by Stigand: which being almoſt conſumed by a raging fire, was afterwards rebuilt and beautified by Siffridus II.

But to proceed, this See hath yielded to the Church two Saints, to the Realm three L. Chan. to the Court two Almoners, one Chanc. to the Univerſity of Oxford, and antiently the Biſhops here, were Confeſſors to the Queens of England, (for which they have to ſhew an antient Charter) and had allowance for the ſame: This Dioceſs containeth the County of Suſſex, and in the ſame 250 Pariſhes; whereof 112 impropriated. It hath moreover two Arch-Deacons, viz. of Chicheſter, and Lewys; is valued in the Kings Books, at 677 l. 1 s. 3 d. and anſwered for a tenth of the whole Clergy, 287 l. 2 s. ob. q.

COVEN-

COVENTRY and LICHFIELD, and the Biſhops thereof.

THE Biſhoprick of Coventry and Lichfield is like that of Bath and Wells; a double name, a ſingle Dioceſs. The Biſhops See originally at Lichfield, from thence remov'd to Cheſter, and from both to Coventry. Hence it is that the Biſhops are called ſometimes Ceſtrenſes, ſometimes Lichfieldenſes, ſometimes Coventrienſes, and now of late Biſhops of Coventry and Lichfield. For in the year 1088. being that very year wherein the Biſhop of Wells was remov'd to Bath; Robert de Limeſty did remove this See to Coventry. Hugo Nonant the ſixth from him brought it back to Lichfield, not without great oppoſition of Coventry: and in the end, the difference finally was compos'd by Biſhop Savensby, much after the ſame manner, as before at Wells. For here it was agreed upon, that the Biſhop ſhould be denominated from both places, and that Precedency in the Stile Epiſcopal, ſhould be given to Coventry: that they ſhould chuſe their Biſhop alternatim; in their ſeveral turns; that they ſhould both make one Chapter to the Biſhop, in which the Prior of Coventry ſhould be the principal man. And ſo it ſtood till that the Priory of Coventry being diſſolv'd by King Henry VIII. (the ſtile or title of the Biſhop continuing as before it did) there paſſed an act of Parliament 33. Hen. VIII. cap. 29. to make the Dean and Chapter of Lichfield the ſole Chapter for the Biſhop.

The Cathedral Church here firſt built by Oſwy King of Northumberland about the year 656. who gave to the Biſhops many fair poſſeſſions. But that old Church being taken down by Roger de Clinton, the 37. Biſhop of this Dioceſs, that which now ſtands was built by him in place thereof, Anno 1148. and dedidedicated to the Virgin Mary and S. Chad. In following times, and almoſt in the infancy thereof, the revenues of it were ſo fair, that Lichfield was thought fit to be the See of an Arch-Biſhop. And one it had, and no more, his name Adulfus, Anno 793. the Biſhops of Winton, Hereford, Sidnaceſter, Dorcheſter, (which two make Lincoln) and thoſe, of Elmham and Dunwich (both which now make Norwich) being appointed to him for his Suffragans. But with him and King Offa who procur'd it, this great title died. and now it is content to be a Biſhoprick, the Dioceſs whereof contains the whole Counties of Darby and Stafford, together with a good part of Warwickſhire, and Shropſhire. In theſe are comprehended 557 Pariſhes, of which, 250 are impropriate: for better Government whereof it hath four Arch-Deaconries, viz. of Stafford, Darby, Coventry, and Shrewsbury. It is valued in the Kings Books, at 559 l. 18 s. 2 d. ob. q. and for the Clergies tenth, it comes to 59*o l.* 16 s. 11 d. q. finally, it hath yielded to the Church three Saints, to the Realm, one Chan. and three L. Tr. to Wales three Preſidents, one Lord Chan. to the Univerſity of Cambridge, and to the Court, one Maſter of the Wardrobe.

S. Davids

Saint DAVIDS and the Arch-Biſhops, and Biſhops of it.

SAint Davids now the Seat of a Suffragan Biſhop, was once a Metropolitan See in the Britiſh Church, and long time the ſupreme Ordinary of the Welſh. In the firſt planting of the Goſpel in King Lucius time, we ſhew'd that there were three Arch-Biſhops Seats appointed, viz. at London, York, and of Caer-Leon upon Uſk. That of Caer-Leon upon Uſk, was in the time of Arthur, King of the Britains, tranſlated farther off from the Saxons fury, to a place called Menew, (Menevia is the Latin name) but ſince, in memory of David, the Arch-Biſhop who ſo tranſlated it, by us call'd Saint Davids. From the firſt name it is, theſe Biſhops uſe to ſtile themſelves, Menevenſes. When Auſtin the Monk firſt entred England, the Metropolitan of Saint Davids had then remaining under his juriſdiction ſeven Suffragan Biſhops, all which gave meeting to the ſaid Auſtin and his Aſſociates, for the compoſing of ſome differences which were between the old and the new-come Chriſtians, viz. the Biſhop of Worceſter, (Wicciorum) Llandaff, Bangor, Hereford, Llan-Elwy, or Saint Aſaph, Llan-Badern, (called in Latin Paternenſis) a place in Cardigan-ſhire, the laſt is called in Latin Morganenſis, which poſſibly might have his Seat in Morgan of Glamorgan-ſhire, a place ſtill ſo called. Of theſe, Llan-Badern, and this Morganenſis are quite extinct, and have long ſo been; Hereford and Worceſter a long time reckon'd as Engliſh Biſhopricks. and ſo none left to the Metropolitan of St. Davids, but Llandaff, Bangor, and St. Aſaphs.

Now for theſe Biſhops of St. Davids, we find that twenty ſeven of them retain'd the title of Arch-Biſhops: The laſt whereof was Sampſon, who in a time of Peſtilence transferr'd the Archiepiſcopal Pall, and and with the ſame the Archiepiſcopal Dignity, to Dole in Bretagn, yet his Succeſſors, tho' they loſt the name, reſerv'd the power of an Arch-Biſhop: nor did the reſidue of the Welſh Biſhops receive their Conſecration from any other hand than his; till in the time of Henry I. Bernard the forty ſeventh Biſhop of this See was forc'd to ſubmit himſelf to the Church of Canterbury. For the Cathedral here, it had been often ſpoil'd and ruin'd by the Danes, Norwegians, and other Pirates: as ſtanding near the Sea, in the extreme corner of Pembrookſhire: That which we now ſee, is the work of Biſhop Peter, (he was the forty ninth Biſhop of this Dioceſs) and by him Dedicated by the name of St. Andrew and St. David; tho' now St. Andrew be left out, and David only bears the name. This See hath had the greateſt number of Biſhops of any in England, ninety eight in all: and amongſt them the Church hath had one Saint, the Realm of England three L. Treaſurers, one L. Privy-Seal; the Univerſity of Oxford one Chan. and the Queen another. The Dioceſs contains the whole Counties of Pembrookſhire, Cardigan, Caermarthen, Radnor, Brecknock, and ſome ſmall parts of Monmouth, Hereford, Montgomery, and Glamorgan-Shires. In which great quantity of ground there are no more than 308 Pariſhes, whereof 120 are impropriate. For the more eaſie Government of which, here are four Arch-Deacons, viz. of Cardigan, Caermarthen, Brecknock, and St. Davids. E ELY

ELY, and the Biſhops of it.

THE Church of Ely, antiently was a Monaſtery: firſt built by Ethelreda, Wife to Egfrid King of the Northumbers, and by her planted with religious Virgins, whereof ſhe made her ſelf the Abbeſs. But her plantation being ſupplanted by the Danes, and the Church quite ruin'd, Ethelwald, Biſhop of Wincheſter did again reſtuild it, and furniſh'd it with Monks good ſtore: to whom King Edgar, and the ſucceeding Kings gave ſuch ample priviledges, and fair Poſſeſſions, that it did ſeem to equal any Church in England. Richard the eleventh Abbot having a mind to quit himſelf of the Biſhop of Lincoln, within whoſe Dioceſe it ſtood; dealt with King Henry the Firſt, both with Purſe and Pater-Noſter, to turn the Abby into a Cathedral. And tho' the King aſſented to it, and that the buſineſs was tranſacted with the Biſhop of Lincoln, (who had three Mannors of this Abby, viz. Spalding, Biggleſwade, and Bugden, in exchange for his juriſdiction:) yet Richard lived not to poſſeſs it, leaving the benefit of his induſtry and ambition to be enjoyed by another Man, which was one Harvey, Biſhop of Bangor. As for the Church now ſtanding, it is the work of ſeveral Biſhops: the Weſt parts being with great charge repaired by Biſhop Ridal, or new-built rather; as were the Choir and Lanthorn by Biſhop Norwold, which afterwards were fully finiſhed by Biſhop Fordham. The whole Church Dedicated to Saint Ethelred.

Ely thus made a Biſhoprick, however fortified with great priviledges, (for in the Iſle of Ely the Biſhops had all rights of a County Palatine:) and that it was endow'd with ſo great Poſſeſſions as hardly any better in the Realm of England, hath yet been ſubject to thoſe changes which Time hath wrought.

For

For many of the Palatine rights were taken off, or much reſtrain'd by the Act of Parliament, touching reſtoring to the Crown the antient Royalties, 27 H. 8. c. 25. in which Act it was enacted that (inſtead thereof) the Biſhops of Ely, and his temporal Steward for the Iſle of Ely, ſhould from thenceforth be Juſtices of the Peace in the ſaid Iſland. However Ely may be ſtill reputed amongſt the firſt Biſhopricks of the ſecond rank; and may rejoice it ſelf in this, that it yielded to this Realm as many great Officers, as any other in the Kingdom. For it has given the State no leſs than nine Lord Chancellors, ſeven Lord Treaſurers, one Lord Privy Seal, one Chancellor of the Univerſity of Oxford, one of the Exchequer, two Maſters of the Rolls: beſides two Saints to the Church, two Cardinals to the Church of Rome, and to the Engliſh Court three Almoners. The Dioceſe hereof contains only Cambridgſhire, and the Iſle of Ely: in which there are one hundred forty one Pariſhes, whereof ſeventy five impropriate. It hath but one Arch-Deacon, which is he of Ely; is valued in the King's Books, 2134*l.* 18*s.* 5*d. ob. q.* the Clergies tenth amounting to the ſum of 384*l.* 14*s.* 9*d. q.*

EXETER, and the Biſhops there.

THE Dioceſe of Exeter contains that in it, which was once two Biſhopricks. For at the firſt planting of the Church in theſe Weſtern parts, it was thought convenient to erect two Biſhops Sees, the one for Devonſhire, at Cridington, now Kirton, a ſmall Village. But that of Cornwal being annex'd to Cridington, about the year 1032. both were, not long after, remov'd to Exeter, the moſt noted City of theſe parts, where it ſtill continues. Now for the Church of Exeter, it was once a Monaſtery, founded by King Athelſtane, and by him Dedicated to St. Peter. Edward the Confeſſor, removing all the Monks from hence to Weſtminſter, which he had newly founded and endowed, made it the Biſhops See for Devonſhire and Cornwal, then united. The Church as now it ſtands, doth ow itſelf to ſeveral Patrons; the Choir to Biſhop Warlwaſt, the Body of the Church to Biſhop Quivil, the ſide Iſles to Grandiſon: that which is now our Lady's Chappel, being a remnant of the old Fabrick. The Patrimony thereof once very large, was waſted and deſtroyed by Biſhop Voiſie, who being made Biſhop here by King Henry 8. ſate out the reſidue of his reign, and all King Edward's, and ſome part of Queen Maries alſo. For whereas at his coming hither, he found the Church poſſeſs'd of twenty two goodly Mannors, and fourteen Manſion Houſes richly furniſh'd: he left not above ſeven or eight of the worſt Mannors, and thoſe let out in long Leaſes, and charged with Penſions; and not above two Houſes, both bare and naked, of which ſee Biſhop Godwin's Catalogue, and Powels Hiſtory of Wales.

This Dioceſe hath yielded to the Realm of England, three Lord Chancellors, two Lord Treaſurers, one Lord

Lord Preſident of Wales; and to the Univerſity of Oxford, one Chancellor. It containeth in it the two Counties of Devon and Cornwal, and in them ſix hundred and four Pariſh Churches, whereof two hundred thirty nine are impropriate; for Government whereof it hath four Arch-Deacons, viz. Cornwal, Exeter, Barneſtable, and Taunton. The Biſhoprick was once valued at 1566*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* But ſince the diminution, or deſtruction rather, made by Biſhop Voiſie; it is now valued at 500*l.* juſt. The Clergies tenth here is very high, or mounting to the ſum of 1286*l.* 15*s.* 2*d. ob.* Now for the marſhalling of the Biſhops of this once divided Diocele, we will preſent you with thoſe of Devonſhire, and Cornwal, columnwiſe, one againſt the other, according to their time and order, until we meet then both in the Church of Exeter.

GLO-

GLOCESTER, and the Biſhops thereof.

GLoceſter, was antiently the ſeat of a Britiſh Biſhop, whoſe ſtile ſometimes occurs in the ſubſcriptions of Synodical Acts, by the name of Clavienſis; this Town being formerly called Clevid, as Cambden noteth. And I remember that I have ſeen in the Palace of Gloceſter the name of Eldadim, ſaid to be Biſhop there in the Britons time. But whether it were ſo or not; or whether Gloceſter were a Biſhoprick in thoſe days of old, is not material to our purpoſe. For that which was, was brought to nothing by the Saxons, and when they entertain'd the faith of Chriſt, it was firſt under the Authority of the Biſhops of Lichfield, as afterwards of thoſe of Worceſter. But in theſe latter days it was diſmembred from that Dioceſe, and by King Henry 8. made a Biſhops See, what time the reſt of new erection were by him founded, as we have ſpoken before, when we were in Briſtol. Now for the indowment of this Biſhoprick by him erected, (beſides a Chapter of a Dean and ſix Prebendaries by him ſo founded) he aſſign'd over all, or moſt of the Lands, unto the antient Monaſteries here, once belonging: which being firſt built by Aldred, Archbiſhop of York, and Biſhop of Worceſter, and afterwards repaired by Hanley, Farley, Morwent, Herton, Trowceſter, and Sebroke, ſeveral Abbots here, became in fine to be, what it ſtill continueth, one of the faireſt Fabricks in the Realm of England. The Dioceſe containing only Gloceſter-ſhire, hath in it two hundred ſixty ſeven Pariſhes, whereof one hundred twenty five are impropriations; and one Arch Deacon, being called of Gloceſter. It is valued in the Kings Books, 315 l. 17 s. 2 d. according to the Eſtimate thereof at the firſt

Foundation; though in two Vacancies which it had in Queen Eliſabeths time, much of the Lands were taken from it, (for which ſee what was ſaid before in the caſe of Ely.) And for a tenth of all, the Clergy pay to the King 358 l. 15 s.

HEREFORD, and the Biſhops thereof.

Hereford alſo was of old one of Biſhopricks erected in the Britains time; firſt under the Metropolitan of Caer-Leon upon Uſk, of Saint Davids afterwards; and when theſe parts were conquer'd by the Saxon Kings, it came to be a member of the Province of Canterbury. The Cathedral Church here founded firſt by Milfride, one of the Noblemen of this County, in honour of Ethelbert, King of the Eaſt-Angles, treacherouſly made away by the Queen of Mercia, his intended Mother-in-law. That which now ſtands, ows the moſt part of it ſelf to Biſh. Reinelm; and what he liv'd not to perform was finiſht by his Succeſſors, as they had either means or opportunity. The Dioceſs hereof contains the County of Hereford and part of Shropſhire, wherein it has 313 Pariſh Churches, of which 166 are impropriations: and for the Government hereof, hath two Arch-Deacons, viz. of Hereford and Salop. It hath afforded to the Church two Saints, to the State two Chancellors, and three Lord Treaſurers, one Deputy to the Realm of Ireland, two Chancellors to the Univerſity of Oxford, and one to the Queens of England. Finally, it is valued in the Kings Books, 768 l. 10 s. 6 d. ob.q. the Tenth of the Clergy coming to 340 l. 2 s. 2 d. ob.

LLANDAFF, and the Biſhops there.

Landaff is one of the moſt ancient Biſhops Sees either in England or Wales; and claims a direct ſucceſſion from the Arch-Biſhops of Caer-Leon upon Uſk, as to the Biſhoprick, though for the Metropolitan Dignity it be content to let St. Davids have what is left thereof. The firſt Biſhop here, of whom is any good record, is St. Dubritius, conſecrated Biſhop of this place by Lupus and Germanus, what time they came hither out of France, for the extirpation of the Pelagian Hereſie. The Church here dedicated to St. Thelians (or St. Peter as Dugdale ſays) the next Succeſſor to St. Dubritius; founded upon the River Taff, and thence called Llandaff; Llan in the Welch Tongue, ſignifying a Church; a Church very well endow'd by the munificence and piety of great perſons in thoſe times: ſo well, that as it is affirm'd by Biſhop Godwyn, were it poſſeſs'd now of the tenth part only of what it once had, it might be reckon'd one of the richeſt Churches in all Chriſtendom. The ruin of it came in the time of Biſhop Dunſtan, alias Kitchin, who thereupon is called fundi noſtri calamitas by Biſhop Godwyn. The Dioceſs contains only part of Glamorganſhire, and part of Monmouth-ſhire, though the moſt of each: and in thoſe parts, 177 Pariſhes, whereof 98 impropriations: and for them one Arch-Deacon, which is called of Landaff. The Biſhoprick is valued in the Kings Books, 154 l. 14 s. 1 d. the Clergy paying for their Tenth ſomewhat near the ſum, viz 155 l. 5 s. 4 d. It is to be obſerv'd, or may be, if it pleaſe the Reader, that neither here, nor at St. Davids, there is any Dean, nor ever was in any of the ſeveral Chapters; and in abſence the Arch-Deacon here, as is the Chanter at St. Davids.

LINCOLN and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhoprick of Lincoln, like that of Exeter, was once two Dioceſes: the Biſhops of the which had their ſeveral Seats, the one at Dorcheſter, now a private Village, ſeven miles from Oxford; the other at Sidnaceſter, not far from Gainsborough, (as Cambden thinks) in the County of Lincoln, the ruins of which are now inviſible. But Sidnaceſter being in a little time united to Dorcheſter; the Biſhops See was not long after removed to Lincoln; and that by reaſon of a Canon made about that time, viz. Anno 1075. by which all Biſhops were enjoin'd to live in the moſt famous and conſpicuous place within their Dioceſes. Which was the cauſe, why many of our Biſhops did about this time remove their Sees; as we have ſeen already, and ſhall ſee hereafter. For the Cathedral Church here, it's of no more ſtanding than the removal of the Biſhops See to this place from Dorcheſter; that which was once here founded by Paulinus, Arch-Biſhop of York, having been long before this time quite ruined. But when Remigius tranſlated hither the Epiſcopal Chair, he alſo built this Church for Receipt thereof. Which being not long after defaced by Fire, was for the moſt part repair'd and beautified by Biſhop Alexander, one of his Succeſſors: but brought to that State in which now it is, by Hugh of Burgundy, and certain other of the Biſhops: the Church is Dedicated to the Virgin Mary and All Saints.

As for the Dioceſe, it is the greateſt ſtill for juriſdiction, and was once one of the greateſt for Revenue in all the Kingdom. But for the juriſdiction that hath been ſhortned, though at ſeveral times: the Biſhoprick of Ely being taken out of it by King Henry the firſt, as thoſe of Peterborough and Oxford by King

King Henry 8. yet ſtill it is the largeſt Dioceſe in all the Kingdom; containing the whole Counties of Lincoln, Leiceſter, Huntingdon, Bedford, Buckingham and part of Hertfordſhire. In which great quantity of ground there are 1255 Pariſhes, whereof 577 are Impropriations, for government of which under the Dioceſan there are ſix Arch-Deacons, viz. of Lincoln, Leiceſter, Bedford, Buckingham, Stow, and Huntingdon. The Clergies tenth is anſwerable to this great extent of juriſdiction, being no leſs than 1751 l. 14 s. 6 d. The Biſhoprick being valued at 894 l. 10 s. 1 d. ob. in the Kings Books. Now for the dignity of this Seat, we will add but this, that it hath yielded to the Church three Saints, and to Rome one Cardinal; to the Realm of England ſix Lord Chancellors, and one Lord Treaſurer, and one Lord Keeper; four Chancellors to the Univerſity of Oxford, two to Cambridge; and that the Biſhops here, were heretofore Vice-Chancellors to the See of Canterbury. Which being thus premiſed, I ſhall proceed in ordering the Biſhops here, as I did at Exeter.

LONDON, and the Biſhops there.

London was heretofore the principal of the three Arch-Biſhopricks among the Britains, and by Pope Gregory was intended to have been ſo too amongſt the Engliſh: but that St. Auſtin, whom he ſent to convert the Saxons, liking Canterbury well, reſolv'd to ſet his Staff up there, without going farther. This had before been Propheſied by Merlin, that Dignitas Londoniæ adornaret Doroberniam, and was now accompliſh'd. What, and how many were the Arch-Biſhops here, we have no good Conſtat. Sixteen are nam'd by Biſhop Godwin, but with no great confidence: but howſoever do not come within my compaſs, who have confin'd my ſelf to the Saxons time, in the firſt infancy of whoſe Converſion, this City was deſign'd for a Biſhops See. The Cathedral Church built alſo in thoſe early days by Ethelbert the firſt Chriſtian King of all the Engliſh; but afterwards much beautified and enlarg'd by Erkenwald, the fourth Biſhop. Which Church of theirs being 500 Years after deſtroyed by Fire: that which now ſtands was built in the Place thereof, by Mauritius Richardus his Succeſſor, and certain others of the Biſhops; a great part of it at their own Charge; the reſidue by a general Contribution over all the Kingdom. And when it was defac'd by Fire in the late Queens time, Anno 1561. the Queen forthwith directed her Letters to the Mayor of London, willing him (as John Stowe, the City Chronicler reports) to take order for ſpeedy repairing of the ſame: which was done accordingly. Afterwards, in the year 1666. it was wholly reduc'd to Aſhes, in the then general Conflagration; where I note by the way that the Body of Robert Braybroke, Chancellor of England, and Biſhop of London, interr'd on the ſide of St. Faiths, above 260 years ſince, was now now found amongſt the Ruins, dry'd up like a Stock-fiſh, having Hair on his Head, Nails on his Fingers, and his Body in perfect Symmetry. The Biſhop of this Dioceſs hath Precedency before all Biſhops of the Realm, next the two Arch-Biſhops, together with the dignity and place of Dean, unto the Metropolitan See of Canterbury. The nature of which Office is, not only to preſide over the reſt of the Biſhops at Synodical meetings, in caſe the Metropolitan be abſent, but to receive his Mandats, for aſſembling Synods, and other buſineſs of the Church; and having ſo receiv'd them, to intimate the Tenor and Effect thereof to the Suffragan Prelates. Examples of which, ſee in the Acts and Monuments: And for this Dioceſe itſelf, it contains in it the two Counties of Middleſex and Eſſex, with that part of Hertfordſhire, which is not in the Dioceſe of Lincoln: wherein are reckon'd 622 Pariſhes, and of them 189 impropriated: for Government whereof there are five Arch-Deacons, viz. of London, Middleſex, Eſſex, Colcheſter, and St. Albans. Valued it is in the King's Books 1119 l. 8 s. 4 d. the Clergies tenth amounting to the ſum of 821 l. 15 s. 1 d. Finally, this See has yielded to the Church five Saints, to the State nine Lord Chancellors, ſeven Lord Treaſurers, one Chancellor of the Exchequer, two Chancellors to the Univerſity of Oxford; whoſe names occur amongſt theſe following.

NOR

NORWICH, and the Biſhops there.

THE Dioceſs of Norwich, like thoſe of Exeter and Lincoln, was once two Biſhopricks: the one of Suffolk, whoſe Seat was Dunwich, then on the Sea-ſhoar, but ſince under water, and is now generally called Southwould-Bay; the other of Norfolk, whoſe See was at North-Elmham, now a poor Village not far from Repeham. The Biſhop of the firſt was Felix a Burgundian, who firſt converted the Eaſt-Angles. The third from him was Biſus, who finding himſelf by reaſon of his Age, too weak for ſo great a Burthen, divided his Dioceſe into two, making North-Elmham the Epiſcopal Seat for that part of the whole which we now call Norfolk. Both of them lay long dead in the times of the Daniſh Fury: that of North Elmham after an hundred Years deſolation, reviving only; the other laid to reſt for ever. North-Elmham thus poſſeſs'd of the whole Juriſdiction, could not hold it long: the Biſhop's See being remov'd to Thetford, firſt by Herfaſtus; as afterwards from thence to Norwich by Herebert Loſinga. There it has continued till theſe very times, though nothing elſe continues of it but the See alone. For all the Lands thereto belonging were taken from it by King Henry 8. thoſe which did formerly appertain to the Monaſtery of St. Benets in the Holm (by that King diſſolv'd) being aſſign'd to it by exchange. For which conſult the Statute, 32 H 8. 47. in the which Statute it is ſaid, that the Lands given in recompence, were of a greater yearly value, than thoſe taken from it. So that the Biſhop, as it ſeems, got in Revenue then, tho' he loſt in Priviledg. For whereas the Biſhops here had the firſt Fruits of all the Benefices within the Dioceſe, by an ancient cuſtom, that was united to the Crown by Act of Parliament, 26 H. 8. c. 3.

Now for the Church of Norwich, it was founde firſt by him who firſt removed hither the Biſhop' See, even by Herebertus Loſinga; and by him Dedica ted to the bleſſed Trinity: which being much de fac'd by fire, (which was (it ſeems) a common Cala mity of all the Churches of thoſe times) was afte wards repair'd by John of Oxford, the third after him and once again, being Fire-touch'd, by Biſhop Mid dleton, who brought it to that State in which now i ſtands. This See has yielded to the Church two Saints, to the Realm five Chancellors, one Lord Trea ſurer, and one Lord Chief Juſtice, one Biſhop Al moner to the Court, and to the King one Principa Secretary of State. The Dioceſe contains in it the Counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, 1121 Pariſh-Churches whereof 385 impropriate: for better ordering of which, it hath four Arch-Deacons, viz. of Nor wich, Norfolk, Suffolk, and Sudbury. Finally this Bi ſhoprick is valued in the Kings Books, 899 l. 18 s. 7 d. ob. The tenth of the whole Clergy amounting to the ſum of 1117 l. 13 s. ob. Now for the line of Norwich, it is thus drawn down.

OXFORD, and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhoprick of Oxford is of new Erection, firſt founded by King Henry 8. and by him endowed out of the Lands belonging to the late diſſolv'd Monaſteries of Abingdon and Oſney. It was before a part of the Dioceſe of Lincoln: and being now made a Biſhoprick, had firſt the Abby Church of Oſney (being ſome half a Mile from Oxford) for its Cathedral, An. 1541. from whence it was remov'd to Oxford about five years after. That which is now the Cathedral, was antiently dedicated to Saint Frideſwide: but being by King Henry made the Biſhops See, was entitul'd Chriſts Church: the Chapter there conſiſting of a Dean and eight Prebendaries by him alſo founded, part of the Lands which had been purchas'd or procur'd by Cardinal Wolſey for the Endowment of his College, being allotted thereto. This Biſhoprick was founded then, Anno 1541. and from that time to the year 1603. when Dr. Bridges was made Biſhop, are 63 years only, or thereabouts: of which it was kept vacant above 40 years, even almoſt all the long Reign of Queen Elizabeth; to the impoveriſhing of the Church, before well endowed. The Dioceſe contains only the County of Oxford, and therein 195 Pariſh Churches, of which 88 are impropriated. It hath but one Arch-Deacon, which is he of Oxford; is valued in the Kings Books, 354 l. 16 s. 4 d. ob. the Clergies tenth coming to 255 l. 8 s.

ROCHESTER, and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhoprick of Rocheſter is the moſt antient next to Canterbury of all in England: a Biſhops See being here erected by that S. Auſtin, who firſt did preach the Goſpel unto the Saxons, Anno 606, which was about ten years after his entrance into England. The Cathedral Church here, firſt erected by Ethelbert King of Kent, when it was firſt made a Biſhops See, and by him Dedicated to S. Andrew; which growing ruinous and decayed, was afterwards repaired by Gundulphus, one of the Biſhops of the ſame, about the year 1080. This Biſhoprick was antiently and a long time together, in the immediate Patronage of the Arch-Biſhop of Canterbury; who did diſpoſe thereof as to them ſeemed beſt; and ſo continued, till under pretence of Free and Capitular Elections, the Popes had brought all Churches into their own hands. However after this the Biſhops of Rocheſter ow'd more than ordinary obedience to their Metropolitan, and in all ſolemn Pomps were commonly their Croſs-bearers. The Dioceſe hereof is the leaſt in England, containing only a ſmall part of Kent, and therein not above 98 Pariſhes, of which 36 impropriate: for ordering of which juriſdiction, there needed not but one Arch-Deacon, which is he of Rocheſter. Nor is the valuation much, either of the Biſhoprick or of the Clergy, the one being in the Kings Books 358 l. 3 s. 2 d. q. the other paying for their Tenth, the leaſt of any of the Engliſh, viz. 222 l. 14 s. 6 d. q. And yet this little See hath yielded to this Realm one Chancellor, one Lord-Keeper of the Great Seal, and one Lord-Treaſurer, and to the Church of Rome, one Cardinal. The Biſhop of this Church writes himſelf Roffenſis.

SALIS

SALISBURY, and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhoprick of Salisbury ſucceeded in the rights of two ſeveral Dioceſes, whereof the one had its Cathedral or chief Sea at Sherborn, in the County of Dorſet; the other at Wilton, once the chief Town of Wiltſhire, but ſince the growth of Salisbury, very much decayed. Of theſe, the antienter was Sherborn, whoſe Dioceſe extended it ſelf once over all theſe Counties, which are now ſubject to the juriſdiction of Salisbury, Briſtol, Wells and Exeter. But Wells and Exeter being made peculiar Dioceſes, Anno 905. as we there have ſhewed, another was Erected the ſame time at Wilton alſo. Which, when it had continued under nine Biſhops, and no more, was then again united unto Sherborn: and both together preſently remov'd to Salisbury, as being the chief City of theſe parts, and conſequently more fit for a Biſhops Sea. And yet it ſtayed not long there neither, being remov'd again in little time to a more convenient place. For by Hermannus it was fix'd on the Hill, in that old fortified Town, now call'd old Sarum: which being found by ſome Experience to be no proper Seat for a Biſhops dwelling; was preſently brought lower, and with it the Town. Hermannus who remov'd the Sea from Sherborn, did firſt begin the Church at old Sarum (for ſo ſome Latin Writers call it) which Oſmund (his Succeſſor) finiſh'd. Richard ſurnam'd Poor, the fourth from Oſmund, remov'd the See into the Valley, and firſt began that Church which we now ſee ſtanding: which being finiſh'd in the year 1528. by Biſhop Bridport, was Dedicated to the honor of the bleſſed Virgin.

Thus was the Sea of Sherborn remov'd to Salisbury, where it hath ever ſince continued in great fame and luſtre. As for the priviledges of this Church, the Biſhops antiently did claim to be Precentors to their Metropolitan, and of more late days to be Chancellors of the moſt noble Order of the Garter, which Office being inſtituted by King Edw. 4. and by him veſted in the perſon of Rich. Beauchamp of Sarum, and his Succeſſors in that See: was after in the new Statutes made by Henry 8. left ſolely to the Kings diſpoſing, either to Clergy-man or Lay-man, as to them ſeem'd beſt. Nor has it been enjoyed by any Clergy-man ſince that time, tho' in the year 1608. it was much labour'd for by Biſhop Cotton, the reſtitution of that Office to the Biſhops of Salisbury and their Succeſſors after the Death of Sir Henry de Vic the preſent Chancellor, by King Charles II. at a Chapter of the Order lately held. This Dioceſe contains in it the Counties of Berks and Wilts, (for that of Dorſet was diſmembred from it by King Henry VIII. and laid to Briſtol) and in them two 544 Pariſh Churches, of which 109 are impropriations. It has moreover three Arch-Deacons, viz. of Salisbury, Berks and Wilts; is valued in the Kings Books, 1367 l. 11 s. 8 d. the Clergy paying for their Tenth 901 l. 8 s. d. Finally, this See hath yielded to the Church one Saint, and to Rome two Cardinals, to the Realm of England, one Lord Chief Juſtice, three Lord Chancellors, two Lord Treaſurers, as many Maſters of the Rolls; two Chancellors to the Univerſity of Oxford, and one to Cambridge; the Biſhops of this See we will marſhal thus.

Biſhops

WESTMINSTER, Biſhop, Deans and Abbots.

THE Biſhoprick of Weſtminſter, as it related to the Saxons, was of late erection; and being ſo erected was of ſmall continuance: but antiently, in the Britains time, the Church there was the Sea for the Arch-Biſhop of London. For whereas ſome had found in an old Record, that the Arch-Biſhops See was planted in the Church of St. Peter in Cornhil: certain it is, that that was a miſtake for St. Peter's in Thorney. Now Thorney is the antient name of that which is ſince called Weſtminſter: and being an antient Saxon name, was far more likely to be meant by the firſt reporter, than that of Cornhil, which is meerly modern. But this Arch-Biſhoprick being brought to nothing by the Saxons, Sebert the firſt Chriſtned King of Eſſex, erected here a Church, where the former was, and dedicated it unto St. Peter, as was that before, which ſtanding weſtward of St. Pauls, was by the common people commonly called Weſtminſter. This Temple of King Seberts, being in tract of time grown ruinous, and almoſt deſerted, Edward the Confeſſor again rebuilt, and liberally endow'd and ſtored with Monks, by him remov'd hither from Exeter. After, King Henry III. taking down the Fabrick of the Confeſſor, erected it as now it ſtandeth; ſave that the Abbots much enlarg'd it towards the Weſt, and that King Henry VII. built that moſt goodly Chappel at the Eaſt end thereof. The Abbots here had Archiepiſcopal juriſdiction within their liberties, and had the keeping of the Regalia, and a chief ſervice in the Coronation of the Kings of England. and place in Parliament, in all which rights, ſave that of Parliament, the Deans now ſucceed them. For when this Monaſtery (which at the ſuppreſſion was valued at 3977 l.) was diſſolv'd by King Hen. VIII. firſt he erected here a Deanry, An. 1539. then added to the Dean a Biſhop, Anno 1541, Thirleby the Biſhop, having dilapidated all the Patrimony to this See allotted; and robbed St. Peter to pay Paul, as the ſaying is, was removed to Norwich, and ſo the Biſhoprick determined; having continued nine years only: and Middleſex, which was the Dioceſe thereof, was reſtored to London. Queen Mary afterwards brought in an Abbot, and her foundation being diſſolv'd by Queen Elizabeth, ſhe made it a Collegiate Church conſiſting of a Dean, and 12 Prebendaries, as it ſtill continues.

WINCHESTER, and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhoprick of Wincheſter (Wintonienſis in the Latin) is of good antiquity, and never chang'd the Sea ſince the firſt foundation, as all the reſt have done in the South-Weſt parts. The City once the Regal ſeat of the Weſt-Saxon Kings. The Cathedral Church firſt founded and endow'd by Kingil, or Kinegilſus, the firſt Chriſtian King of the Weſt-Saxons: who gave unto it all the Land within ſeven miles of Wincheſter. Kinelwalchin, Son unto this Kingil, went forwards with his fathers fabrick, ratified his donation, and added to it, among other things, the Manors of Alresford, Dowaten, and Worthy. The Church now ſtanding was begun by Biſhop Walkin, the work purſued by his Succeſſors, but yet not finiſh'd till the time of William de Wicham, who built the greateſt part of the Weſt end thereof. The Chappels on the Eaſt end beyond the Quire had their ſeveral Founders. The whole Church Dedicated firſt to Saint Amphibalus, then to Saint Peter, after to Saint Swithin, once Biſhop here; and laſt of all to the bleſſed Trinity, as it ſtill continues. The Biſhops here are Chancellors to the See of Canterbury, and Prelates of the moſt noble Order of Saint George, called the Garter: which office was firſt veſted in them by King Edw. III. at the firſt foundation of that Order, and hath continued to them ever ſince. They were reputed antiently to be Earls of Southampton, and are ſo ſtil'd in the new Statutes of the Garter made by Henry VIII. but that is now otherwiſe diſpoſed of. Finally, what for privilege, and what for large poſſeſſions, it was prized ſo high, that Henry de Bloys, (he was the Brother of King Stephen) once Biſhop here, had got a faculty from the Pope, to make it an Arch-Biſhops See; ſeven of the Suffragans of Canterbury, being allotted thereunto. And William de Edington, one of the Biſhops of this Church, being elected unto Canterbury, refus'd it, ſaying, though Canterbury had the higheſt rack, yet Wincheſter had the deepeſt manger.

Canterbury

The Dioceſe hereof contained of old, the Counties of Surrey, and Southampton, and the Iſle of Wight: to which were added, in Queen Elizabeths time, the Iſles of Jerſey, Garnſey, Sark, and Alderney, once members of the Biſhoprick of Conſtance in Normandy. Of theſe, the Engliſh Iſle and Counties contain 362 Pariſhes, of which 131 impropriate; the Iſle of Jerſey 121; and Garnſey with the other two, as many more. For government of the Engliſh part, there are two Arch-Deacons, the one of Wincheſter, and the other of Surrey; Jerſey is governed by a Dean or Commiſſary, according to the manner of the Engliſh Church; and Garnſey with the Iſles appendant, follow the faſhions of Geneva. The Biſhoprick was antiently valued in the Kings Books at 3885*l.* 3*s.* 3*d. ob. q.* now at 2793*l.* 4*s.* 2*d. ob. q.* leſs by a thouſand pounds than before it was: which plainly ſheweth that there hath been a great abatement of the old revenue; the tenth of the Clergy amounted unto 846 l. 12 d. Finally, this See hath yielded to the Church ten Sainrs, and to Rome two Cardinals; to England one Lord-Chief-Juſtice, nine Lord-Chancellors, two Lord-Treaſurers, one Lord Privy-Seal, one Chancellor of the Univerſity of Oxford, another to the Exchequer, and 23 Prelates of the Garter, whoſe names are to be found among theſe following.

WORCESTER and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhoprick of Worceſter, (Vigornenſis in the Latin) was founded by Etheldred, King of the Mercians, Anno 679. and taken out of the Dioceſe of Lichfield, of which firſt it was a part. The Cathedral Church here, by him alſo built; but afterwards repair'd, or new built rather, by ſeveral Biſhops of this See. Oſwald the 18th Biſhop here did firſt undertake it, and caſting out the married Prieſts, firſt brought in the Monks, Anno 964. but his foundation being ruined by the Danes, the Church was brought to that perfection wherein now it ſtandeth, by Biſhop Wulfſtan, about the year 1030. Since when it hath enjoy'd a flouriſhing and fair eſtate: and (which is very rare) can hardly make complaint of any vacancy: ſave that on the exauctoration of Biſhop Heath, it was aſſign'd over in Commendam to Maſter Hooper then Biſhop of Gloceſter. But it held not long.

The Dioceſe containeth in it the County of Worceſter, and part of Warwickſhire, and therein 241 Pariſhes, of which 71 impropriate: for theſe there is but one Arch-Deacon, which is called of Worceſter. Valued it is in the Kings books, 1049*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* ob. q. the Clergy paying for their tenth, 228*l.* In point of honour it may plead thus much, that in the flouriſhing times of the See of Canterbury, the Biſhops here, were the peculiar Chaplains of the Metropolitans; and by their Office to ſay Maſs in all Aſſemblies of the Clergy, wherein he was preſent. As alſo that it hath yielded to the Church four Saints; five Chancellors to the Realm of England, and one to Normandy: Lord Treaſurers three, one Chancellor to the Queen then being: one Lord Preſident of Wales, and one Vice-Preſident; whom, with the reſidue of the Biſhops take here in order.

YORK, and the Arch-Biſhops there.

YORK is the moſt antient Metropolitan Sea at this time in England, being ſo made at the firſt eneral admittance of the Goſpel in the time of Lu-us; the firſt Arch-biſhop by him here eſtabliſh'd, am'd Sampſon, and he who held out laſt in the Bri-ins time, being call'd Tadiacus. We have a conſtat nly of two more, viz. Taurinus, and Pyrannus: of ll the reſt no Name, or Memory to be found among ur Writers. On the Converſion of the Saxons, this ee was by Pope Gregory deſign'd to its former ho-our, which not long after took effect, whenas Pau-inus was made Arch-biſhop of York, Anno 622. In hich deſignment of the ſaid Pope Gregory, the Me-opolitan of York was to have as many Suffragan iſhops as he of London (for there the See was to be lac'd by Pope Gregories order) to either of them welve a-piece, which if they ever were erected in his Northern Province, were certainly of mean eſtate, ot able to ſupport the honour; and conſequently wallow'd up by the greater Churches of York and Dur-am: which two were only left here a long time to-ether, until Carlile firſt was made a Biſhoprick by ing Henry I. as Cheſter afterwards by King Henry VIII. ut that which was the greateſt Addition to the Pro-ince of York, was the direct and Metropolitan juriſ-iction which it claim'd and had over all the Biſhops f Scotland, who did from hence receive their Con-ecration, and ſwore Canonical Obedience to this Sea.

In this regard, and that it was conceiv'd that by ope Gregories Inſtitution, he of the two Arch-biſhops hich was firſt confirm'd, ſhould have Precedency ver the other: there grew a great Contention there-bouts between them, and much recourſe was made o the Court of Rome. At laſt it was determin'd in favour favour of the See of Canterbury: yet ſo, that ſtill it might be lawful for the Arch-biſhop of York to write himſelf Primate of England, the other taking to himſelf the ſtile of Primate of all England, as it ſtill continues. The next misfortune which befel the See and Metropolitan of York, was, that the Biſhops of Scotland did in fine withdraw themſelves from his Obedience, and had Arch-biſhops of their own. This hapn'd when George Nevil was Arch-biſhop here, who was advanc'd to this See, Anno 1466. not above 204 years ago: and then upon pretence, that in conſideration of the many and moſt deadly Wars between both Realms, the Metropolitan of York, could bear no fatherly Affection to his Sons of Scotland. However the Arch-biſhop ſtill retains his wonted place, having precedency before all Dukes, not being of the Royal Blood; as alſo before all the great Officers of State, except the Lord Chancellor.

For the Cathedral Church of York, it was firſt built, or begun rather by King Edwyn, King of the North-Humbers, Anno 627. but finiſh'd by King Oſwald who ſucceeded him, and dedicated to Saint Peter. But this of their Foundation being deſtroy'd by Fire, and by the Fury of the Danes, at the firſt Entrance of the Normans: that which now ſtands was erected in the place thereof, by Arch-Biſhop Thomas, the 25th of this See, and after, by degrees, adorn'd and beautify'd by his Succeſſors. The Dioceſe hereto belonging, contains in it the two Counties of York and Nottingham: and in them both 581 Pariſhes, of which 336 are Impropriations. For Government whereof, it has four Arch-deacons, viz. of York, Cleaveland, Eaſt riding and Nottingham. This Biſhoprick was at the firſt rated in the Kings Books, 2035*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* but now, ſince the great Diminution made by King Henry 8. 1609*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.* And for the Clergy of the ſame, their Tenth amounted to 1113*l.* 17*s.* 9*d. ob. q.* To draw to an end, this See has yielded to the

to the Church eight Saints, to the Church of Rome three Cardinals, to the Realm of England twelve LL. Chancellors, and two LL. Treaſurers, and to the North of England two Lord Preſidents. The Biſhops write themſelves in Latin, Eboracenſes, or Eborum, and are theſe that follow.

CARLILE, and the Biſhops there.

THE moſt of that which now makes the Dioceſe of Carlile, was in the Infancy of the Engliſh Church, as I conceive it, part of the Dioceſe of Whitherne, or Caſa Candida, in the Province of Galloway: now reckon'd as a part of Scotland, but then a parcel of the Kingdom of the North-Humbers. But when the Scots had maſter'd all thoſe Countries beyond Tweed and Solway, the Town of Carlile, with the County of Cumberland, in which it ſtands, were ſevered from the Dioceſe of Carlile, with 15 Miles about it, being beſtow'd on St. Cuthbert, Biſhop of Lindisfarne, by Egfride, King of the North-Humbers, Anno 679. the reſt of the Country ſubmitting to the Juriſdiction of the Arch-Deacon of Richmond, then being ſubordinate to the Sea of York. Thus it continued till the year 1133. what time a Biſhops Sea was here firſt eſtabliſh'd: and by that means another Suffragan Biſhop added to that Metropolitan. The Cathedral Church here had been founded not long before, by Walter, Deputy of theſe parts for King William Rufus; and by him dedicated to the honour of the bleſſed Virgin: but finiſh'd and endowed by King Henry I. out of that wealth which the ſaid Walter had amaſſed for that very purpoſe, by the perſuaſion of Athulphus or Athelwolphus, whom afterwards he made the firſt Biſhop there. The Dioceſe contains the County of Weſtmoreland, and the moſt part of Cumberland, and therein only 93 Pariſhes, but thoſe (as all the Northern are) exceeding large; and of them 18 are impropriate. Arch-Deacon here was never any, the Juriſdiction being claim'd by him of Rickmond, as anciently to him belonging. The Biſhoprick is valued in the King's Books at 530 l. 4 s. 11 d. ob. The Clergies Tenth amounting only to 161*l*

161*l.* 1*s.* 7*d. ob.* And yet this little See, and ſo far remote, has yielded to this Kingdom one Chancellor, and two Lord Treaſurers, beſides three Chancellors to the Univerſity of Cambridge.

CHE-

CHESTER, and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhoprick of Cheſter, as it is here to be conſider'd, is of new Erection, one of thoſe founded by King Henry VIII. whereof we ſpake before when we were in Briſtol. Antiently it was in the Dioceſe of Lichfield, one of the Biſhops of which Church, removing his See hither, Anno 1075. as to the more remarkable and noted place; occaſion'd that his Succeſſors many times were call'd Biſhops of Cheſter. But being ſever'd from that Dioceſe by King Henry VIII. it was erected into an Epiſcopal See, made up of the Revenues and Juriſdiction of the two Arch-Deaconries of Richmond and Cheſter: of which the firſt had Juriſdiction over Richmond-ſhire, and part of Cumberland; the other over Lancaſhire and Cheſhire. It was at its firſt Foundation ordain'd to be of the Province of Canterbury: and that in the Letters Patents of the Foundation of the ſame, 33. Henry VIII. But the King taking into mind, as well the long diſtance of the ſame from the See of Canterbury, as alſo, that the Arch-Biſhop of Canterbury had a ſufficient number of Suffragans before, whereas the Arch-Biſhop of York had but only two: did in the January following, by Act of Parliament, annex the ſame for ever to the Province of York, 33 Henry VIII. chap. 31. The Cathedral Church here was once a Monaſtery, founded by Leofricus, once an officiary Count, in theſe parts; and by him dedicated to St Wereberg, but repair'd, beautify'd, endow'd, and ſtor'd with Monks by Hugh, ſurnam'd Lupus, the firſt Earl of Cheſter. Theſe Monks being ejected by King Henry VIII. he brought in their place a Dean and Prebendaries, and made it of a Monaſtery, a See Epiſcopal: whoſe Dioceſe contains, in the Counties before remembr'd, 256 Pariſhes, of which 101 are Impropriations. This Biſhoprick is valued in the Kings Books 420 l. 1 s. 8 d. and for a Tenth to the Crown, the Clergy pay the yearly Sum of 435 l. 12 s.

DUR-

DURHAM, and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhops See now fix'd in Durham, was firſt plac'd in Lindisfarne, a little Iſland on the Sea-coaſt of Northumberland, and there plac'd by the firſt Biſhops of this Northern Region, becauſe of the privacy and ſolitude thereof, which made it thought more fit and proper for Devotion. But both the Biſhops and his Monks being driven from thence, by the mercileſs Fury of the Danes, (who here rag'd extremely) about the year of Chriſt 800. they wandred up and down from place to place for 200 years, not finding any place where they might repoſe themſelves in ſafety, till in the end they ſate them down in Durham, Anno 990, or thereabouts, where it has ever ſince continued. The Church here dedicated to Saint Cuthbert, the 6th Biſhop of Lindisfarne, a man of ſpecial Renown for piety: whoſe Reliques the ſaid Biſhops carried up and down with them in all their wandrings, till at the laſt they were depoſited in this Church, as in a place of reſt and ſafety. The Founder of it, that Aldwinus, by whom the See was firſt here ſetl'd. But this Foundation being taken down by William de Carileſo, about the firſt entrance of the Normans: that, now ſtanding, was begun by him in the place thereof; and finiſh'd by Ranulphus Flambard, his next Succeſſor. Somewhat has ſince been added to it by Biſhop Fernham, and Thomas Welſcomb Prior hereof, about the year 1242.

Nor did St. Cuthbert only give name to the Church, but alſo to all that Country, which now we call the Biſhoprick of Durham, and antiently was called Saint Cuthberts Patrimony. For upon him and his Succeſſors in that Sea, was all the Countrey between Teis and Tine, confer'd by Alfred King of England: which his donation was confirm'd and in part encreas'd by his Succeſſors, Edward, Athelſtan, and Canute the Dane. So fortified it was with Privileges and Royal Grants, that at the coming in of the Norman Conqueror, the Biſhop was reputed for a Count Palatine, and did engrave upon his Seal an armed Chivalier, holding a naked Sword in one hand, and in the other the Biſhops Arms. Nay it was once adjudg'd in Law, that the Biſhop was to have all Forfeitures and Eſcheats within the Liberties, ut Rex habet extra, as the King of England had without. But theſe immunities and privileges were in part impair'd by the Statute of King Henry VIII. 27. c. 25. and altogether with the Lands and whole Rights thereof, conferr'd upon the Crown by Act of Parliament, in the laſt year of the reign of King Edward VI. But in the ſecond Parliament of Queen Mary's Reign, that Act was totally repeal'd, and a Reviver made of the ſaid late diſſolv'd Biſhoprick, and all the Royalties thereof, 1 Mar. c. 6.

As for the Eccleſiaſtical juriſdiction, the Dioceſe thereof contains the County of Northumberland; and that which properly and diſtinctly is entitl'd the Biſhoprick of Durham: each of which has an Arch-Deacon of its own, in both, 135 Pariſhes, whereof 87 impropriate: the Clergy of which pay for their Tenth to the Crown, 385 l 5 s. 6 d. ob. The Biſhoprick being valued in the Firſt-Fruits Office, 1821 l. 1 s. 5 d. q. The Biſhops of this Church do write themſelves in Latin Dunelmenſis; of which eight have been dignified with the Name of Saints; one with the Patriarchate of Hieruſalem, and one with the title of a Cardinal in the Church of Rome. There have been alſo of them, one Lord Chief Juſtice, five L L. Chancellors, three L L. Treaſurers, one principal Secretary of State, one Chancellor of the Univerſity of Oxford, and two Maſters of the Rolls. Which we will now lay down in order, even the whole Succeſſion, beginning with thoſe who who had their Sea and Habitation in the Isle of Lindisfarne.

HEXAM, and the Biſhops there.

THE Biſhoprick of Hexam, Hagulſtad, or Hextold, was founded in the infancy of the Saxon Church. The Seat hereof called by the old Latines Axelodunum, by Beda Hagulſtadienſis, by us now Hexam; the firſt who had the Name of Biſhop there being St. Eata, the fifth Biſhop of Lindisfarne. Ten Biſhops it enjoy'd ſucceſſively, and then by reaſon of the ſpoil and rapine of the Danes it diſcontinued; the juriſdiction of it being added to the Sea of York. From this time forwards, Hexamſhire was held to be a Fee of that Arch-biſhoprick, and had reputation of a County Palatine; but taken from that Sea by K. H. 8. (of which conſult the Statute, 37 H. 8. c. 16.) and by Authority of Parliament united to the County of Northumberland. Now for the Biſhops of this Hexam, they are theſe that follow.

MAN.

MAN, and the Biſhops there.

TOuching the Iſle of Man, we have ſpoken already in our firſt Table. The Biſhoprick hereof was firſt erected by Pope Gregory IV. and for its Dioceſe had this Iſle, and all the Hibrides, or Weſtern Iſlands anent Scotland. The Biſhop has his Seat in Ruſſin or Caſtletown, as now we call it; and in Latin is entitl'd Sodorenſis. But when this Iſle was made a member of the Britiſh Empire, the Weſtern Iſles withdrew themſelves from the Obedience of their Biſhop, and had a Biſhop of their own, whom they entitle alſo Sodorenſis, but commonly Biſhop of the Iſles. Patronage of the Biſhoprick was given together with the Iſland, by K. H. 4. to the Stanleys, who ſtill keep it: and on the vacancy thereof they nominate their deſign'd Biſhop to the King, who having given his Royal Aſſent, diſmiſſes him to the Arch-biſhop of York for his Conſecration. This is perhaps the reaſon why the Biſhop of this Iſle is no Lord of Parliament, becauſe not at the King's diſpoſing: none having ſuffrage in that houſe, but thoſe that hold immediately of the King himſelf; nor is it reaſon that they ſhould. Whether the Biſhop of this Iſle was antiently a Suffragan to the Sea of York, I can hardly ſay. I find order'd in the Act of Parliament, 33 H. 8. c. 31. wherein the Biſhoprick of Cheſter was made a member of that Provence; that that of Man ſhould be reputed of it alſo; which may perhaps perſuade one that it was otherwiſe before. The Dioceſe hereof contains only 17 Pariſhes, of which five are Market Towns, the reſt Villages, the People of them all being very conformable to the Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England. Now for the Biſhops of this Sea, I can meet with few; and therefore ſhall deſire thoſe who are

are more converſant in the buſineſs of this Iſle, to ſupply this want, and make a perfect Catalogue of the Biſhops of Man, out of the Fragments here enſuing.

THE PREFACE TO THE Enſuing Catalogue OF DUKES, MARQUESSES and EARLS.

THE Kings of England as they are the Fountain of all Authority and Juriſdiction in their own Dominions: ſo are they the Fountain alſo of all civil Honour, which they diſpoſe of and diſpenſe, as to them ſeems beſt. Kings have ſo much of God in them, whoſe Deputies they are on Earth, as many times where they find Merit and Deſert, to raiſe the poor out of the duſt, that they may ſet them with the

the princes, even with the princes of their people. Now for their honorary Attributes, which our Kings have conferr'd upon their Subjects; the ancienteſt are thoſe of Earl and Baron: the Kings of England, of the Norman Race, not giving to any the Stile of Duke, till that Edward III. created his Son Edward the black Prince, Duke of Cornwal, Anno 1336. As for the Title of Marqueſs, that was made honorary by King Richard II. who firſt created his great Favourite Robert de Vere, then Earl of Oxford, Marqueſs of Dublin: as afterwards he made his Couſin German, John de Beaufort, one of the Sons of John of Gaunt, by Katharine Swinfort, then Earl of Somerſet, the firſt Marqueſs Dorſet. But that of Earls has been as ancient in this Kingdom as the Line of Normandy; William the Conqueror advancing many to that Honour at his firſt Entrance on this State, both to reward them for their Service, and oblige them to him. Of which Rank were the Earls of Arundel, Cheſter, Cornwal, Kent, and ſome other; Anno 1067. being the next year after he attain'd the Kingdom. Which with the other Earls of ancient Creation, were commonly endowed de tertio denario placitorum Comitatus, with the third Peny of the Pleas of thoſe Counties whereof they were Earls: the other two parts being accompted by the Sheriff (the Vice comes*) into the Exchequer, for the*

King's

King's Uſe. And though we mean to go no lower, in our following Catalogue, than the Stile of Earl; yet, by the way, we may take notice, that Viſcount here became an honorary Title in the time of King Henry VI. who, in the 18th of his Reign, advanc'd Sir John Beaumont to that Honour, and gave him place above all Barons, as Richard II. gave his new Marqueſſes Precedency before all Earls. Now at the enobling of deſerving Perſons into theſe high Dignities, it is, and has been of later times the cuſtom of the Kings of England, to give to them ſome ſet Penſion for the Support of their Eſtate; which is now generally brought to this proportion, that Viſcounts have a fee of 20 Marks, Earls of 20 l. Marqueſſes of 40 Marks, and Dukes of 40 l. aſſign'd to them out of ſome part or other of the King's Revenues; which Bounty I obſerve not to have been uſed in the creation of a Baron, excepting only that it pleas'd his ſacred Majeſty King Charles I. when he created Montjoy Blount (Earl of Newport) L. Montjoy of Thurleſton, in the County of Darby, to give to him and his Heirs, a Fee of 20 Marks per annum; which I note here, by reaſon of the ſingularity and rareneſs of it.

Nor have the Kings of England been accuſtomed to frame new honorary Titles, for the Advancement of thoſe Men who are dear to them, but but to prefer them before others of the same honorary Rank and Order. Henry VI. bearing special affection to Henry Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, first made him the prime Earl of England, or Præcomes Angliæ. And when he after made him Duke of Warwick, he order'd him to have Precedency next after the Duke of Norfolk, and before the Duke of Buckingham. The same King Henry making his half-Brother, Edmund of Hadham, Earl of Richmond, gave him the place above all Earls, and next of all to the Dukes. Thus did King James I. of blessed memory confer upon the Earl of Nottingham, (on his surrender of the Place and Office of Lord Admiral) the Seniority and Precedency of the Mowbraies, (out of which he was extracted) during the Life of the said Earl. And thus his sacred Majesty King Charles I. when he created the Right Honorable the Viscount Wallingford, Earl of Banbury, gave him Precedency before all Earls, created since his Majesty's happy coming to the Crown. And in the Patent of Creation of the Right Honorable the Lord Montjoy, 3. Car. there was a Clause of Precedency inserted, before all the Barons of that Year, by which he forthwith had the Place both of the Lord Craven and the Lord Falconbridge, though created before him: So absolute a Power have our English Monarchs in the dispensing of their Honours, and marshalling

those

those Persons whom they have advanc'd to these high Dignities.

As for the female Sex, they have no reason to complain that they have been neglected or omitted in the distributing of these honorary Rewards and Dignities: some of them having had the Happiness to tast the Bounty of the Prince in the highest Honors.

For thus the Lady Margaret de Brotherton, Daughter of Thomas de Brotherton, Earl of Norfolk, was by King Richard II. made Dutchess of Norfolk, Anno 1398. And thus the Lady Anne Bullen, the Daughter of Thomas Earl of Wilts, was by King Henry the eighth made Marchioness of Pembroke, Anno 1532. as was the Lady Margaret, Daughter of George Duke of Clarence, created Countess of Salisbury by the same King Henry, Anno 1514. Thus also the Lady Elizabeth Finch, being by King James I. created Viscountess Maidstone, was by our Gracious Sovereign Lord King Charles I. created Countess of Winchellea, Anno 1628. the Dignity entail'd on the Heirs male of her Body begotten. And finally, thus was the Lady Jane Richardson, Wife of Sir Thomas Richardson Lord Chief Justice, created Baroness Cramont, by King Charles I. Not to say any thing of the

Lady

Lady Mary Fane Baroneſs Deſpencer, or of the Lady Margaret Lennard, Baroneſs Dacres of the South; being Reſtitutions rather than Creations.

Now for the Method which I am to uſe in this following Catalogue, it ſhall be after the moſt natural of the Alphabet; as being of moſt Eaſe, and ſpeedieſt uſe in finding what we have a mind to look for. And in the ſame I ſhall lay down the juſt Succeſſions of and in each ſeveral Title, (premiſing firſt a brief Deſcription of the Place denominating) together with the Year of Chriſt's Nativity, wherein each ſeveral Duke, Marqueſs or Earl, either ſucceeded in the Place, or was advanc'd to the ſame. I alſo ſhall report in brief, on what Pretext of Blood ſuch and ſuch Men attain'd thoſe Honours which they have enjoy'd; if any nearneſs of Deſcent in Blood was pretended by them: and where a Family breaks off, and a new comes in, that I have mark'd with a few Croſſes; thus

I have obſerved alſo who and how many of each Title have manag'd any of the great and honorable Offices in the Common wealth: as thoſe of Lord High Steward, Lord High Chamberlain, Lord Conſtable, Lord Admiral, Lord Chancellor, Lord Treaſurer, Lord Chief Juſtice or Lord Privy Seal; together with the Lord Steward, and

and Lord Chamberlain of his Majeſty's Houſhold, and the Lords Preſidents of York and Wales, and Chancellors of either of the Univerſities. Such of them as have had the Honour to be admitted into the Order of the Garter, I have noted with this little * Aſteriſm.

And all this I have done with as much Brevity as was poſſible; profeſſing nothing in this Place but a Nomenclator; a bare and naked Catalogue of Names and Honours, for the more eaſy underſtanding our ENGLISH HISTORY, which was the matter which firſt mov'd me to compoſe theſe Tables.

As for the order of Precedency of the Men themſelves, that are thus dignify'd and advanc'd as now they ſtand; that is to be accounted from and by the Seniority of their Creations in their ſeveral Series: ſave that a Courſe was taken in Parliament, 31 H. 8. c. 10. for placing thoſe above the reſt, which were truſted with the greateſt Offices of State and Court. As, viz. that of the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper, Lord Treaſurer, Lord Preſident, Lord Privy Seal, Lord Conſtable, Lord High Chamberlain, Lord Admiral, Lord Marſhal, together with the Lord Chamberlain of his Majeſties Houſhold. Which manner of Precedency, being it is perſonal, as to the Men, and has no Reference to their Place and

Titles,

Titles, varies and changes with the Times, according as they are in Truſt and Favour with their Lord and Sovereign. But for the Places which has given Name and Title to Dukes, Marqueſſes, or Earls ; and for the Men that have been honor'd with thoſe Titles, they are theſe that follow : taking along ſuch Lords, and Viſcounts, as have been dignified by the ſelf-ſame Titles and no more but thoſe.

ABING-

ABINGDON.

A Bingdon, a handſome Town in Berkſhire, and well frequented, is water'd by the River Ouſe, and was firſt called by the Engliſh-Saxons, Sheoveſham, then Abandune, which is rather ſuppos'd to be from the Abby, than from one Abbenus an Iriſh Hermit, as ſome Writers conjecture. [In the old Book of Abbendon, this Town was thus deſcrib'd; It was a Place upon the plain of an Hill, extremely pleaſant to the Eye, a little beyond the Village which is now called Suningewelle, between two very fine Rivulets, which encloſing in them the Place it ſelf, (as it were a ſort of Bay) yield a delicate Proſpect to the Beholders, and a convenient Subſiſtence to the Inhabitants: It was in antient times call'd Sheoveſham, a famous City, goodly to behold, full of Riches, encompaſs'd about with very fruitful Fields, with green Meadows, ſpacious Paſtures, and Flocks of Cattel abounding with Milk. Here the King kept his Court, hither the People reſorted, to conſult about the greateſt and moſt weighty Affairs of the Kingdom. But] aſſoon as Ciſſa King of the Weſt-Saxons, had built the Abby, it began to be called Abbandun and Abington, that is, the Abby's town. This Abby had not long flouriſhed, before it was ruined by the Danes, yet it ſoon after recover'd it-ſelf, and grew to that Magnificence by Degrees, as to ſtand in Competition almoſt with any Abby in Britain for Riches and Greatneſs: But the Town, tho' it had it's Dependence for a long time on the Abby, yet ſince the Year 1416. when King Henry 5. built Bridges over the Ouſe, and turn'd the High-Road hither, it became ſo much frequented as to be reckon'd amongſt the principal Towns of the County of Berks, having a Mayor, and much enriching it ſelf by the making of Malt. In the middle of the Market-place ſtands a Croſs of excellent Workmanſhip, erected (as it is reported) in the Reign of King Henry VI. by the Fraternity of St Croſs, inſtituted by him. At preſent it's the Shire-Town for all publick Buſineſs; ſends one Member to the Parliament; and is farther honour'd by giving the Title of EARL to Azure, 3 Battering-Rams barwiſe in Pale, Azure, arm'd and hoop'd, Or. a Martlet for difference.

1682 1 James Bertie, Lord Norris, eldeſt Son by the 2d Venter of Mountague Bertie Earl of Lindſey, created Earl of Abingdon, Nov. 30. Car. 2. 34. died May 22. 1699.

1699 2 Mountagu-Venables Bertie ſucceeded his Father.

Saint

Saint ALBANS.

SAint Albans is the faireſt and goodlieſt Town in the County of Hertford. It aroſe out of the Ruins of old Verulamium: a Town more ſtrong and antient far, (as being the ſtrongeſt Fort of all the Britains, in the time of Cæſar) though not half ſo beautiful. It took both it's Name, Original, and Grandeur, from Alban, once a Citizen of Verulamium: who ſuffering Martyrdom for the Faith of Chriſt, during the Perſecution of Diocleſian; had firſt a fair Church built in memorial of him in that very place: or if you will, Eccleſia mirandi operis, atque ejus martyrio condigna, in the Author's Language. (Bedæ Hiſt. lib. 1. c. 7.) But this Church and Town of Verulam being both deſtroyed in thoſe fierce Wars which were betwēen the Saxons and the Britains, Offa the great and puiſſant King of the Mercians built, not far from the old Seat, a Monaſtery to the Honour of S. Alban; endowed it with a great Revenue, and many goodly Priviledges, as well Eccleſiaſtical as Temporal. This in ſhort time improv'd the Monaſtery into a Town: The Abbot in regard of his great Poſſeſſions, and Juriſdiction correſpondent, drawing no ordinary confluence of all ſorts of people. Pope Adrian, born at Abbats-Langley, about five Miles off, added this Honour to the place, that as S. Alban was the firſt Martyr of the Engliſh Nation: ſo ſhould the Abbot have Precedency of all Engliſh Abbots. This Houſe was valued at the Suppreſſion, at 2510 l. 6 s. 1 d. per annum; and was ſurrendred into the hands of Sir Thomas Pope, Doctor Petre and Mr. Cavendiſh, for the uſe of King Henry VIII. Dec. 5. Anno 1539. The Abby Church being a ſtately and magnificent Fabrick is left ſtanding ſtill. The Townſmen purchaſing the ſame at the price of 400 l.

and turning it into a Pariſh Church, as it now remains. For the great Battel fought about this Town, and in the very Streets thereof, between the two contending Houſes of York and Lancaſter, I leave you to the common Chronicles. The Perſons which it has enobled are theſe that follow.

Albemarle, vide Aumerle.

Alesbury, aliàs Ailesbury,

IS a fair Market-Town in Buckingham-ſhire, which ſtands in a Vale, and is ſeated upon the riſing of a little Hill, and compaſs'd about with many very pleaſant green Meadows and Paſtures, the whole Vale receives Denomination from the ſaid Town, being called the Vale of Alesbury. Famous it has been in times paſt, particularly for *Edith*s ſake there fo-ſter'd, who obtaining this Town of her Father Frr-wald, for her Dowry, by perſuaſion of the Religious there, bade her Husband and the World adieu, beta-king her ſelf to the Vale, where ſhe lived a pious and holy Life; and for her rare Sanctity in that fruitful Age of Saints, was wonderfully renown'd, even to the working of Miracles, together with her Siſter Eadburg. The whole Vale is in great Repute for grazing of Cattel, ſtor'd with innumerable Flocks of Sheep, whoſe ſoft and fine Fleeces are in Requeſt in moſt parts of the World where Trading is counte-nanc'd. One (lately) entire Paſture, call'd Berry-field, (now part of the Inheritance of Sir Rob. Lee Bar.) in the Manour of Quereudon, being let yearly for 800*l*. But to return to Alesbury aforeſaid, it is now become more remarkable by conferring an additional Honor upon

ANGLESEY.

ANGLESEY is an Iſland of North-Wales, ſituate over-againſt Carnarvanſhire, from which it is divided by a narrow Streight, call'd by the Latins Mona, by the Britains Mon; but being conquered by the Engliſh, obtain'd the Name of Angleſey, as one would ſay, the Iſland of the Engliſhmen. It is exceeding fruitful both in Corn and Cattel, from whence the Welch are liberally ſtor'd with both; and therefore it is ſaid proverbially Mon mam Cymbri, that Angleſey is the Mother of Wales.. It was the ancient Seat of the Druides, and brought with no ſmall difficulty under the Command of the Romans by Julius Agricola: the People fighting here, ut pro aris & focis, for their Religion and Gods. It contains in it 74 Pariſhes, the principal whereof is named Beaumaris, being at this time the chief Town of the Shire: and Aberfraw, now an obſcure and homely place, but anciently the Royal Seat of the Kings of North-Wales. The Perſons which it has given Title to, are only theſe, ARUNDEL.

ARUNDEL is the Name of an ancient Town and Caſtle in the County of Suſſex, pleaſantly ſeated near the River of Arun: whence it was call'd Arundale, or Aruntini Vallis, in ſome Latin Authors. The Caſtle of great Fame and Strength; but far more famous for the Lords and Earls thereof, than the Strength or Beauty. A Place in this far different from the reſt of England: the Title of the Earl of Arundel, being annex'd to the Caſtle, Honour, and Seignury of Arundel; and going along with the Poſſeſſion of the ſame; as was adjudg'd in that great Controverſie between Sir John Fitz-Alen, being in Poſſeſſion of the Caſtle, againſt John Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, being the right Heir in the neareſt degree. The Earls hereof, in regard that by ancient Charter they had tertium Denarium, or the Third-Peny of the Pleas of Suſſex; and that they ſometimes had their Reſidence and Abode in Chicheſter, as the chief City of that County; are in ſome old Charters called Earls of Suſſex; and in ſome others, Earls of Chicheſter. That which was theirs moſt properly, has ſtayed longeſt by them: and is of late increas'd by the addition of the Titles and Dignities of the Baronies of Fitz-Alen, Clun, Oſwaldſtree and Maltravers, with divers other Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, annex'd to the Title, Name and Dignity of Earl of Arundel, by ſpecial Act of Parliament. An. 3. Car. 1. R. The noble Perſonages which have born this Title, are theſe that follow.

Aumerle, or Albemarle.

Aumerle, or Albemarle, is the name of a ſmall Town and Territory in the Dukedom of Normandy. It belonged heretofore to Stephen, the Son of Odo, deſcended from the Earls of Champagne: whom William the Conqueror made Earl of Albemarle, as being the Son of his half-Siſter by the Mother's ſide, and gave to him for the farther maintenance of his Eſtate, the Territory of Holderneſs in Yorkſhire. This Title he enjoyed, and left the ſame to his poſterity, who enjoyed it alſo. And when his Iſſue failed, the Kings of England honour'd others with it; tho' they had long ſince loſt their Eſtate in Normandy: the Dukes and Earls whereof, take thus in order.

BANBURY.

BANBURY is a Town in Oxfordſhire, the ſecond both for Wealth and Beauty in all that County; moſt famous in our common Chronicles, for the great Battel there-by fought between the two great Houſes of Lancaſter and York, wherein the Victory fell to the Earl of Warwick, then chief of the Lancaſtrian party, who forthwith took King Edw. IV. Priſoner, now forlorn and hopeleſs. It was not long ſince much waſted by a devouring fire, but very well repair'd and beautified; and ſtill is as it has been antiently, caſeo conficiendo notiſſimum, as Cambden notes it; a Town much fam'd for the beſt and moſt delicate ſort of Cheeſe, and is now become of greater Note and Luſtre, by giving the Title of Earl to

BATH.

BATH is the faireſt, and the principal City in all Somerſetſhire, ſeated in a very low Plain, and round about environ'd with Hills very high and ſteep: from whence come many Rivulets and freſh-water Springs, to the great commodity of the people. But that which brings the place moſt Wealth, are not the Waters from without, but thoſe Waters which are within, ſending up from them much thin Vapours, and a ſtrong Scent withal; which Springs are very medicinable to many Maladies. Three of theſe Springs there are in all, the Waters of which being receiv'd in large and fitting Receptacles for the publick uſe; they call the Kings Bath, the Croſs Bath, and the hot Bath. From bathing in theſe Waters, it was called the Bath; and thence Bathonia in the Latin; unleſs perhaps you think that Bathing took its Hint from hence; and that this place took Name from Badon, or Mons Badonicus, not far off, as certainly Caer Badon, the old Britains call'd it. The Greeks and Latins gave it Names according to the nature and condition of the Waters, or the Baths there being: it being called by Ptolomy, Ὕδατα Θέρμα, hot Waters; by Antoninus, Aquæ ſolis, the Waters of the Sun, for the ſame Reaſon. Of the fair Church here, we have ſpoke already in our Deſcription of the Biſhoprick: which being ruin'd amongſt other Monaſteries in the time of King Henry VIII. has of late times been as it were re-edified, but certainly repair'd and beautified, and made fit for uſe, by the great Coſt of Biſhop Montague, a late Biſhop there. There was no Earl of this place, until the time of Henry VII. ſince when it hath had divers, whoſe Names and Times we now preſent you.

BED-

BEDFORD.

BEDFORD is one of thoſe three Counties which anciently were poſſeſt by the Catieuchlani: the Country very well provided of all neceſſaries, both for Food and Fuel. It taketh Denomination from the chief Town thereof, called Bedford, or in the old Saxon, Bedanford, i. e. Beds, or Inns at the Ford. A Town conveniently ſeated on both Sides of the Ouſe which runs through it; well-built, and populous, as having in it no leſs than five Churches. But the chief Commendation which it hath, is for the Antiquity and Strength thereof; as having been a Town of no ſmall note and conſequence, An. 572. when as Cuthwulf the Saxon vanquiſh'd the Britains in the open Field, and became Maſter of the Country. The Caſtle here being counted very ſtrong and almoſt impregnable, brought no ſmall miſchief to the town, being a place much aimed at by all thoſe in the former times, which either pretended to the Crown, or bare Arms againſt it. But all the Fortifications being demoliſhed in the Reign of King H. 8. the people have ſince lived in quiet: and the chief reputation of it conſiſteth in this, that it hath given the Title of Dukes and Earls to theſe Perſons following, being in their ſeveral Ages

BERKLEY.

BERKELEY.

BERKELEY is the name of a noble and ancient Family, diſperſed in many Places of this Kingdom. They took this name from Berkeley Caſtle, ſituated near the Severn Banks in the County of Glouceſter, of which they were made Barons by King H. 2. Whereas before that time they were called Fitz-Harding, as being deſcended from one Robert Fitz-Harding of the Blood Royal of the Danes. Which Robert Fitz-Harding by the name of Robertus filius Hardingi filii Regis Daciæ, is joyned as a Co-Founder with King H. 2. of the Cathedral Church of Briſtol, (but then a Monaſtery only) as doth appear by an Inſcription over the Gate of the ſaid Church. William Lord Berkeley of this Houſe, being deſcended from the Mowbrays, who amongſt other Titles were Earls of Nottingham, was in the year 1482. Created Viſcount Berkeley by King Richard 3. afterwards Earl of Nottingham, and Earl Marſhal by King H. 7. and finally, Created Marqueſs Berkeley by the ſame King H. Anno 1509. But dying without Iſſue, all thoſe Titles ended with him: that of the Lord Berkeley continuting in the Line Collateral, till advanc'd to additional Titles of Honour by King Charles II.

BERKSHIRE.

BERKSHIRE was Anciently in the Saxon times called Barrocſchire: which name the Learned Antiquary, Mr. Cambden out of Aſſerius Menevenſis deriveth from Berroc, a certain Forreſt, where grew good ſtore of Box, to which the People uſed in the time of Danger to retire themſelves. It lieth conveniently all along the River of Thames, which ſerves them well for the conveyance of their Corn, Fewel, and other Commodities, to the City of London: and contains in it 140 Pariſhes, 12 of which are Market Towns, the Chief, Reading and Abingdon. But that which gives moſt Luſtre to it, is the Royal Palace and Caſtle of Windſor, the Principal Seat and Reſidence of the moſt Honourable Order of the Garter: and indeed the moſt Magnificent Manſion of the Kings of England. Cambden in his Deſcription of this County doth conclude it thus. Thus much of Berkſhire, which (as yet) hath given the Title of Earl to no Man. And true it was when he ſo ſaid it. But ſince that time, theſe Noble Perſons following have enjoy'd that Title.

BERWICK.

BERWICK the laſt Town in England, and formerly the beſt fortified in all Britain, ſtands on the farther Bank of the Mouth of the Twede, in the County of Northumberland, in 21 Degrees, 43 Minutes of Longitude, and in 55 Degr. and 48 of Latitude; there have been divers Opinions about the Derivation of its Name, but the Saxons called it Beornica-pic, that is, the Town of the Bernicians, for this part of the Country was Anciently called Bernicia.

The Town is almoſt incircled with the Sea and the Twede, and being ſeated between England and Scotland, it has always been the firſt Place, both Nations in their Wars have had an Eye upon, and ſince the time that King Edward I. took it from the Scots, it has been as often recovered by the Engliſh, as the Scots have ventur'd to retake it from them. In the Reign of Queen Elizabeth the Town was ſurrounded with a high ſtone Wall, and has been ſince ſtrengthned with a deep Ditch, Baſtions and Counterſcarp, but that which is now the Chief ſtrength thereof, is the happy Union of the two Kingdoms. The Governours of Berwick have been generally Perſons of the greateſt Wiſdom, Valour and Eminence, among the Engliſh Nobility (who have been alſo Wardens of the Eaſt-Marches) but it never gave a Title of Honour to any one, until the Reign of King James II. who then conferr'd it on

BIN-

BINDON.

BINDON called by the Saxons (says Mr. Cambden in his Britannia) Beandun, is the Name of a Town in this Hundred of Rushmore in Dorsetshire, situate near the River Froom, in which was anciently a Monastery; at this Place, Kinegilsein the Year 614. (in a doubtful Battle) is said to overcome the Britains: But Dr. Gibson in his Additions to Cambden, observes that in all the Copies of the Ancient Saxon Annals, the Name of this Town is writ Beamdune, and seems to be of Opinion, that this Battle with the Britains was rather fought at Bampton, a Town on the Borders between Devonshire and Somersetshire; the March of the Britains and other Circumstances agreeing therewith; but hower it was, Bindon not many Ages since, was the Seat of the Lord Marney, who marrying the Daughter and Heir to Sir Roger Newborough Knight, descended from Geffery de Newburgh, a Younger Brother, to Henry de Newburgh the first Earl of Warwick, became possess'd thereof, with many other Lands, from it pass'd by an Heir Female to the Howards, in which illustrious Family it has given the Title first of Viscount, and now of Earl, to the Persons following.

A great and populous Town it is, deſcending by the Chaworths to the Dutchy of Lancaſter: and was by Henry VIII. the Heir of the Lancaſtrian Family, adorned with the Title of an Earldom; which he beſtowed on Sir Henry Dawbeney, Son of that Giles Dawbeney who came in with King Henry VII. from Bretaigne in France; and was by him made his Lord Chamberlain and Knight of the Garter. It ſtands commodiouſly for Trade and Traffick, the Ships with full Sail coming up into the Boſom of the City; and verily the Citizens there are Wealthy Merchants, and Trade into the moſt part of the World with good Faith and Fortune. Part of it ſtands in Somerſetſhire, and part in Glocesterſhire, though they account themſelves of neither: being a Country in it ſelf Incorporate, and not dependent upon any other than its own Officers. A Town exceeding populous, and very cleanly; there being Sinks and Sewers, made under Ground, for the Conveyance of all filth and naſtineſs, which by them paſſes into the Rivers. The Caſtle of it once was a place of ſtrength, and in it King Stephen was kept a Priſoner by Maud the Empreſs; but now not able to defend it ſelf from the Ruins of Time. Churches it hath in it, and thereunto adjoyning, to the Number of 18, or thereabouts, whereof the faireſt and moſt Memorable next to the Cathedral (of which we have already ſpoken in our Deſcription of the Biſhoprick,) is St. Maries of Radcliff, without the Walls, eſteemed to be the faireſt Pariſh-Church in England, and although it hath long been a Town of Fame; yet it is not much above an hundred Years ſince it was made a Biſhops See. BUCKINGHAM.

BUCKINGHAM is another of the three Counties, which were once the Seat of the Cattieuchlani: and is ſuppoſed to take that Name from Bucken, that is Beech-Trees, with which the Country is well ſtored. It is generally a very rich and plentiful Soil, equally good for Corn, and Grazing, and lieth all along on the Bank of the Thames, confronting Barkſhire. It contains in it 185 Pariſhes, eleven of the which are Market Towns; and amongſt them the chief in Name is Buckingham, the Head Town of the County. A Town of no great note, when it was at the beſt; but more conſiderable heretofore, than at the preſent; being once fortified with a Caſtle, now hardly to be found in the Ruins, as alſo with a Rampart and certain Sconces, built for Defence thereof againſt the Danes, now more inviſible than the Caſtle. The greateſt Honour it can challenge, is, that it hath given Titles of the higheſt Honour, to many a Brave and Worthy Perſonage, as well of the Blood-Royal, as of other Families: who by the Kings of England have been hence denominated, Dukes, Marqueſſes, and Earls of Buckingham.

BULLINGBROK is an Antient Town in Lincolnſhire, heretofore belonging to the Lacies Earls of Lincoln, and by the Marriage with Alice Daughter and Heir of Henry Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, to Thomas Earl of Lancaſter; this with the reſidue of the Lands of Lincoln, became United and Incorporated with thoſe of Lancaſter. The greateſt Fame thereof, was for a Caſtle built there by William of Romara, Earl of Lincoln: but much more Famous in ſucceeding times, in that it was the Birth-place of King Henry IV. ſurnamed (according to the Faſhion of that Age) of Bullingbrok. It hath been almoſt ever ſince his time, one of the Honours (as we call it) of the Crown of England: But never made an Honorary Title to any Family, until King James I. conferred it on Sir Oliver St. John, who poſſibly might affect to be thence denominated, as deriving his deſcent from the Lady Margaret Beauchamp, Grand-Mother to King Henry VII. the Heir of the Lancaſtrian Family.

BURFORD.

BURFORD, in Saxon Beorford, a Town of good Antiquity, on the Weſt of Oxfordſhire, ſeated on an Aſcent near the River Windruſh, which ſpringeth out of the Coſtwold. It was remarkable heretofore for a great Battel fought near it about the Year 750, between Cuthbert, a Tributary King of the Weſt-Saxons, and Ethelbald the Mercian, whoſe inſupportable Exactions the former King not being able to endure, overthrew him, winning his Banner, wherein was depicted a Golden Dragon; in Memory of which Victory, perhaps the Cuſtom, (yet within Memory) of making a Dragon yearly, and carrying it about the Town in great Jollity on Midſummer Eve; to which they added a Giant, might likely enough be firſt inſtituted. After the Conqueſt, it was the Town of Robert Earl of Gloceſter, whoſe Son William had a Charter granted him by King Henry II. giving to this his Town of Burford. Gildam & omnes conſuetudines quas habent liberi Burgenſes de Oxeneford; moſt of which it hath ſince loſt, yet it ſtill retains the Face of a Corporation, having a Common-Seal, and is a well frequented Market on Saturdays, and Famous for good Saddles. It is now become of farther Note by giving the Title of Earl to

Bridlington, alias BURLINGTON

IS a Sea-port Town in the East Riding of Yorkshire, with a Famous Key for Commodiousness of Shipping, which ride there with safety; of great Note formerly by reason of John of Bridlington, a Poetical Monkish Prophet, whose Rhymes pleas'd in those Days, though in after-times refined Wits esteem'd them ridiculous. Near to this Town is a long Ditch called Earls-Dike, cast up by the Earls of Holderness to confine and bound their Lands; not far from hence is a little Promontory which with its bent made a Creek commonly called Flamborough head; But to return to our Town first described, it is now become of more remark for giving Title to Per bend Crenelle, Ar. and Gules.

1664 1 Richard Boyle, Baron Clifford of Lansborough, Youghal and Bandon; Visc. of Kynalmeakie and Dungarvan, Earl of Cork in Ireland, Created Earl of Burlington, March 20. Anno 16. Car. II. ob. 16. Jan. 1697-8.

CAMBRIDG.

CAMBRIDGSHIRE was once part of the Poſſeſſion of the old Iceni, and takes that Name from Cambridg the chief Town thereof; and that derived either from the old Town called Camboritum, which Antoninus mentions in this Tract, or elſe, as others have conceived, from a Bridge built on the River Cam, on whoſe Banks it ſtandeth. A Town that hath been long ſince dedicated unto Learning: here being a publick School erected, An. 630. or thereabouts, by Sebert King of the Eaſt-Angles, and that ad morem Cantuariorum, as it is in Beda. But Schools and Studies being overthrown by the Daniſh fury, it lay long forlorn and diſcontinued, till it began to flouriſh under the calmer times of the Normans Government, that is to ſay, about the middle of the Reign of King Henry the I. the third King of the Norman Kings, nor was it long before, that of a famous School, or Schola Illuſtris, as we phraſe it now, it did become as famous an Univerſity, Robert de Remington affirming, that in the Reign of Edward, the I. it was made an Univerſity, ſuch as Oxford is by the Court of Rome. There are now 16 Colleges and Halls endowed, repleniſhed with ſuch ſtore of Students, that unleſs it be in her Siſter Oxford, the like are not found in all Europe. But we muſt leave this ſpeculation of it as an Academy; and look upon it next as a Title of Honour; in which Conſideration we ſhall find it no leſs fortunate than we did before, in theſe Earls of Cambridg.

CARDIGANSHIRE.

IS waſhed on the Weſt with the Iriſh Sea, and ſeparated from the Neighbouring Shires by Rivers. On the North 'tis parted from Merionethſhire by the River Dovi, Eaſtward from Brecknockſhire by Torvy, and on the South from Carmarthen and Pembrokſhires by Tivy. The Shire but of a ſmall extent, divided into five Hundreds, and therein 64 Pariſh-Churches. The Eaſt and North ſides contain a Range of Hills which yields goodly paſture Ground, intermingled with pleaſant Pools. The River Tivy is ſtored with Salmons, and was in ancient times famous for the Beaver which bred therein, a Creature which will live both by Land and Water, footed before like a Dog, and behind like a Gooſe, with an Aſh-colour'd skin, and a long Tail broad and griſly, which is uſeful to him in his floating. On the Banks hereof ſtands Cardigan, the Shire-Town, commodiouſly Seated, which hath a ſtone Bridge ſuſtained by ſeveral Arches. It is a Town Corporate, governed by a Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council, and is now honoured by giving Title to

CARLILE.

CARLILE is the principal City in the County of Cumberland, ſituate in the fartheſt part of the Kingdom towards Scotland, on the Weſtern Marches, fortified with a Citadel and ſundry Bulwarks for a Defence againſt the Scots, as ſtanding in a place of moſt Advantage for the ſecuring of that Border. It flouriſhed heretofore in the time of the Romans, and was by them called Luguvallum, as ſtanding on the Trench, or Vallum Pictticum, the Picts Wall, as our Stories call it; made by the Romans to defend their Province from the Picts and Scots. So that it ſeems of old to have been the Boundary between the Nations: though the Northumbers after in the Saxon times, enlarged their Empire to the Banks of Dunbritton Fryth. From whence, or when it firſt was called Carlile, our Authors ſay not; but by that Name, and in the Latin by Carleolum, it hath long been known. The Danes conſumed it into Aſhes, and it lay unrepaired in rubbiſh, till the time of William Rufus, who rebuilt it. Since which, by the Acceſſion of the Epiſcopal See, erected there by Henry the I. who ſucceeded Rufus, it came to be of Wealth and Credit: and hath given the Title to an Earldom to five ſeveral Families, which being of a different quality, have in as different times been Earls of Carlile.

CARMAR-

CARMARTHEN.

CARMARTHEN called by the Britains, Kaer Uyrdhin, and by Ptolemy, Maridunum, the chief Town of Carmarthenshire in South-Wales, is pleasantly seated on the West side of the River Tovy or Towy, which runs through the midst of this Shire, and falls South, about six Miles from hence into the Sea. Over the River (which is Navigable for small Vessels) there is a fair Bridge of free-Stone, with a large Castle built over it upon a steep Rock, from which Stone-Wall, auother intermingled with Brick, rangeth about the Town. Upon the Norman Conquest, this Town was brought under their Obedience, and for a long time oppress'd with the Calamities of War, having been often besieged, and twice burnt, but the Walls and Castle being afterwards Repair'd, and the Town thereby secured from its former Miseries, the Princes of Wales, eldest Sons of the English Kings settled here, the Chancery and Exchequer for all South-Wales. This was the Birth place of the famous British Apollo, call'd Merlin. In the Year 1689. this Town was honoured with the Title of a Marquisate, in the Person of

CARNAR-

CARNARVON.

CARNARVON is a Shire of North wales, butting upon the Iriſh Seas, and parted from the Iſle of Angleſey by a Streight, or Fretum. A Mountainous and Rocky Country: but the defects thereof are plentifully ſupplied by the Iſle adjoyning. It took name from Carnarvon, the chief Town thereof: heretofore very ſtrongly Walled, and Fortified with a fair Caſtle. Edward the II. King of England was here born; and hence according to the Cuſtom of thoſe Times, Entituled Edward of CARNARVON. For the occaſion of it, I refer you to the common Chronicles: The Princes of Wales had in this place their Chancery and Exchequer for all North Wales; which was no ſmall Improvement to it. Earl it had never any till King Charles I. conferred that Title on.

CHESTER.

CHESTER.

CHESTER is the principal City of Cheſhire, anciently part of the Cornavii. the Country not ſo plentiful in Corn, as in Fiſh and Cattel; but fruitful in no one thing more than the production of ancient Gentry; of which it can ſtill ſhew more ancient Families than any one County in the Kingdom. The City built in the form of a Quadrant, foursquare, is encloſed with a Wall that takes up more than two miles in Compaſs, and hath eleven Pariſhes; the Houſes being very fair, and well built, and having all along in the chief Streets before the Doors, a kind of Gallery; through which a Man may walk dry from one end to the other. Seated it is upon the River of Dee, on which, to ſhew his Splendor and Magnificence, King Edgar was once rowed by ſeven Petty Kings of the Scots and Britains, to the great joy of the Beholders, The Earls hereof were anciently accounted Palatines. William the Conqueror giving this Earldom to Hugh Lupus, a noble Norman; to be holden as freely by his Sword, as the King himſelf held England by his Crown. And though it be now, and hath long been incorporated into the Patrimony Regal; yet it ſtill holds the Rights and Priviledges of a County Palatine: and hath for the Adminiſtration thereof, a Chamberlain, a Juſtice for the Common Pleas of the Crown, two Barons of the Exchequer, a Sheriff, an Eſcheator and other Officers; to the great eaſe of all the Country, in expediting their buſineſs. The Palatines hereof, before it came into the Crown, are theſe here following.

CHES-

CHESTERFIELD.

CHESTERFIELD is a Town of Derbyſhire, commonly called Cheſterfield in Scarſdale. A Town which by the Ruins of it, doth ſeem to be of good Antiquity; and therefore likely to have had ſome more ancient Name, which ſeems to be now buried in thoſe Ruins; or by continuance of time, quite worn out and loſt. It glorieth much of being made a free Burrough, in the time of King John; and for the Battle fought hard by, between King Henry the III. and his Rebellious Barons, in which Robert de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, being taken Priſoner, loſt his Eſtate and Dignity, though not his Life. But that in which it hath moſt cauſe to glory, is that from an ordinary Market Town, it is become the Seat of an Earldom, the Stile and Title of Earl of Cheſterfield, being conferred by King Charles I. upon

CHOLM-

CHICHESTER.

CHICHESTER the chief City of Suſſex, built by Ciſſa the ſecond King of the South-Saxons, and by him called Ciſſancaſter, or the City of Ciſſa, whence the preſent Name. A City large enough, of a Circular form, and well walled; the Buildings generally fair, and the Streets capacious; four of which leading from the four Gates of the City croſs one another in the midſt: and in, or near the Croſs, a very beautiful Market-Houſe, ſupported by Pillars round about, built by Biſhop Read. Of no eſteem till the Norman Conqueſt, known only by a ſmall Monaſtery of Saint Peter, and a little Nunnery. But on the removal of the Epiſcopal See from Selſey hither, in the time of the Conqueror, it increaſed both in Wealth and Greatneſs, and would be richer than it is, if the Haven not far off were made more Commodious. At the preſent, there is no ſmall addition made to the Honour of it, by its having given the Title of Earl to

CLARE and CLARENCE.

CLARE is an ancient Town, on the edg of Suffolk, where it joyns to Eſſex, ſeated not far from the Banks of the River Stour, by which the Counties are divided. A Town that hath not any thing whereof to boaſt (the Caſtle and the Collegiate Church being both in rubbiſh) but that it gave both Name and Title to that Noble Family, ſurnamed De Clare; who in their times were Earls of Hartford, Clare and Gloceſter. CONWAY.

CONWAY vulgarly called Aber-Conwey, but of old time Caer-haen, that is to ſay, the Ancient City, or as ſome note, Conovium the old Name of the River Conwey, from whence the Town is denominated, being ſeated at the Mouth thereof, and formerly fortified by Hugh of Cheſter; which being ſpoiled in the Wars, and falling to decay, was rebuilt by King Edward I. It is a Market Town in Carnarvonſhire, well ſituated, and ſtrongly fenced with Walls; but that which adds to its ſtrength and ſafety, is a proper Caſtle ſeated by the River-ſide, which was built by King Henry III. to bridle the Welſh. And thus it continued without farther Note, till of late Years a deſerving Family of the ſame Name, was 12 Jac. advanced to the Dignity of a Baron of this Realm, by the Name and Title of Edward Lord Conway of Ragley in Com. Warwick, who the ſecond Year of Car. I. was Created Viſcount Killultagh in the County of Antrim in Ireland, alſo Viſcount Conway of Conway Caſtle, June 6. in the third Year of the ſame Kings Reign, and departing this Life, Anno 1630. was ſucceeded by Edward his eldeſt Son, who alſo died Anno 1655. and left his Eſtate and Titles to CORNWAL.

CORNWAL in the moſt Weſtern part of England, and takes Denomination from the ſhape and faſhion of it, being like an Horn; which the old Britains called Kern, as now the Welſh call the County Kernaw. The People of it are a remainder generally of the ancient Britains; whoſe Language, for much of it, they do ſtill retain; although by intermixture of the Saxons, not eaſie to be underſtood by the Welſh themſelves. The Country very Mountainous, as Wales is alſo; and therefore of the leſs acceſs to the Conquering Saxons: but the Sea-coaſts well beautified with goodly Towns, able to ſet to ſea a good Fleet of Ships. And for the Mountains, they do recompence their Defects without, by their abundant Wealth within; as being very full of Mines of Tin, which yields great profit to the Country, and furniſhes moſt Parts of Chriſtendom with that Commodity. The Earls of Cornwal heretofore had great Immunities and Liberties for thoſe that laboured in theſe Mines; and when this Earldom fell again unto the Crown, Edward III. erected a Lord Warden of the Stanneries to have the Government thereof. And at the time of its reverting to the Crown, King Edward III. gave it to his Son, Surnamed, the Black Prince; ſince which time, the eldeſt Sons of the Kings of England, whether it be by Birth, or by the Death of their elder Brothers, are ipſo facto Dukes of Cornwal, without any Creation, and are at Age to ſue their Livery, how young ſoever. COVEN.

COVENTRY.

COVENTRY is a fair and goodly City, within the Limits of Warwickſhire, but not within the County of Warwick; heretofore called ſo from the Convent, by which, and that tranſlating of the See Epiſcopal from Litchfield hither, it grew exceeding Rich and Wealthy. And though it now hath neither Convent, nor Epiſcopal See (more than in Ruin and in Title) it ſtill continues its old Wealth; being the beſt City of Mart and Trade in all thoſe Parts; commodiouſly built and ſeated, and more than ordinarily frequented for an In-land Town. It belonged once to the Earls of Cheſter, and afterwards by many mean Conveyances to John of Eltham Earl of Cornwal; and ſo this place became annexed to that Earldom. Nor loſt it any thing, but rather gained much by that Annexation: Henry the 6th laying to it certain of the adjacent Villages: and making it with them a County Corporate, clearly diſtinct from that of Warwick. It was lately one of the Honorary Titles of the Duke of Buckingham, George Marqueſs of Buckingham, being Created Duke of Buckingham, and Earl of Coventry, by Letters Patents bearing date 18. May, 21. Jac. I. and for the remnant of his Life, he, and ſince him, his Son, enjoyed both the Title of Dukes of Buckingham and

CRAVEN.

THE Country of Craven, in the West Riding of Yorkshire, is seated on the Head of the River ARE, which may not improperly be derived from the British word Crage, that is a Stone, for the whole Tract there is rough all over, and unpleasant to see too, with craggy Stones, hanging Rocks, and rugged Ways, in the midst whereof, as it were in the lurking-hole, not far from ARE, standeth Skipton, which lieth hidden and enclos'd amongst steep Hills: the Town is fair enough, and hath a very proper and strong Castle, which Robert de Rumsey built, lately repaired by, and in the Possession of the Countess Dowager of Pembroke lately deceased. Craven is lately of greater note by being made an Earldom, and gives Honorary Title to

CUMBERLAND.

CUMBERLAND is the fartheſt County of England, on the North-Weſt ſide, antiently part of the Brigantes. It is called Cumbria in the Latin, and Cumbrorum terra, as being inhabited by the true and natural Britains, (who in their own Language are called Kymri) when as the reſidue of theſe Northern parts had yielded to the Conquering Saxon. A Country for the Situation of it, neither unpleaſant nor unprofitable; the Valleys yielding Corn ſufficiently, the Mountains yielding great flocks of Sheep, the Meers repleniſhed with all kind of wild fowl, and the adjoyning Sea affording a variety of excellent Fiſh. It containeth in it not above 58 Pariſh-Churches, but very many Chappels of Eaſe, as big and large as any Pariſh. Of theſe there are nine Market-Towns, whereof the chief (next Carlile) for diſpatch of Buſineſs, is that of Perith, wherein they hold their Seſſions and Aſſize. Late was it ere this County became an Earldom, viz. when as King Henry the VIII. beſtowed the ſtile and dignity of Earl of Cumberland, upon Henry Lord Clifford, whoſe Iſſue till 1642. continued

DARBY.

DARBYSHIRE is a part of the Coritani, and took that Name of Darby, the chief Town thereof. A Town conveniently ſeated on the River of Derwent, beautified with five Pariſh-Churches, a goodly ſtone-Bridge, and a large Market-Place: and no leſs famous for good Ale, than Banbury for Cakes and Cheeſe. Finally, the Town is well Traded, and of good Reſort; and is the uſual place of holding Seſſions and Aſſizes for all the County. The Country of the Eaſt and South-parts well manur'd and fruitful; yielding a very ſpacious and pleaſing Proſpect, both out of Tutbury Caſtle, and that of Boulſover. The Weſt-part, which they call the Peak, is not ſo pleaſing to the Eye, though poſſibly as profitable to the Purſe; being rich in Iron, Lead, and Coals, which it yields abundantly; and grazing multitudes of Sheep on the Mountain-tops. It contains in it 106 Pariſh-Churches, of which 8 are Market-Towns; the chief thereof being Darby, as before is ſaid: the Catalogue of whoſe Earls now followeth.

DENBIGH.

DENBIGHSHIRE is one of the Shires of North Wales, heretofore appertaining to the Ordevices. The Country very Mountainous, and as barren generally, though by the pains and induſtry of the Husbandman, it be made in ſome parts very fruitful. The chief Town Denbigh is well ſeated on the Banks of the River Iſtrad, which from thence runneth into the Cluyd, the faireſt River of this Country. A Town well peopled and inhabited, eſpecially ſince it became the Head of the County; which was not till the 27th of Henry the VIII. when the five new Shires were added to the reſt in Wales, of which this was one. But before that, it was the head Town of the Barony of Denbigh, being conceived to be one of the goodlieſt Territories in all England, as having more Gentlemen holding thereof in Fee, and by ſervice, than other. Lords it hath good ſtore, and of ſeveral Families; but none of them a Parliamentary Peer (in reference hereunto) till theſe latter times. DEVONSHIRE.

DEVONSHIRE is the moſt Weſtern County of all England, excepting Cornwal, together with the which it made up the Poſſeſſion of the old Dammonii. It is called Devinan by the Corniſh Britains, that is, the Country of Low Valleys, becauſe the People dwell for the moſt part beneath in Vales. From thence the Saxons had their Devonſhire; and the Latines borrow their Devonia. A Country harborous on either ſide with commodious Havens, enriched with inexhauſtible Mines of Tinn, beautified with freſh and pleaſant Meadows, ſhaded again in other Parts with greater ſtore of Woods, and very well repleniſhed with Towns and Villages; whereof it reckoneth in the whole 394 Pariſhes, and therein 37 Market-Towns of good note and Trade. The Country of it ſelf not ſo fit for Corn, but that the toil and travel of the Ploughman ſupplies that defect, and adds unto it both by coſt and induſtry what it wants by Nature. Earls it hath had of ſeveral Families; of which the Rivers and Courtneys held the Title long: as now the Cavendiſhes may do, who have Poſſeſſion of it in the third Generation. DONCASTER.

DONCASTER is an ancient and well known Town in the West-Riding of Yorkshire, which by the Saxons was called Dona-Ceaſter, by the Scots Doncaſtle, but by us Doncaſter, taking its name from the River Done, which with a divided Stream runs near to it. A Town of much note in former times; for that there lay engariſon'd the Captain of the Criſpinian Horſemen under the General of Britain. In the year 759. a great part of it with the Citadel was conſumed with fire from Heaven and for ſome time lay buried in its Ruin, but afterwards was rebuilt, with a fair Church erected upon the Plot of Ground where the Citadel ſtood, and Dedicated unto St. George. The Town not further conſiderable, till of late Years it became of more remark, by giving Honorary Title to 1618 1 James Hay, Baron of Sauley, Created Viſcount Doncaſter, 16 Jac. I. and in the 20th Year of the ſame Kings Reign, made Earl of Carlile.

DORCHESTER.

DORCHESTER is the chief Town of the County of Dorſet, ſo called from the Durotriges, the old Inhabitants of theſe Parts in the time of the Romans, or from the Durnium of Ptolomy. The word Cheſter being added by the Saxons afterwards. A Town of great Antiquity, as appeareth by many Pieces of the Roman Coin found near unto it: once Walled, and beautified with a ſtrong and goodly Caſtle: but the Walls many Ages ſince pull'd down by the Danes; and the Caſtle being decayed and ruinous, converted into a Covent of Friers, now demoliſhed alſo. Once of a large compaſs, as may be well conjectured by the tract of the Walls and Trenches; but in the time of the Daniſh furies, ſo ſpoiled and plundered, that it could never recover the Wealth and Beauty which before it had; yet it hath ſtill three Pariſh Churches, and ſeemeth in ſome ſort to have recovered its former Dignity, by giving the Title of Marquis to

DORSET.

THE County of Dorſet abutteth upon that of Devonſhire, having the Sea upon the South, and Somerſetſhire upon the North. it was inhabited heretofore by the Durotriges, and was all the Land they did inhabit. The air good, and of a healthful Conſtitution; the Soil fat and rich in many Places, and wherein that it is defective, it yields good ſtore of Woods and Paſture. The Country generally very pleaſant in her Situation, as being no leſs beholden to the Inner-land Rivers, than the bordering Ocean; the one yielding Merchandiſe from far, the other the Commodity of conveyance to moſt Parts thereof; and both of them good ſtore of Fiſh. It contains in it 248 Pariſhes, and in them 18 Market Towns, the chief of which in name is Dorcheſter, as that which doth denominate the whole Country, and took that name it ſelf from the Durotriges, whom before I ſpake of; unleſs you rather think that it comes from Durnium, which Ptolomy placeth in this Tract. A Town not famous for much elſe, than that it hath long been, and doth ſtill continue a Honorary Title of theſe Noble Perſonages, which have been ſeverally

DOVER.

DOVER is a well known and famous Town, both for the Haven and the Caſtle, for the ſecurity and renown of which, and the convenient Situation of it over againſt France, it hath long been accounted one of the Cinque-Ports. Seated it is in the very South-Eaſt point of Kent, from whence a Man may eaſily diſcern the Coaſt of France, as being but 24 Miles diſtant. The Town ſtands in the bottom between the Cliffs, very warm and ſafe; the Caſtle mounted aloft, both to command and defend it. A place indeed of ſuch impregnable ſtrength, and ſo great importance, that Philip King of France, when Lewis, his Son being called in hither by the factious Barons againſt their Soveraign Lord King John, had gotten many Towns and Forts, but yet could not get the maſtery of this piece; deſpiſed all, ſaying, Verily my Son hath not one foot of Land in England, if he be not Maſter of Dover Caſtle. ESSEX.

ESSEX was anciently pertaining to the East-Saxons, and made a chief part of their Kingdom, whence it took the Name. Before it did belong to the Trinobantes. A Country large in Compaſs, fruitful of Corn and other ſorts of Grain; plentiful in Saffron, well Wooded, and well Watred alſo; and that not only by the Sea, and the River of Thames, which waſheth all on one ſide thereof, but with fair, freſh and Fiſhful Rivers, which do afford no ſmall Commodity unto it. The greateſt want it hath is of ſweet Air; thoſe Parts thereof which lie along upon the Thames, (which they call the Hundreds) being very aguiſh and unhealthy. This County containeth in it 515 Pariſh Churches, whereof 21 are Market Towns, of which Colcheſter is far the richeſt, faireſt, and beſt Traded. Yet in regard it ſtandeth in the extremity of all the County, the Seſſions and Aſſizes are held moſt commonly at Chelmsford, which is almoſt in the middle of it. FLINT.

FLINTSHIRE is one of the old Shires of North Wales, and though augmented ſomewhat by King Henry the VIH. what time the March-ground was appropriated unto ſeveral Shires (for which ſee 37 Henry the VIII. c. 26.) Yet it is the leaſt of all, as not containing above 8 Pariſhes, and of them only one Market-Town. The Country not ſo Mountainous as the reſt of Wales, exceedingly well furniſhed both with Corn for Men, and Graſs for Cattle; of which it had good ſtore for Number, though for Bulk but little. It took denomination from the Caſtle of Flint, begun by Henry the II. but finiſhed by King Edw. the I. for a good fence againſt the Welch. This County hath been always held to be an appendant on that of Cheſter, and doth ad gladium Ceſtriæ pertinere; as the old Books ſay. But both united now unto the Principality of Wales. Edward of Windſor, eldeſt Son of King Edward II. was ſummoned by his Father to the Parliament, by the name of Earl of Cheſter, and Flint; ſince which it hath continued as a Title in the Princes of Wales; and there you ſhall be ſure to find who were Earls of Flint.

GLAMOR-

GLAMORGAN.

GLAMORGAN is one of the Shires of South-Wales, lying along the Sea-coaſt, betwixt the Counties of Monmouth and Pembroke; once part of the Silures, and by the Welsh called Glath-Morgan, from Morgan, a great Prince hereof, as ſome conceive, but rather from the word Mor, which in the ancient Britiſh Language ſignifieth a Sea; agreeable to the Situation of it, all along the Shores. The Northern Parts hereof very rough and Mountainous, but the Southern of a better Compoſition, beautified with many pleaſant Valleys, and Traded on every ſide with a number of Towns; there being reckoned in it 118 Pariſhes, the chief of which for ſtrength and beauty is the Town of Caerdiffe, the Barony at this time of the Earls of Pembroke. Reduced to the obedience of the Crown of England in the time of William Rufus, by the Valour of Robert Fitz-Haimond Lord of Corboil in Normandy, and 12 adventrous Knights whom he brought in his Company; betwixt whom the Country was divided (with the King's Conſent) as ſoon almoſt as Conquered by them. GLOUCESTER.

GLOUCESTERSHIRE anciently was part of the Poſſeſſions of the Dobuni. A fruitful and a pleaſant Country, being honoured with a full courſe of the River of Severn, and the Original or Fountain of the River of Thames. That part thereof which is beyond the Severn is overſpread with Woods; all which included in one name, made the Foreſt of Dean. That part that butteth upon Oxfordſhire, is ſwelled up with Hills, called the Cotſwold Hills; but theſe even covered, as it were with Sheep, which yields a Wool of notable fineneſs, hardly inferior to the beſt of England. Between thoſe two is ſeated a moſt fruitful Vale, fruitful to Admiration, of all kinds of Grain, and heretofore of Vines and Vineyards; the want of which is now ſupplied by a Drink made of Apples, called Sider, which here they make in great abundance. In this ſo fruitful Vale ſtands the City of Glouceſter, denominating all the Country; and taking name from the old Glevum, herein placed by Antonine, for Gleauceſter the Saxons ſtiled it. A fine and neat City I aſſure you 'tis, daintily ſeated on the Severn; with a large Kay or Wharf on the Banks thereof, very commodious to the Merchandiſe and Trade of the place. The Streets are generally fair, and the Town well built. And which adds no ſmall luſtre to it, Richard the III. once Duke hereof, by laying unto it two adjacent Hundreds, made it a County of it ſelf; calling it the County of the City of Glouceſter. A City finally it is, as worthy to denominate ſo rich a County, as is the County to give Title to thoſe Eminent Perſons, that in their ſeveral Times and Ages have been the

GRAFTON.

GRAFTON a Road-Town in the South-part of Northamptonſhire, hath a fair Park adjoining to it, and a Mannor Houſe of great Antiquity, moſt part whereof was burnt and pull'd down in our late Rebellion, Anno 1643. Memorable it is for the Marriage conſummated here, betwixt Edward the IV. and the Lady Gray, the firſt of our Kings ſince the Conqueſt that married his Subject. And it is of farther note for being anciently the ſeat of the Family de Wideviles, Earls of Rivers, Richard the laſt of the Male-Line dying Anno 1490. And by his Will, among other Lands, bequeathed his Lordſhip of Grafton to Thomas Grey Marqueſs of Dorſet, in which name it continued till 19. of Henry the VIII. And then Exchang'd with that King for other Lands in Leiceſterſhire, and hath ever ſince continued in the Crown. It is now become of more remark for giving ſo great a Title of Honour to

GRANTHAM.

GRANTHAM, a Market and Borough-Town in that Partition of the County, call'd Keſteven, in Grantham-Hundred, in the South-Weſt part of Lincolnſhire, ſeated on the River Witham, which runs from hence Northwards to Lincoln, giving the Name of Grantham-Wapentake to the adjacent Countrey, and belonging to Keſteven-Diviſion. This Town is of no ſmall Reſort, by reaſon it lies on the Northern Road, which makes it much frequented; and is adorn'd with a Free-School, built by Richard Fox, Biſhop of Wincheſter, and with a large fair Church, having a very high Spire-Steeple, which is remarkable, for that it ſeems crooked at a diſtant view, and for many other Stories that are told of it. This Place never gave Title of Honour to any one, till his late Majeſty King William III. Created

GREEN-

GREENWICH.

GREENWICH, a large Town of Blackheath Hundred, in the North-Weſt part of Kent, about five Miles from London, is a neat and healthful place, pleaſantly ſituated in a gravelly ſoil, on the Banks of the River Thames, and much frequented by Gentry. Adjoining to which, is a Royal Houſe, with a noble Park about it, yielding a fair Proſpect, which Houſe was built by King Charles II. and was call'd the Queen's Houſe. By the River-ſide, ſtood alſo a Royal Palace, firſt built by Humphrey Duke of Glouceſter, and afterwards enlarg'd and beautified by ſeveral Kings of England; which Palace, as it was the place of Birth of King Henry VIII. ſo it was the Dying place of King Edward VI. his Son and Succeſſor; however Queen Elizabeth often kept her Court there, but after her Death, this Royal Manſion being in a manner neglected by the Kings her Succeſſors it went to ruin, till the aforeſaid King Charles II. ſome few Years after his Reſtauration caus'd part thereof to be pull'd down, and began to Erect in its place, a moſt ſumptuous and magnificent new Structure of Free Stone, but leaving the ſame unfiniſh'd his late Majeſty King William III. granted the ſaid Houſe (and Grounds thereto belonging) to be converted into an Hoſpital for aged and diſabled Seamen. This place tho' it has been the Reſidence of many of Our Princes, yet it has not give a Title of Honour to any one, until her preſent Majeſty was pleas'd to beſtow the ſame upon

In old time it was a Royal Manſion of the Engliſh Saxon Kings. Near the River ſtands the broken Walls of an old large Caſtle, and in the midſt of the Town is a Church, the Weſt end whereof made of Arched work, and embowed over head ſeems to be very ancient. In William the firſt his Book is to be ſeen, that the King had 75 Hages, or Houſes, wherein remained 175 Men. It is a Borough Town Incorporate, anciently endowed with many fair Liberties, Priviledges and Immunities which it ſtill enjoyeth, and is now become of more note by giving Honorary Titles to

HERTFORD.

HERTFORDSHIRE is another of thoſe Counties, which formerly were inhabited by the Cattieuchlani. A Country as it is deſcribed by Camden, rich in Corn-fields, Paſtures, Meadows, Woods, Groves, and clear Riverets; and which for ancient Towns may compare with any of its Neighbours; there being no one Shire in England that can ſhew more places of Antiquity in ſo ſmall a compaſs. It contains in it but 120 Pariſhes, and of them 18 are Market-Towns. The Shire-Town, which doth alſo give denomination unto all the Country, is Hertford; ſeated on the Bank of the River Lea, by Beda called Herudford, which ſome interpret the Red ford, and other ſome the Ford of Harts: A Town not much frequented nor greatly inhabited, as over-topped by Ware, which enjoy the Through fair; and by Saint Albans, which enjoyeth the Trade of the Country. HERE-

HEREFORD.

HEREFORDSHIRE, was in time paſt inhabited by the Silures. A Country which beſides that it is right pleaſant, is for yielding of Corn, and feeding of Cattel, in all places moſt fruitful, and therewith paſſing well furniſhed with all things neceſſary for Mans Life; Inſomuch that it would ſcorn to come behind any one County in England; the People uſing it for a by-word, that for three W W Ws, that is, Wheat, Wooll, and Water, it yieldeth to no Shire in all the Kingdom. The name it taketh from Hereford the chief Town thereof, which roſe out of the Ruins of old Ariconium, here placed by Antonine, the track and footſteps of which name, it doth ſtill retain. The Town is ſeated very pleaſantly upon the Banks of the River Wye, in the middle of moſt flouriſhing Meadows, and no leſs plentiful Corn-fields: And for defence thereof, had once a ſtrong and ſtately Caſtle, which now time hath ruined. The Normans became Maſters of the place, aſſoon almoſt as they had made their entrance into England, and to them the Caſtle oweth its Original; and two Years after the ſaid Conqueſt, it was made an Earldom, and hath ſince given the Title of

HOL-

HOLLAND.

HOLLAND is one of the three Parts of Lincolnſhire, Situate on the South Weſt Corner of it, in the Fens and Marſhes. The ground ſurrounded much with Water[1], heretofore yielded very ſmall ſtore of grain, but great plenty of Graſs, and plentifully furniſhed both with Fiſh and Fowl. But now upon the draining of this Fenny Country, they begin to plough it, and ſow the ſame ſo ploughed with Rape ſeed, which yields a very great increaſe, and is become a rich commodidity. The Town of moſt Antiquity is Crowland, heretofore famous for the Abby, valued at the ſuppreſſion at 1217 l. 5 s. 11 d. per Annum. That of moſt Trade and Note is Boſton; a fine Town indeed, and very famous for the Lantern, which is a very excellent Sea-mark, and a Land-mark too. And this withal is to be noted of this County; that howſoever one can hardly find a Stone in it (ſuch is the ſoftneſs of the ſoil) yet you ſhall no where find more beautiful Churches, all built of ſquare and poliſhed Stone. It now gives the Title of an Earl to

HUNTINGDON.

HUNTINGDONSHIRE was heretofore inhabited by the Iceni. A County generally good for Corn and Tillage; and towards the East, where it joyns on the Fens, as rich in Paſturage: elſewhere it is as pleaſant, though not ſo profitable, by reaſon of the riſing Hills, and fine ſhady Groves. It hath been heretofore well beſet with Woods, and was indeed a Foreſt, till the time of King Henry II. in the beginning of whoſe Reign, it was diſ-foreſted. In this regard, the Foreſt yielding ſpecial opportunity and delight for Hunters, the chief Town of it had the name of Hunters-down, we now call it Huntingdon, with very little Variation. The Town commodiouſly ſeated upon the Northern-Bank of the Ouſe, riſing to the North on the aſcent of an Hill; adorned with four Pariſh-Churches, and had a little Abby once, founded by Maud the Empreſs, and Euſtace Lovetoft; the Ruins of which, and of a far more ancient Caſtle, built by E. the elder, An. 917. are yet to be ſeen. This County containeth in it five other Market Towns, beſides the Shire-Town, and 79 Pariſhes in the whole: and did become an Earldom preſently on the Norman Conqueſt, as it hath ever ſince continued in theſe

JER-

JERSEY, in Latin Cæſarea an Iſland of the Britiſh Sea, five Leagues Weſt of the Coaſt of France, and 30 South of England. It belong'd formerly to the Duchy of Normandy, But has been reckon'd within the Juriſdiction of Hampſhire, ever ſince the untimely Death of Robert Duke of Normandy, eldeſt Son to William the Conqueror. The form of this Iſland is ſomewhat Oval, being about 10 Miles in length, and ſix in breadth, it has ten Pariſhes and two Caſtles, viz. Montorgueil, and Caſtle Elizabeth. The Country is Pleaſant and Fruitful, and bears good Corn and Graſs, and the neighbouring Seas afford plenty of Fiſh, eſpecially Conger and Lobſters, which are very fat and large. The Inhabitants are originally Normans and Britains, ſpeak a corrupt French, and drive a great Trade in Stockings: Jerſey was one of the laſt Places that held out for King Charles the II. and did not ſurrender to the prevailing Rebels, till his Majeſty withdrew himſelf into France, after the fatal Battle of Worceſter, in Conſideration whereof, that Prince after his happy Reſtoration, Anno 1663. ſent the Inhabitants a Silver Mace, to be carried before their chief Magiſtrate. In the Year 1697. King William III. gave it the Title of an Earldom in the Perſon of Argent on a Croſs Gules, five Eſcallops, Or, a Mullet for difference.

KENDAL.

KENDAL is the name of a Town in Weſtmorland called alſo Candale, and Kirby Candale, as being ſeated in a Dale near the River Can. The Town built in the manner of a Croſs, two long and broad Streets croſſing one another; a Town of great reſort and Trade, eſpecially for Woollen Cloaths, which they make there in great abundance, and thence vent through all parts of England. This Town hath been an ancient Barony, deſcending from the Talboyſes, to the Brooſes or Bruces, by them unto the Roſſes of VVark, ſome of whoſe Line attained to the Title of Lord Roſſe of Kendale, ſo to diſtinguiſh them from the Lord Roos of Hamlake; and ſo at laſt unto the Parres, to one of which it gave the Title of Baron of Kendale, as it hath done before of Earl to others of more note and eminency; which are theſe that follow.

KENT.

KENT in Latin Cantium, ſo called, as being ſeated in the Canton or corner of the Kingdom, is a very rich and pleaſant County, lying between the Thames and the narrow Seas. A County very good for Corn, and fit for Paſturage, according to the ſeveral Plots and Parts thereof, and wondrous full of fruitful and well ordered Orchards, from whence the City of London is ſupplied with moſt ſorts of Fruit. The Villages and Towns ſtand exceeding thick, being in all 398 Pariſhes, beſides leſſer Hamlets, which make up the two Dioceſſes of Canterbury and Rocheſter. It hath alſo divers ſafe Roads, and ſure Harbours for Ships; and thoſe exceeding well defended with Forts and Caſtles, Cæſar when he arrived in Kent, found here four Kings, (for ſo they called the Chiefs of the Principal Families) and gives Teſtimony of the People, That they were the moſt courteous, and civil of all the Britains. In the declining of whoſe Empire, Vortiger gave this Country unto the Saxons, who being Heathens, when the reſt of the Iſle were Chriſtians, gave an occaſion to the Proverb of Kent and Chriſtendom. At that time it was made a Kingdom; as in the entrance of the Normans it was made an Earldom, and ſo it hath continued in the Perſons of theſe

KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, the name of a well known and eminent Town in the East-riding of Yorkshire, which ſtanding on the Mouth of the River Hull, where it doth fall into the Humber, is better known amongſt us by the name of Hull. A Town indeed of no Antiquity, being firſt built by Edward the I. who liking the Situation of the place, compounded for it with the Abbot of Meaux (to whom it formerly belonged) and there built the Town, and cauſed it to be called Kingſton; it roſe up in a little time to great Reputation; ſo that for fair and ſumptuous buildings, ſtrong Block-Houſes, well furniſhed Ships, and wealth of Trade, it is become the the moſt remarkable Town for Merchandiſe in theſe parts of England. Michael de la Pole, the firſt Earl of Suffolk of that Family, being Son of William de la Pole, a rich Merchant here, obtained great Priviledges for the place, which his Succeſſors, as they grew in Favour, did increaſe and multiply: and in the Days of Henry the VI. William Earl, Marqueſs and Duke of Suffolk, procured it to be made a County incorporate, as our Lawyers phraſe it. Of late Days, of a County it became the Earldom of

LANCASTER.

LANCASHIRE, or the County Palatine of Lancaſter, was heretofore part of the Brigantes; and lieth upon the Iriſh Sea to the North of Cheſhire. The ground accounted not ſo fertile as in other Places, fitter for Oats and ſuch lean Corn, than Wheat or Barly. And yet it is obſerved withal, that in thoſe parts thereof, in which the Husbandman is not wanting to it, in Coſt and Labour, that there it yields Corn in a very good meaſure. The Air thereof may ſeem to be very healthful; and one would eaſily conjecture ſo by the complexion of the People, who are fair and beautiful. And yet the County is not much inhabited, as in the neighbouring Shires about them: there being in ſo large a quantity of ground, as this Shire contains, not above 36 Pariſhes, though indeed many Chapels of Eaſe, equal to Pariſhes elſewhere for Multitudes of People. It takes name from the Town of Lancaſter, or more truly Loncaſter, ſeated upon the Banks of the Lone, whence it had the name; the Saxons adding Ceaſter (as in other places) for the termination The Town not very well peopled, nor much frequented, and yet of that Authority and Credit, that it gives name to all the County, and hath obtained this Privilege from King Edward the III. that the Seſſions and Aſſizes ſhould be held in no other place. What Lords and Governours it had in the former times, we regard not here. The firſt time it became an Earldom, was when King Henry III. conferred that Title on his ſecond Son Edm. and it was deſtinate to greatneſs in the firſt Foundation; there being laid unto it at the very firſt, beſides this County, the whole confiſcated Eſtates of the Earls of Leiceſter and Derby, and the Barony of Monmouth. And into this by Marriages accrewed accrewed in time, the great Eſtates of William de Fortibus, Earl of Aumerle and Lord of Holderneſs, Beaufort, and other goodly Lands in France; the Earldom of Lincoln, and good part of that of Salisbury, the Lordſhips of Ogmore and Kidwelly in Wales, which were once the Chawörths. John of Gaunt added hereunto the Caſtles and Honours of Hereford, and Tickhil, and his Son Bullingbroke a moiety of the Lands of Bohun being Earl of Hereford, Eſſex and Northampton: ſo that it was the greateſt Patrimony (as I verily think) of any ſubject Prince in Chriſtendom. Lancaſter, finally was made a County Palatine by King Edward the III. and hath been honoured with theſe

LEEDS.

LEEDS.

LEEDS (in Saxon Loyðep, i. e. Gens, Natio, implying it to have been very populous in the Saxons time) a Market-Town in Skirack Wapentake, in the Weſt-Riding of the County of York, ſituate on the North-ſide of the River Air, and having a fair Bridge over the ſaid River. In this place, the Kings of Northumberland, had anciently their Royal Palace, it being made a Royal Village, when Cambodunum was burnt down by the Enemy. Here Oſwy the Northumbrian routed Penda the Mercian, the very ſpot where the Engagement was, is call'd by our Hiſtorians Winwidfield. This is now one of the beſt Towns in Yorkſhire, being well inhabited, eſpecially by Clothiers, who drive a very conſiderable Trade in the Woollen Manufacture. King Charles I. in the ſecond Year of his Reign, ſince incorporated Leeds, under the Government of one chief Alderman, nine Burgeſſes, and twenty Aſſiſtants; Sir John Savile, afterwards Lord Savile, being the firſt Alderman, who was a noble Benefactor to this Town, where he Founded and Endowed an Hoſpital for indigent Perſons, and built a Free-School, alſo a moſt noble Church, dedicated to St. John the Evangeliſt, and erected a ſtately Croſs, for the Convenience of the Market. But King Charles II. by another Charter, dated 2. Nov. in the 13th Year of his Reign, alter'd the Government of this Corporation into a Mayor, 12 Aldermen and 24 Aſſiſtants, and is now farther Honour'd by giving the Title of Duke to

LEICESTER.

LEICESTERSHIRE is a part of the Coritani, and took that name from Leiceſter the chief Town thereof; a Town indifferent large; and of a reaſonable handſome building, and as well traded as moſt In-land Towns that want (as this) the benefit of a Navigable River. It had once a very fair Abby cloſe unto it, and a ſtrong Caſtle therewithal; but all theſe the iniquity and injury of Time hath ruined. Only the Hoſpital of all the ancient Edifices, ſtands ſtill undefaced. As for the Country hence denominated, it bears Corn good plenty, but is bare of Woods; the want of which is well ſupplied with Pit-coal, with which the North-part of the County doth ſtore all the reſt. It containeth in the whole 200 Pariſhes, and of them 12 are Market-Towns; the biggeſt, as in bulk, being Leiceſter, ſo in Title too: as that which hath been honoured even before the Conqueſt, with the ſtile and reputation of an Earldom; and hath continued it till now in the Names and Families of theſe

LICHFIELD the chief City of Staffordſhire, ſignifieth in the old Saxon tongue, The Field of dead Bodies, ſo called from a number of Chriſtian Bodies, which there lay unburied in the Perſecution raiſed by Diocleſian. Situate in a low and mooriſh ground, on a ſhallow Pool, by which divided into two parts, but joyned together by a Bridge and a Cauſey, both together making up a City of indifferent bigneſs. In the South part, which is the greater of the two, ſtands a Grammar-School for the Education of their Children, and an Hoſpital dedicated to St. John, for relief of their Poor. In the other parts, not any thing conſiderable but the fair Cathedral, though that ſufficient of it ſelf to renown the place. But hereof we have ſpoken already when we looked on Lichfield as honoured in the firſt times of Chriſtianity, among the Saxons, with a Biſhops See. LINCOLN.

LINCOLNSHIRE anciently belonging to the Coritani. A very large and ſpacious County, extending almoſt 60 Miles in length, and about 30 in breadth; within which compaſs are included 630 Pariſh-Churches, and of them 30 Market-Towns. It is accounted very kindly ground for the yielding of Corn, and feeding of Cattel, and furniſhed in the lower part thereof with good ſtore of Fowl, which from hence are conveighed to London in great abundance. It takes name from the principal City, by Ptolomy and Antonine, called Lindum; and after by the Saxons, Lindocolline, either becauſe it ſtands on ſo high an Hill (from the Latin Collis) or that it had been formerly ſome Roman Colony. A Town of great renown and ſtrength in the times of the Britains, and in the Normans time (as ſaith William of Malmsbury) it was one of the beſt peopled Cities of England; a place of Merchandiſe and Traffick for all Comers, both by Sea and Land; inſomuch that Remigius, then Biſhop of Dorcheſter, thought fit to tranſlate hither his Epiſcopal Sea. From this Opinion it then had, firſt began the Proverb, That Lincoln was, London is, &c. The Biſhops of Lincoln what and how they were, we have ſeen already. We will now look a while on the

R LIND-

LINDSEY.

LINDSEY is one of the three parts of Lincolnſhire, (the other two being Holland, which we ſpake of lately, and Keſteven, not yet become an Honorary Title, as the others are.) It contains all the Northern parts thereof, from the River Witham to Humber, and from the Ocean to the Trent. Happy above the reſt, not in bigneſs only, but that in this part ſtands the City of Lincoln, the chief denominator of the County, which being the anciently called Lindum (as before I ſaid) gave to this part the name of Lindſey; for by that name of Lindſey, it is now the Earldom of MACCLESFIELD.

MACCLESFIELD, or Maxfeld, is one of the one of the faireſt Towns in Cheſhire, and ſtands upon the edg of a large Foreſt of that name. It is ſeated on a high Bank, at the foot whereof runneth the River Bollin; 'twas formerly a Mayor-Town, and ſaid to contain a Mannor-Houſe of Henry Stafford Duke of Bucks, in tempore, Edward the IV. but now no footſteps remain of it; the Church here, though pretty large, owns her ſelf to be within the Pariſh of Preſtbury, and reckoned as a Chapel of the ſame Pariſh; on the South ſide of the ſaid Church was a College Founded by Thomas Savage, ſometime Biſhop of London, and afterwards Archbiſhop of York, which is ſince fallen to ruine: Several of the Race of Savages lie entombed there. Two Fairs are Yearly kept in this Town, viz. On Barnabas-Day, and All-Souls-Day, and a Market every Monday; And now now it is of more note for giving the Title of Earl to

MANCHESTER.

MANCHESTER is a good Town of Lancaſhire, ſituate on the hithermoſt part thereof, where it is divided from the County of Derby by a part of Cheſhire. A Town of very great Antiquity, known to the Emperor Antonine, by the name of Mancunium; part of which name it ſtill retains. And ſtill it carries a good account, and far excels the Towns lying round about it, both for the beautiful ſhew it bears, and the reſort unto it of the Neighbouring people; and which allures them thither, the great Trade of Cloathing, Mancheſter Cottons being famous in all Drapers Shops. It is remarkable alſo in thoſe parts for the large Market-place, for a fair Church, and for the College; which laſt being founded firſt by the Lord De la Ware, was afterwards Refounded or Confirmed by Queen Elizabeth, conſiſting of a Warden, and certain Fellows; which notwithſtanding, it is yet more famous, in being made the Honorary Title of

MARCH.

MARCH is a name of different nature, from the reſt before, as being neither Town nor County. Under that name of March or of Marches rather, our Anceſtors did comprehend thoſe batable grounds between Wales and England, for governance whereof, and the repreſſing of the Inſolencies of either ſide; there were certain Lords, and Potent Men, whoſe Lands lay neareſt to theſe parts, which were called Lords Marchers, who had great power and Juriſdiction in their Quarters. Amongſt theſe were the Mortimers of Wigmore, Men of great Authority, who after were advanced above the reſt, and made Earls of March. And it continued in that Family, until it fell by Marriage to the Houſe of York; and ſo by Edward the IV. to the Crown of England. Nor was it long before the Authority of the Lords Marchers was extinguiſhed quite, by the uniting of Wales to England, and either making new Shires of the ſaid March-ground (ſuch as are Monmouth, Brecknock, Radnor, Denbigh and Montgomery,) or laying it unto the old, for which conſult the Act of Parliament, 27. Henry VIII. c. 26. However the Title of Earl of March is revived again; only tranſlated from the Houſe of Mortimer, to that of Stewart; out of which Houſes have been ſucceſſively, theſe

MARLEBURGH, isa Town in the North-East part of Wiltſhire, ſeated not far off from the head of the River Kenet; which runneth thence to Hungerford and Newberry, and ſo by Reading into the Thames. The Town called antiently Cunetio in Antonine's Itinerarium, as the River was; but by the Normans, in whoſe time this Town revived (out of the Ruins of the old) it was called Marleburgh, as being ſeated in a chalky ſoil, which in ſome places ſtill we call by the name of Marl. A Town ſtretched out from Eaſt to Weſt, upon the pendent of an Hill, and had a Caſtle once belonging unto John, ſurnamed Sans-Terre, who afterwards was King of England, which is ſtill famous in our Law-Books, for a Parliament there held, 52. of Henry the III. in which were made the Statutes (from hence called) of Marleburgh, right neceſſary for the Peace and Tranquillity of the People, as is affirm'd in the preamble to the ſame. MARSHAL.

THE Title of Earl Marſhal is different from the reſt of England, all which (the Title of Earl Rivers excepted only) are local or denominated from ſome place; this only perſonal, the reſidue being only Honorary, this Honorary and Officiary, both together. Antiently they that had this Office, were only Marſhals of the Kings Houſe, according as the ſame is now diſcharged by the Knights Marſhal. But in ſucceeding times it grew to be a place of great power and honour, as it ſtill continueth. At firſt they had the Title of Lord Marſhal only. Richard the II. was the firſt, who by Letters Patent advanced them to the dignity of Earls Marſhals, and withal gave them power to bear a ſtaff of Gold, enamelled black at both ends, with the Kings Arms on the upper end, and their own Arms on the lower; whereas before that time the Marſhals had no other than a wooden ſtaff, as other the great Officers have at Court. Before this time they were Lord Marſhals only, as before I ſaid. For howſoever the Title of Earl Marſhal, and Comes Mareſcallus doth many times occur in our ancient Hiſtories; yet I conceive that it was only given them then by the courteſie or curiality of England, becauſe the Office in thoſe Days was veſted in the Perſons of none but Earls; as by the like miſtake or courteſie we find the Title of Comes Seneſcallus, and Comes Conſtabularius in ſome old Records. The Mannor of Hamſted Marſhal in the County of Berkſhire, was held of old by Grand Sergeanty of the Kings of England, conditioned that the Grantees ſhould for ever be the Knight-Marſhals, according as the Officers of Steward, Conſtable, and Lord High Chamberlain, in thoſe times were granted. What the Authoriry and Juriſdicti-

MIDDLESEX.

MIDDLESEX is a part of the Trinobantes, lying upon the Banks of the River Thames. A County not ſo large as others, but far more remarkable for ſumptuous Houſes, well-built Villages, a fertile Soil, and temperate Air; and which addeth moſt unto it, for the great Cities of London and Weſtminſter, which are ſeated in it, and for the conſtant reſidence of the Court, the receptacle and abode of the Kings of England, who have made this County happy above others with their Royal Manſions, Whitehall, and Hampton-Court, Somerſet-Houſe, and St. James's, ſtill in the Poſſeſſion of the Crown; Enfield and Hanworth aliened now, have either been the chief aboads, or retiring places of our Kings and Princes. In which regard the Kings of England anciently (as Camden notes it) vouchſafed the Title of Middleſex to none, neither Duke, Marqueſs, Earl nor Baron, although I know not by what popular error, the Citizens of London reckoned the Lord Mayor elect, for Earl of Middleſex. MON-

MONMOUTH.

MONMOUTHSHIRE is the neareſt Shire in Wales, though it ought rather to be accounted a part of England, and is indeed included in the Circuit of the Engliſh Judges. It lieth upon the North of the River Severn, there where it groweth into a Sea; the Eaſt parts are full of Graſs and Woods, the Weſt ſomewhat Hilly, and Stony withal; yet not unprofitable to the Husbandman, if he be not wanting to himſelf. It takes name from the chief Town Monmouth, and that from being ſeated on the mouth of the River Munow, there where it ſhoots into the Wye. It was the Barony once of John Lord of Monmouth, on whoſe attainder it was ſetled in the Houſe of Lanc. from whom it after did receive great Privileges and Immunities, which they ſtill enjoy. Henry the fifth Son unto King Henry the fourth (the firſt of the Lancaſtrian Family) was in this place born, (which ſhews, that Noble Family ſo highly prized it, to make it their dwelling) and was from hence called Henry of Monmouth. That one particular is enough to renown the place; and therefore we ſhall add no more. It belongs ſtill to the Houſe of Lancaſter, as to Poſſeſſion, being dependant on the Duchy; and not much aliened from it as to the Title: the Cary's, which derive themſelves from Lancaſter, by the Line of Somerſet, being honoured with the Title of

MONTGOMERY.

MONTGOMERYSHIRE is one of the new Shires of Wales, taken out of the Marches-grounds by King Henry VIII. Anno 27th of his Reign, ſo called from the Town and Caſtle of Montgomery, and that from Roger de Montgomery a noble Norman Earl of Shrewsbury: who winning much Land hereabouts from the Welſh, firſt built it to ſecure his Conqueſt. It ſtandeth not far from the Banks of the River Severn, upon the riſing of a Rock; from whence it hath a very free proſpect into a pleaſant Plain that lieth beneath it. The Family of the Herberts is very much diffuſed, and of great Authority in this County, out of which Family 1605 1 Philip Herbert, 2d Son of Henry Earl of Pembroke, was Created Earl of Montgomery, 3 Jac. I. May 4. and after the Death of his Brother William, was Earl of Pembroke, and afterwards Lord Chamberlain, ob. 23. Jan. 1648. *

MOULGRAVE.

MOULGRAVE is an ancient Caſtle in the North-Riding of Yorkſhire, Situate near to the Sea, and not far from Whitbay, firſt built it was by Peter de Mauley, (or de malo lacu in the Latin) in the time of Richard the I and being in his Eye, a very beautiful Pile, was by him called Moultgrace, but being a grievous yoke to the neighbour Inhabitants, was by them called Moultgrave, by which name, and no other, now the World takes notice of it. It continued in this Line for ſeven Generations, and all of them Peters too: and then the Iſſue-Male failing, it paſſed through ſeveral Families by the Heirs general, and now belongeth to the Sheffeilds, out of which Houſe

NEWCASTLE.

NEWCASTLE is the farthermoſt Town of all Northumberland, and the chief of the North; ſeated on the Northern Bank of the River Tine, which is there ſo deep, and well fenced withal, that it gives a very ſafe ſtation to the talleſt Ships. It ſtandeth on the declining of a very ſteep Hill, adorned with four Churches, fortified with ſtrong Walls, and beautified with goodly buildings. A Town of very great reſort, eſpecially by reaſon of the Trade of Sea Coal, which is conveighed hence to all parts of the Kingdom, and many other parts of Chriſtendom. It roſe out of the Ruins of old Gabroſentum; and had this new name from a Caſtle built by Robert, Son of William the Conqueror. And thriving by the benefit and entercourſe of Trade, became at length of ſuch Reputation, that by King Henry the VI. it was made a County incorporate, as we uſe to ſay; and finally thought worthy to give the Honour of an Earl to

NORFOLK.

NORFOLK is the greateſt County of England next to Yorkſhire, but far more populous than that; as comprehending in the whole 660 Pariſh-Churches, of which 27 are Market-Towns. It antiently was a Port of the Iceni, and the next Northern part of the Kingdom of the Eaſt-Angles, from whence it had the name of Norfolk; as hath the Southern people of it the name of Southfolk. The ſoil according to the variety of places, is of different nature; in ſome fat, rank, and full of moiſture; in others very light and ſandy; yet ſo that one contributing unto the other, and the Sea giving help to both, it is a very plentiful County for Corn, Sheep, and Fiſh. The people notably induſtrious both for Plough and Manufactures; inſomuch that one ſhall hardly ſee a Beggar throughout all the Country: and yet (which makes the marvel much the greater) they are notable Wranglers, well verſed and ſtudied in the quirks of Law, and conſequently create more work for the Aſſizes, than almoſt all the Circuit elſe. But then it is obſerved withal, that this diſpoſition hath brought ſome Reputation with it, as furniſhing the Courts of Juſtice with many Eminent men in the Laws of England, and yielding generally the beſt breed of Lawyers. It is obſerved by a great Antiquary of this Kingdom, that in this County are 100 Families of ancient Gentry, which never were attainted of High-Treaſon, which if it be true, the Gentry of Norfolk have had better fortune than the

NORTHAMPTON.

THE County of Northampton, is ſituate almoſt in the very middle and heart of England. A Champain Country for the moſt part, exceeding populous, and ſo repleniſhed with Towns and Churches (being in all 326. whereof 10 are Markets) that in ſome places there are 20 or 30 Steeples to be ſeen at once. The ſoil exceeding fertile both for Tillage and Paſture; maintaining numerous flocks of Sheep, and Herds of Cattle; but ſomewhat deſtitute of Woods. It takes name from Northampton the chief Town thereof, ſeated upon the River Nen; which antiently was called Anſona, but corruptly Antona, beſtowed this name upon the Town, being indeed built on the Northern Bank. A Town which for the beauty and circuit of it, may be well ranked with many Cities of the Kingdom; and heretofore ſo ſafe and ſure by reaſon of the ſtrong Walls, (from whence there is a goodly Proſpect into all the Country) and a ſtrong Caſtle, now demoliſhed; that once the Students of Cambridge had a purpoſe to remove their Univerſity unto it. This ſtrength however made it obnoxious unto ſome diſadvantage, as being a place much aimed at in our Civil-Wars, and many a Battle fought about it. Yet never were the times ſo turbulent, or the place ſo dangerous, but that there were ſome Perſons of Superior rank, who did affect the name, and enjoy the Title of

NORTHUMBERLAND.

NORTHUMBERLAND is a more contracted name now, than in former times. Heretofore it included all the Counties on the North of Humber, poſſeſſed of old by the Brigantes, and the Ottadini, now only the extream and Northern part, betwixt the River of Tine and Tweed, all which the Ottadini once inhabited. The Air exceeding ſharp and piercing, as being often viſited with boyſterous Winds, hard Froſts and tedious Snows; to remedy which it yields abundance of Sea-coal for fuel, and at very cheap rates. The ſoil in general neither fertile for Corn or Paſturage, as being for the moſt part exceeding rough and very hard to be manured, only in ſome parts towards the Sea, by the late induſtry of the Ploughman, and benefit of Sea-weed, wherewith they do improve their ground, it is become indifferent fruitful. The Country meanly populous, and but ill inhabited, partly by reaſon of the barrenneſs of the Conntry, as before is ſaid, and partly for the bad Neighbourhood of the Scots as commonly it is in Marchland or frontier Countries. In this regard, it had almoſt as many Caſtles for defence of themſelves as Pariſh-Churches for the ſervice of God, there being 26 of the one, and but 46 of the other; but then withal the Pariſhes were and are exceeding large, and have many Chappels of eaſe pertaining to them, which inconvenience of the ſoil and ſeat, may poſſibly have been the reaſon why the poſſeſſion of it held not in any Family (although the Title and poſſeſſion of it had been given to many) until the Piercies; who, not without ſome interruption too, have continued long. By reaſon of which intermixture of ſeveral Families, it hath given to thoſe Families the ſeveral Titles of

NORWICH.

NORWICH is the chief City of Norfolk, and took that name as did the County, from the Northern Situation of it. It ſtandeth upon River of Yarre, which runs thence to Yarmouth, lying out in length a mile and an half, not above half ſo much in breadth, and in that place containeth about 30 Pariſhes; well walled about, with many a Turret, and 12 Gates for entrance. A City which for fair Buildings, and reſort of People, the painful induſtry of the common ſort, the great humanity of the richer, and the firm Loyalty of all, in ſeditious times, may juſtly be accounted the third of England. Amongſt the buildings thoſe of ſpecial note (next unto their Churches) are the two Palaces of the Duke of Norfolk, and Earls of Surrey. And for the wealth and opulence, which it now enjoyeth, it ſtandeth much indebted to the Netherlanders, who flying from the Duke D' Alva, and the Inquiſition, brought with them the making of Bays and Says, and other Manufactures; whereby the poor are ſet on work, and the rich grow purſie. A place that hath been honoured long with a See Epiſcopal, but never made a Title of Civil Honour till

NOTTINGHAM.

NOTTINGAMSHIRE anciently was a part of the Coritani, well watered with the River of Trent, and many other pleaſant Streams. The people generally divide it into the Sand, and the Clay; that being the Eaſt part, taking up the Foreſt of Sherwood, famous for Robin Hood and his Companions; this being the South and Eaſtern part, more fit for Corn, and throughout well furniſhed both with Wood and Coal. It contains in it 168 Pariſhes, of which the chief, and that from whence the Shire takes name, is Nottingham. A Town well ſeated on the Trent, though very high, upon a Hill which overlooks it: for buildings and fair Streets, and a ſpacious Market-place, not giving way to many Cities. But that which gave the greateſt ornament to it, was indeed the Caſtle, a Royal and Magnificent Building, which for ſtrength, ſtatelineſs, and command of Proſpect, may juſtly challenge the precedency of the beſt in England. Of Mortimers hole there, who was hence haled to his Execution, and of the long Impriſonment which David King of Scots here ſuffered; the people are as good as a common Chronicle, and intermix too, not a few Fables with the truth of the Story. But that which we have good Record for, without fraud or fiction, is, that it hath afforded in ſucceſſive Ages theſe

The glory of this Barren and Mountainous Country is chiefly due to its Earls, who have been many, and ſingularly Eminent, ſince the Reign of King Edward III. who firſt Created James Butler (whoſe Anceſtors were heretofore chief Butlers of Ireland) Earl of Ormond, and gave him the Royalties and Liberties as alſo the Knights-Fees in the County of Tipperary, which by the favour of the Kings and Queens of England, his Poſterity do ſtill enjoy. In the Year 1643. King Charles I. in conſideration of the great Services perform'd in Ireland by James late Earl of Ormond, Created him Marquis of Ormond, which James was afterwards by King Charles II. in the 13th Year of his Reign, Created Duke of Ormond, and ſhortly after conſtituted Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, was farther honour'd with the Title of Duke of Ormond of England, by the ſaid King Charles II. in the 34th Year of his Reign.

OXFORD.

OXFORDSHIRE is a part of the Dobuni, ſituated Northward of the Thames, which parteth it all along from Berkſhire. A plentiful and fruitful Country, wherein the Plains are garniſhed with Corn-fields, and Meadows; the Hills well covered with Woods, and the Downs with Sheep, and wanting in no kind of pleaſure, which either Hawk or Hound can afford a Gentleman. It contains in it, being no great Circuit, 270 Pariſh-Churches, and 10 Market-Towns; the chief of which in name and beauty, giving denomination to the County, is the famous City and Univerſity of Oxford. A fair and goodly City, both for ſight and building, whether one look on the Magnificence of the publick Structures, or the compacted uniformity of private Houſes. And ſure it may be ſaid without immodeſty, and heard without diſlike or envy, that for the ſtatelineſs of the Schools, and publick Library, the bravery and beauty of particular Colleges, all built of fair and poliſhed Stone, the liberal endowments of thoſe Houſes, and notable incouragements of Induſtry and Learning in the ſalary of the Profeſſors in moſt Arts and Sciences, it is not to be parallel'd in the Chriſtian World: and for the number of the Students, and the well ordering of thoſe Students by good Laws and Ordinances, not to be equal'd by any but her Siſter Cambridg. From whence it had the name of Oxford, is adhuc ſub judice: whether of Vadum Iſidos, the Ford of Ouſe or Iſis, on whoſe Banks it ſtands, and ſo called Ouſford, or Vadum Bovum, the Ford of Oxen, (as the Greeks had their Boſpori in former times,) I determine not. Suffice it, that this name is very ancient, and that it anciently has been an Univerſity or Seat of Learning; in which reſpect, it hath co-evity with that of Paris, if not priority above it, as being refounded by King Alfred, Anno 806. and after it had been overborn a while by the Daniſh fury. Colleges it containeth in all 18. Halls for Students ſix, and about 13 Pariſh-Churches. It is moreover a See Epiſcopal, and it hath withal received no ſmall honour from the Noble Family of the Veres, who now for 20 Generations have been

PEMBROKE.

PEMBROKESHIRE was inhabited of old by the Dimet, a Country quite ſurrounded by the Sea, ſave where it joyneth unto Cardigan and Carmarthen Shires. A Country plentiful in Corn and Cattle, not deſtitute of Pit-coal; and which is far above the reſt (as Giraldus tells us) conſidering that it is ſo near to Ireland, of a temperate and wholſome air. It contains in it 140 Pariſh-Churches, and 5 Markets; that which is moſt of note being Milford, renown'd for its ſafe and capacious Haven. But that from which it takes denomination, is the Town of Pembroke, ſeated upon a forked arm of Milford-Haven, and in the beſt part of all the Country. A Town conſiſting principally of one long Street on a narrow point of a Rock; and hath within the Walls thereof two Churches. The Earls hereof in former times were Counts Palatines, and paſſed all things that concerned that County, under the Seal of the Earldom. And it continued ſo until the Reign of King Henry the VIII. when as Wales was reduced to England, and the authority of the great Lords there, diſſolved by Parliament. Since which the Earls of Pembroke have been meerly Titular, as of other places and of each ſort were theſe in their ſeveral Ages, the

PETER-

PETERBURGH.

OF Peterburgh, as it is an Epiſcopal See, we have ſpoke already, and have not much to add of it, as it hath the Title of an Earldom. It ſtandeth in the very nook or Angle of Northamptonſhire; where formerly had been a Gulf or Whirl-pool of exceeding depth: but made firm ground by Wolpher, King of the Mercians, when with great pains and diligence, he laid the Foundation of the Church. A Town, but for the Church, of nó great note, as ſtanding out of the way both for Trade and Traffick, and ſeated in no plauſible place, whether one look to health or pleaſure. Yet by the occaſion of the Abby in the former times, and now by reaſon of the Biſhop there, it draws reſort of people, for diſpatch of Buſineſs, hath a large Market-place, a fair Pariſh-Church, and handſome ſtreets. Of late unto the Eccleſiaſtical relation of it, is joyned an Honorary, it pleaſing King Charles the I. to Create

THIS is a famous Sea-Port Town ſeated on the River Plyme in Devon, upon the point of Cornwal, it was formerly called Sutton, and within a Century and half of Years, of a poor fiſhing Village, is become a great Town. It hath a commodious Haven ſtrongly fortified on both ſides, and fit to receive and protect a great Fleet of Ships from the danger of the Sea, or violence of Enemies. It hath a ſtrong Pier on the South ſide, and in the mouth of the Haven lieth St. Nicolas-Iſle, of great ſtrength, with a Chain to lock over, upon the adjoining Hill is a ſtately Cittadel; but ſince the Reſtauration of his Majeſty, King Charles II. well manned, and hath therein many pieces of Ordnance mounted. It is a Borough or Town Corporate, governed by a Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council. In which are two Pariſh-Churches, it enjoyeth a great Trade, and hath two Markets kept there, on Mondays and Thurſdays, and now is become of more note ſince it gave the Title of Earl to

It is not above ſeven Miles in compaſs, and very ſcatteringly inhabited; but plentiful enough of Corn, and good for Paſtures. On the Eaſt-ſide it hath a Church, on the North a Caſtle, which ſeems to guard the entrance of Weymouth Haven. It is the leaſt of the Shires in South Wales, the whole Circumference not exceeding 90 Miles, which is divided into ſix Hundreds, and therein 52 Pariſh-Churches. The Eaſt-ſide hath been ſtrengthned with ſeveral Caſtles which are long ſince buried in their Ruins. The principal Town, which gives name to the Shire, is Radnor, ſeated in a pleaſant Vally near the River Somergil, which runs at the foot of a large Hill called the Foreſt of Radnor, on the top of which is ſtill to be ſeen the Ruins of an ancient Caſtle, demoliſhed by the notable Rebel Owen Glendore dwy. It is an ancient Town Corporate governed by a Bayliff, and 26 Burgeſſes who have the Election of a Parliament-Man, and is now of more note ſince it is made choice of for an Earldom.

RICHMOND.

RICHMONDSHIRE is no County of it ſelf, but a part of Yorkſhire, lying towards the North-Weſt, with rugged Rocks and ſwelling Mountains, whoſe ſides in ſome places bear good Graſs, the bottoms underneath not being unfruitful; and in the Hills themſelves are found good Mines of Lead, and Pit-coal. The chief Town of the whole is Richmond; of a ſmall Circuit in the Walls, but by reaſon of the Suburbs lying out in length, very well peopled and frequented. A Town firſt built by Alane Earl of Bretaign, the firſt Earl here, after the entrance of the Normans, who fenced it with a Wall, and a moſt ſtrong Caſtle, the better to aſſure theſe parts againſt the Engliſh; and having finiſhed the ſame according to his own content, gave it the name of Richmount, as a place equally participating of ſtrength and beauty. It ſtandeth on the Banks of the River Swall, which with a mighty noiſe runneth underneath it: A River reputed very ſacred by the ancient Engliſh; for that in it, Paulinus the firſt Arch-Biſhop of York, baptized in one Day above 10000 Men, beſides Women and Children. The Earls of Bretagne for a long time together continued in the Title and Poſſeſſion of this County; ſince it hath been beſtowed upon other Families, who in their ſeveral times have been adorned with the ſtile of

RIVERS.

THE Title of Earl Rivers is of different nature from all the reſt of England, thoſe being local, (that of Earl Marſhal excepted) and this nominal; thoſe taking their denomination from ſpecial places, and this from an Illuſtrious Family. The ancient name was Redvers, or de Ripariis, thence it came to Rivers. At firſt they were but Barons of Plimpton in the County of Devon; after they came to be Earls of Devonſhire; which Title eight of them enjoyed ſucceſſively, and then the Maſculine Iſſue failing, the Name and Patrimony both were loſt amongſt the Females or Heirs general. From ſome of theſe, as I conjecture, came Sir Richard Widvile, whom firſt King Henry the VI. advanced unto the honourable Title of Lord Rivers, and after Edward the IV marrying his Daughter, advanced him higher, and made him Earl Rivers. Which Title ending in the 3d Earl of this Name and Family, was ſince again revived in the Honourable Houſes of Darcy and Savage, this laſt deriving a deſcent hence by the Line of Worceſter and Huntington, from one of the Daughters and Co-heirs of firſt Earl Rivers, whom, and his Succeſſors, take in order thus,

ANtiently called Duro-brevis, is a City in Kent, which lies upon the Bank of Medway, and ſeated in a bottom. fortified on one ſide with a Marſh, the River, and weak Walls, formerly no more than a Caſtle, called the Kentiſh-Men's Caſtle, but now it ſtretcheth forth with large Suburbs on the Weſt, Eaſt, and South ſides. Athelbert King of Kent, firſt erected a ſumptuous Church there, which he made the more famous with the dignity of a Biſhoprick, ordaining Juſtus the firſt Biſhop of that See. But when it was decayed with Age, Biſhop Gundulph a Norman in the year 1080. re-edified it. And when the Monks and Prieſts were outed, a Dean, ſix Prebendaries, and Scholars, were ſubſtituted in their places. Near to the Cathedral ſtands a Caſtle, long ſince built, and often repaired. RUTLAND.

RUTLAND, for Quantity is the leaſt County of England, for Quality not inferior to the very beſt, as being a pleaſant and fruitful Country, eſpecially about the Vale of Catmoſs. The earth thereof is generally very red of colour, ſo red, that even the Fleeces of Sheep are coloured with it; in which regard it had the name of Rudland, the Saxons calling it Rud, which we now call Red, as we retain the uſe of the Ruddy ſtill, in the ſelf-ſame ſenſe. Heretofore it was reckoned for a part of Northamptonſhire, not made a County till of late: and now again is laid unto Northamptonſhire, the better to make up a Dioceſs for the See of Peterburgh. It contains in it but 48 Pariſh Churches in the whole; the chief of which are Uppingham and Okham, two ſmall Market-Towns, of which the laſt is the Shire-Town for the Aſſizes, Seſſions, and all publick buſineſs. SALISBURY.

SALISBURY is the chief City of Wiltſhire, antiently called Sorbiodunum, which name it held until the entrance of the Saxons, who gave new Names and Laws to all Parts of England. It was at firſt ſeated high upon a Hill, as being a place deſigned for ſtrength and war, yet honoured for a while with a Biſhops See, and a fair Cathedral. But the Biſhops and the Clergy finding no good quarter amongſt the Soldiers which were there in Garriſon, and being deſtitute of Water on ſo dry an Hill; about the time of Richard the I. began to leave it, and plant themſelves down lower by the Water-ſide. Being once ſetled, and raiſing a new Minſter for Gods publick Service, the people alſo followed after and left old Sarum to it ſelf, which in ſhort ſpace became ſo totally deſerted, that now the Ruins of it are hardly viſible. But for new Salisbury, that grew up preſently into great renown, pleaſantly ſeated on the River, which watereth every Street thereof, and for the populouſneſs of the place plenty of Proviſion, a ſpacious Market-place, and a fair Town-Hall, is eſteemed to be the ſecond City of all this Tract. And which adds no ſmall luſtre to it, a place that hath been very fortunate in thoſe eminent Perſons on whom the Kings of England have beſtowed the Title of

SAND-

SANDWICH.

A Cinque-port Town in Kent, by the Engliſh-Saxons was called Son-wick, receiving its denomination from Sandy; on the North and Weſt-ſide fortified with Walls, on the other parts fenced with a Rampier, River, and Ditch. The Haven, by reaſon of Sand choaking it, and a great Ship of burden belonging to Pope Paul the fourth, which was accidentally ſunk in the very Chanel thereof, is not deep enough to bear any tall Veſſels. In ancient times it felt the furious Forces of the Danes, afterwards King Canutus the Dane, when he had gain'd the Crown of England, beſtow'd it upon Chriſt-Church in Canterbury, with the Royalty of the Water on each ſide; of late Years Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron of the Exchequer, Native of this place, built and endowed here a Free-School, and the Netherlanders have bettered the Town, by making and trading of Bays, and other commodities, now it is become more famous by conferring the Title upon SCARBOROUGH.

SCARBOROUGH, anciently called Scearburg, a Market, Sea-Port and Borough Town, of Pickering Hundred, in the North-Riding of Yorkſhire, ſo ſtrong by Nature, that it ſeems impregnable, being ſeated on a very ſteep large Rock, which is almoſt inacceſſible by reaſon of the craggy Cliffs about it, and waſh'd on all ſides with the Sea, except in one place on the Weſt, where a narrow ſlip of Land gives acceſs to it, which is defended with a ſtrong Wall: On the top of the Rock, (which is on the North-Eaſt) is a pleaſant ſpacious Plain, containing about 18 or 20 Acres of good Meadow-ground, with a freſh-Water Spring iſſuing out of the Rock, on which formerly ſtood a ſtately Tower, built by William le Groſs Earl of Albemarle, which ſerv'd as a Land-mark for Ships, but it was ruin'd in the late Rebellion. The Town is not very large, but well built and inhabited; it has a Caſtle and a Garriſon, and a commodious Kay for Ships. The Dutch drive a great Trade in Fiſhing in the Sea hereabouts for Herrings, and are oblig'd annually to demand leave of the Governour of the Caſtle, for their ſo doing. Beſides Herrings, the Inhabitants drive a good Trade in Ling, Cod-fiſh, Haddock, Hake, Whiting, Mackarel, and ſeveral other ſorts of Fiſh, which they take here in great Plenty, and ſupply the City of York with Fiſh, though 30 Miles diſtant. This place is alſo noted for its famous Spaw, (much reſorted unto) but now in a more particular manner, by its giving the Title of Earl to

SHAFTESBURY.

A large Market-Town of conſiderable note on the North ſide of Dorſetſhire, called in Latin Septonia, healthfully ſituated on a high Hill: and hath a delightful proſpect, but defective of Water, with which 'tis ſupplied from the bottom of the Hill, and from the neighbouring Town. It was firſt built by King Alfred about the Year 880. who had his Palace there, which afterwards became a Monaſtery endowed with great Revenues and Privileges. Here it was that King Canutus the Dane ended his Life; and the murthered Body of King Edward the II. was here inter'd, in thoſe Days eſteemed a Martyr, and Canonized for a Saint, which drew many People to viſit his Shrine. SHREWS-

SHREWSBURY.

SHREWSBURY is the principal Town in Shropſhire, called by our Anceſtors the Saxons Scrobbesby rig, for that it was of old a mere Thicket of ſhrubs. A place that roſe out of the Ruins of old Uriconium, ſeated not far off; but grew not into any great requeſt till the Norman Conqueſt. The Town ſtands neatly on a Hill, and is almoſt incompaſſed round with the River Severn; that part thereof which is not fenced by the River, being fortified with a ſtrong Caſtle, built by Roger de Montgomery, the firſt Earl hereof. A fair and goodly Town it is, well traded and frequented by all ſorts of people, both Welch and Engliſh, by reaſon of the Trade of Cloth, and other Merchandiſe; this being the common Mart or Emptory between Wales and England. It ſtandeth in the very midſt, or center, as it were, of the whole County, which generally is inferior unto none about it for delight and plenty, and for the number of Towns and Caſtles ſtanding exceeding thick on every ſide (as having formerly been a frontier County) very far above them. It belonged anciently to the Cornavii, and preſently on the Norman Conqueſt, was beſtowed on Roger de Montgomery, whom before I ſpake of, who, and his Succeſſors, and ſince them, the honourable Family of the Talbots enjoyed the ſtile and Title of

SOMERSET.

SOMERSETSHIRE anciently was inhabited by the Belgæ A County of a fertile ſoil, both for Corn and Paſture, exceeding populous (as comprehending in the whole 385 Pariſh Churches; whereof 33 are Market-Towns) and furniſhed alſo with commodious Havens for Trade and Traffick. A Country howſoever pleaſant in the Summer-ſeaſon; yet in the Winter time ſo deep and miry, that that it is ſcarce paſſable, from whence the People have a Proverb, That it is bad for the Rider, but good for the abider. Yet in ſome parts thereof, thoſe eſpecially which are towards Wiltſhire, it is both hilly and ſtony; but in the bowels of thoſe Hills, particularly in thoſe of Mendip, they find rich veins of Lead, to the great enriching of the County, and benefit to all the Kingdom. It took this name from Somerton, once the moſt famous and conſiderable in all the County, now a ſmall Market Town of no note nor credit, but for a fair of Cattel which is kept there yearly; in which reſpect, Aſſerius calls it Comitatum Somertunenſem, or Somertonſhire. But by the name of Somerſet, it is now beſt known, and by that Name hath given the Honorary Title of

SOUTH-

SOUTHAMPTON.

SOUTHAMPTON is the ſecond Town of Hampſhire, in bigneſs and Circuit, but not inferiour to the firſt for wealth and riches. A Town commodiouſly ſeated on an arm of the Sea, and capable of Ships of burthen to the very Kay; the opportunity whereof hath made it very fair and populous; as having in it five Churches for Gods publick Service, fenced with ſtrong Walls and a double ditch, and to ſecure the Haven, with a right ſtrong Caſtle, which now time hath ruined. It ſtandeth on the Banks of the River Anton (which riſing about Andover, runs here into the Sea) from whence it had the name of Southampton, and by that name it hath given denomination to the whole Country, though generally it be called Hampſhire. A Country rich in all Commodities, both of Sea and Land, and in the upper parts thereof, thoſe which are fartheſt from the Sea, of a very pure and excellent air. It contains in it 253 Pariſhes, many of which have Chapels of eaſe as big as Pariſhes, beſides thoſe in the Iſle of Wight, which is reckoned for a part of Hampſhire. To return back unto the Town, which though it be within the County, yet is a County in it ſelf (for which it ſtands beholden to King Henry the VI.) STAFFORD.

STAFFORDSHIRE appertained antiently to the Cornubii, a potent people in theſe parts, which afterwards by Beda, were called Angli Mediterranei, or the mid-land Engliſh-men. A County on the North-part full of Hills and Woods; on the South, ſtored with Coals and Mines of Iron; and in the middle part, where it is watered with the Trent, bravely adorned with Meadows, and fair fields of Corn. It containeth in it 120 Villages with Pariſh-Churches, the City or Epiſcopal See of Lichfield, and 15 other Market-Towns, of which the chief is Stafford, on the River of Owe, the head-Town of the Shire, which from thence takes name. A Town exceedingly beholden to the Barons of Stafford, who were once Lords hereof, and were hence denominated: who both procured it to be made a Burrough, with ample Privileges, by King John, and alſo fenced it with a Wall, ſave where it was ſecured by a large Pool of Water on the Eaſt and North. And on the other ſide, the Town by way of thankful retribution, honoured that noble Family with the ſtile of Earl; who were from hence entituled in their ſeveral Ages

STAMFORD.

STAMFORD is the hithermoſt Town of Lincolnſhire, ſeated upon the River Welland, by which it is there parted from Northamptonſhire. It ſtandeth in that part thereof which is called Keſteven, of which it is the principal Town. A Town well peopled, and of great reſort, containing about ſeven Pariſh-Churches. But that which gives it moſt renown, is that upon ſome quarrel and contention between the Southern and Northern men in the Univerſity of Oxford, the Scholars in the Reign of King Edward the III. removed hither, and here held publick Schools of all ſorts of Learning. Nor did they leave the place, or return again until they were commanded ſo to do by the King's Proclamation, and thereupon it was ordained in the Univerſity, that the Scholars in the taking of their Degrees, ſhould make Oath, not to read publickly at Stamford to the prejudice of Oxford. Nevertheleſs the Town ſtill flouriſhed in Trade and Merchandiſe, and hath given the Title of Earl to

SUF-

SUFFOLK.

SUFFOLK was anciently part of the Iceni, and afterwards, together with Cambridgſhire and Norfolk, made up the Kingdom of the Eaſt-Angles, of which this being the Southern part, gave to the County and the people both, the name of Suffolk. A very large and ſpacious County, containing 575 Pariſh-Churches, of which 28 are Market-Towns, with many a ſafe and capacious Haven. Of thoſe the moſt remarkable towards the Sea, is Ipſwich, a very fair and ſpacious Town, well peopled and well traded too; adorned with 14 Churches for the ſervice of God, and many a fair and goodly edifice for private uſe. That of moſt credit in the Land is Bury, or Saint Edmondsbury, heretofore famous for the Abby, valued at the ſuppreſſion at 2336 l. 16 s. per annum; a fine neat Town, and much inhabited by the Gentry, who reſort thither from all parts of the Country. As for the County it ſelf it ſheweth in every place moſt rich and goodly fields of Corn, with grounds as battable and rich for the feeding of Cattle, whereof there is good plenty out of queſtion, as may appear by the great ſtore of Cheeſe here made and vented to the great commodity of the Inhabitants, not only into all parts of England, but Spain, France and Germany. Long time it was before the Title of Suffolk was conferred on any. But when the gap was opened once, it hath been ſeverally conferred on ſeveral Familie, who as they ſtood in grace and favour with their Princes attained the Titles of

SURREY.

SURREY and Suſſex antiently were inhabited by the Regni, and afterwards made up the Kingdom of the South Saxons. This lieth on the South of the River Thames, whence it had the name; the Saxons calling that Rea, which we call a River, and ſo from Suthrea, came the name of Surrey. A Country on the outward parts thereof very rich and fruitful, eſpecially on that ſide which is towards the Thames, where it yields plenty both of Corn and Graſs; but in the middle part, ſomewhat hard and barren. From whence the people uſe to ſay, that their Country is like a coarſe piece of Cloth, with a fine Liſt: and yet the middle parts thereof, what they want in riches, they ſupply with pleaſures, as being famous for good air, and well ſtored with Parks; the Downs affording excellent opportunity as well for Horſe-Races, as Hunting. A Country finally it is of no great quantity, and yet contains 140 Pariſhes (of which 8 Market-Towns) and amongſt them the Royal manſions of Richmond, Otelands and Noneſuch. The chief Town of the whole is Guilford, a fine neat Town, ſeated on the declining of an Hill toward the River Wey, conſiſting of 3 Pariſh-Churches; which notwithſtanding never gave Title unto any, of Lord, Earl, or higher, until of late King Charles the II. did confer the Honour and Title of Counteſs thereof, on Elizabeth Viſcounteſs Kinelmeakey in Ireland, for term of her Life. But that defect hath been ſupplied by the whole body of the County, in the name of Surrey, with which our Kings have dignified theſe

SUSSEX.

SUSSEX is the other part of the old poſſeſſions of the Regni, and after that of the South-Saxons, from whom it took the name of Suth-ſex. A Country that lieth all along the Ocean in a goodly length, extending Eaſt and Weſt above 60 Miles; and yet for all ſo long a Coaſt, hath very few Havens, the ſhore being full of Rocks and Shelves, and the wind impetuous. The Northern parts towards Kent and Surrey, are well ſhaded with Woods, as was all the Country heretofore, until the Iron works conſumed them. The Southern parts which are towards the Sea, lying upon a Chalk or Marle, yield Corn abundantly; with a delightful intermixture of Groves and Meadows. It contains in it to the number of 312 Pariſhes, of which 18 are Market-Towns. And among theſe the chief of note is Chicheſter, of which we need ſay nothing here, having ſpoke of it in its proper place, among the Biſhopricks. THA-

THANET.

THANET is a little Iſland in the North-Eaſt of Kent, environed on three parts by the Sea, and towards the Weſt, ſevered from the Main Land of Kent by the River of Stoure, which is here called Temlade. An Iſland by Solinus, called Athanatos. in ſome Copies Thanatos, from whence the Saxons had their Thanet, famous as in other things, ſo in theſe particulars; that it was here the Saxons landed when they came firſt for Britain; and that Saint Auſtin the Monk here landed alſo, when he brought the Goſpel to the Saxons. The whole about 8 miles in length, and 4 in breadth, was reckoned then to hold about 600 Families; and is now very populous for the bigneſs, and very plentiful withal, of all commodities neceſſary but of Corn eſpecially. The people generally are a kind of Amphibii, and get their livings both by Sea and Land; being well skilled according to the year, as well in ſteering of a Ship at Sea, as holding of the Plough at Land; and in both courſes notably induſtrious. Such is the Iſle of Thanet, which was of late times made the Title of an Earldom, in the perſons of TOTNES.

TOTNES is a Town in the South-West of Devonſhire, ſituate on the Banks of the River Dert, about 6 Miles from its influx into the Sea. An ancient Town it is, and ſtandeth on the fall of an Hill, lying East and West. It hath a Major for the chief Magiſtrate; and ſo hath had ever ſince the time of King John; and being a Burrough-Town withal, hath a vote in Parliament. The greateſt reputation which it had in the former times, was, that it gave the Title of an Arch-Deacon, to one of the Four Arch-Deacons of the Dioceſs of Exeter, who is hence called Arch-Deacon of Totnes, and by that name George Carew, Doctor in Divinity (after Dean of Windſor, &c.) ſubſcribed the Acts of Convocation, Anno 1536. which poſſibly may be the reaſon why

WARRINGTON.

WARRINGTON, in Latin Rigodunum, a handſom Market-Town of Weſt-Derby Hundred, in the utmoſt South-Parts of Lancaſhire, ſituate on the North-ſide of the River Merſey, over which it hath a fair Stone-Bridge leading to Cheſhire. The Butlers who were formerly Lords of this place, obtain'd for it of King Edw. I. the Privilege of a Market, which is now conſiderable. The Town is pretty large, and is now dignified with the Title of an Earldom conferr'd by King William III. on Argent three Boars heads erected and eraſed Sable, two and one.

1690 1 Henry Booth Lord Delamere, Created Earl of Warrington, 17. April, Anno 2. W. & Ma. He died in January 1693.

WAR-

WARWICK.

WARWICKSHIRE heretofore was part of the Cornavii, a Country which for Air and Soil, wants nothing for the profit or pleaſure of Man. It is divided into two parts by the River Avon, that on the South ſide being called the Feldon, which yields good ſtore of Corn and Graſs, which makes a lovely proſpect from the neighbouring Hills; that on the North being called the Woodland, from the great plenty of Woods which grew here formerly, but now grown thin enough by the making of Iron. It containeth in it 158 Pariſhes, and Market-Towns; of which the chief (if one exclude Coventry as a County of it ſelf) is that of Warwick; called by the Romans antiently Præſidium, from the Garriſon there, which name it ſtill retains in a different Language. A Town adorn'd with very fair Houſes, a ſtrong and well compact Stone-Bridge on the River Avon, and 2 goodly Churches. But the chief beauty of it heretofore, as now, is a moſt ſtately and magnificent Caſtle; which as it was of late repaired at the great coſt and charges of Sir Fulk Grevil, the late Lord Brook, who therein dwelt; ſo was it antiently the ſeat and abiding place of the

WESTMORELAND.

WESTMORELAND was a part of the poſſeſſions of the old Brigantes, and lieth on the Weſt of Yorkſhire, from whence and from the Mores, as they call them there (that is, thoſe barren heathy grounds which are not tractable for Corn) it was named VVeſtmoreland. The Air accounted ſharp and piercing; yet the ſoil in moſt parts barren and unprofitable; yet in the Vales which are neither large nor many, indifferently fruitful. So that the greateſt profit and commodity, which here the people make unto themſelves, is by the benefit and Trade of Cloathing. It contains in it only 26 Pariſhes, which plainly ſhews that either the Country is not very populous, or that the Pariſhes are exceeding large; as generally indeed they are, in theſe Northern parts, four of thoſe 26 are Market-Towns; the chief of which next Kendale, (which we ſpake of formerly) is called Appleby, and paſſeth for the Shire-Town or Head of the County. The Viponts antiently, and by them the Cliffords were the hereditary Sheriffs hereof; which notwithſtanding, it pleaſed King Richard the II. to add unto the Titles of the Nevils of Raby, the higher and more eminent ſtile of

WHAR-

WHARTON.

WHARTON, the ſurname of a Family of great Antiquity, taking Denomination from a fair Lordſhip of that Name, upon the Bank of the River Eden (called by Ptolomy, Itunas) in the County of Weſtmoreland. The firſt of this Family who was Sir Thomas Wharton, Knight, Governour of the Town and Caſtle of Carliſle, and Warden of the Marches, who in conſideration of his great Valour and remarkable Services againſt the Scots, was in the 35th Year of the Reign of King Henry the VIIIth ſummoned to Parliament as a Baron, by the Title of Lord Wharton, and in the 7th of Edw. VI. had an Augmentation granted to his Arms by that Prince, viz. a Border Gold charg'd with Lions Paws in Saltire Gules, to be born by him and his Poſterity. The forementiond Lordſhip of Wharton, hath been lately honour'd by her Majeſty with the Title of an Earldom, which ſhe hath been graciouſly pleas'd to confer upon

WILTSHIRE.

WILTSHIRE belonging to the Belgæ in the former times, took this new name from Wilton, once the chief Town of it; like as it did of the River Willy, on which it ſtandeth. A Region, which as it breeds a race of hardy men, who in old time, with thoſe of Devonſhire and Cornwal, challenged the ſeconding of the main Battel in our Engliſh Armies; ſo it is very plentiful and fruitful, and withal very pleaſant and delightſome. The middle parts thereof, which they call the Plains, are moſt ſcant of Corn; but thoſe Plains, being large and ſpacious, and reaching round about to the Horizon, do feed innumerable Flocks of Sheep, which bring as great Commodity to the Inhabitants by their Fleece and Wood, and the moſt gainful trade of Cloathing, as other parts that are more fertile. It containeth in it 304 Pariſhes, and it traded in 19 Market-Towns; the chief and faireſt are Salisbury and Marlborough, which before we ſpake of. Wilton was formerly the principal, and heretofore a Biſhops See, honoured with the reſidence of nine ſeveral Biſhops; but by tranſlating of the See to Salisbury, and carrying thither therewithal the through-fare into the Weſt Country, which before was here, it fell by little and little to decay, and is now hardly worth the reputation of a poor Market-Town, yet ſtill it gives denomination to the County: as alſo the Stile and Honour to theſe

WINCHELSEY.

WINCHELSEY is a Sea-Town in the East part of Suſſex, where it adjoyneth upon Kent, accounted by a general error to be one of the Cinque-Ports; whereas indeed it is no Cinque-Port, but a member of them, as Rhy and Feverſham, and others are. A Town in former times of great ſtrength and beauty, incloſed with ſtrong Walls, and a well placed Rampier, for the defence thereof againſt Foreign Force: but the Sea ſhrinking from it by little and little, brought the Town by the like degrees into great decay, though ſtill it bears the ſhew of a handſome Town, and hath a Block-Houſe for defence, raiſed by Henry the VIII. But what it loſt in wealth, it hath got in honour, being advanced to the reputation of an Earldom in the names and Perſons of

WINCHESTER.

WINCHESTER is the chief City of Hampſhire, and heretofore the ſeat Royal of the Weſt-Saxon Kings. By Antonine and Ptolomy called Venta Belgarum; and then accounted the prime City of all the Belgæ, out of which Venta, adding Ceaſter to it, (according to their wonted manner) the Saxons hammer'd their Vent-ceaſter. and we our Winchester. In theſe our days, it is indifferently well peopled and frequented, commodiouſly ſeated in a Valley between high ſteep Hills, by which it is defended from cold and wind. It lieth daintily on the Banks of a pleaſant River, ſtretching ſomewhat in length from Eaſt to Weſt, and containeth about a mile and a half within the Walls, beſides the Suburbs, but much within the Walls is deſolate and altogether unbuilt. Many things certainly there are which may conduce unto the reputation of it; eſpecially a beautiful and large Cathedral, a goodly and capacious Palace for the Biſhops dwelling, which they call Wolveſey Houſe; a ſtrong and gallant Caſtle bravely mounted upon an hill, with brave command on all the Country; a pretty neat College near the Walls, built and endowed by William of Wickham, for a ſeminary to his other in Oxford, and not far off a very fair Hoſpital, which they call Saint Croſſes. And yet leſt all this might not raiſe it high enough, our Engliſh Monarchs have thought fit to dignifie theſe following Perſons with the ſtile and Title of

WOR-

WORCESTER.

WORCESTERSHIRE is a part of the Cornavii, once a great Nation in theſe parts. A County of an air ſo temperate, and a ſoil ſo fortunate, that it gives place to none about her, for health and plenty. Abundant certainly it is in all kinds of fruits, and of Pears eſpecially; wherewith, beſides the uſe they have of them for the Table, they make a baſtard kind of Wine, which they here call Perry, which they both ſell and drink in great abundance. Salt-pits it alſo hath in ſome parts thereof, and about Powyck, and many places elſe, good ſtore of Cherries; and every where well watered with delicious Rivers, which afford great variety of Fiſh. A County of no great extent for length and compaſs, as not containing above 152 Pariſh-Churches, and amongſt them 10 Market-Towns. Of theſe the principal is Worceſter, and gives denomination to the whole. A City delectably ſeated on the Banks of Severn (which runneth quite through the County from North to South) over which it hath a fair Bridge with a Tower upon it: and thence ariſing with a gentle aſcent affordeth to the upper parts, a very goodly proſpect in the vale beneath. A City every way conſiderable, whether you look upon it in the Situation, or in the number of its Churches, or the fair neat Houſes; or finally on the Inhabitants which are both numerous and wealthy, by reaſon of their Trade of Cloathing, which doth there flouriſh very much. Of the Cathedral here, we have ſpoken before, and of the Caſtle we ſhall now ſay nothing, as having nothing left of it but the name and Ruins. All we ſhall add is a brief Nomenclature of

YARMOUTH.

YARMOUTH, Latin Garianonum, a Sea-port Town in Norfolk, ſeated upon a little languet of Land, which is waſhed with the Sea on the one ſide, and on the other watered with the River Ware. A Haven of great ſtrength, as well by nature as Art, having a Draw-bridge over the River, and a ſtrong Wall on the North-ſide next to the firm Land, upon which are Towers, and a Mount caſt up towards the Eaſt, with great pieces of Ordnance placed thereon, which commandeth the Sea within their reach. It hath but one Church, but that very large and adorned with a high Spire, built by Herbert Biſhop of Norwich. It was made a Corporation in the Reign of King Henry the III. under two Bailiffs, enjoying ſeveral Privileges, as ſending Burgeſſes to Parliament, &c. It maintains a Peer againſt the Sea at the yearly charge of 2000 l. a place well inhabited, and much reſorted to, as being a ready paſſage for Holland for the Packet-Boat and other Veſſels, and brings a very great Trade for Fiſh, eſpecially Herrings, which the Inhabitants take in September in vaſt Quantities, the intercourſe of Trade betwixt this Town and Norwich, proves of great advantage to both places. YORK.

YORKSHIRE is paſt all peradventure the greateſt County in England, containing ſeventy Miles in length, from North to South, and eighty Miles in breadth, from Weſt to Eaſt; the Circuit being above 300. In this great quantity of ground, are not above 563 Pariſh-Churches, which is no great number, but then withal there are great plenty of Chapels of Eaſe, equal for bigneſs and reſort of people, to any Pariſh elſewhere. The ſoil is generally fruitful in a very good meaſure. If that one part thereof be ſtony and barren ground, another is as fertile and as richly adorned with Corn and Paſturage: if here you find it naked and deſtitute of Woods, in other places you ſhall find it ſhadowed with moſt ſpacious Foreſts: if it be ſomewhere mooriſh, miry and unpleaſant, elſewhere it is as beauteous and delightſome as the Eye can wiſh. It is divided ordinarily into three parts, which according to the quarters of the World are called Eaſt-Riding, Weſt-Riding, and North-Riding; Richmondſhire coming in to make up the fourth, which is a part of Yorkſhire, as before was ſaid. The whole was antiently poſſeſſed by the Brigantes, who were diffuſed all over thoſe Northern parts, beyond the Trent; and for their capital City had Eboracum, ſeated upon the River Ure, which we now call Ouſe, in the Weſt-Riding of this County; and by a latter Saxon name is now called York. This is the ſecond City of all England both for fame and greatneſs; a pleaſant large and ſtately place, well fortified and beautifully adorned, as well with private as publick Edifices, and rich and populous withal. Seated (as before was ſaid) on the River Ouſe, which cuts it, as it were, in twain; both parts being ing joyn'd together with a fair Stone-Bridge, consisting of high and mighty Arches, A City of great fame in the Roman times, and of as eminent Reputation in all Ages ever since; and in the several turns and changes which have befallen this Kingdom under the Saxons, Danes, and Normans, hath still preserved its antient lustre. Adorned it was with an Archiepiscopal See in the times of the Britains; nor stooped it lower when the Saxons received the Faith. Richard the II, laying unto it a little Territory on the West-side thereof, made it a County of it self, in which the Arch-Bishops of York enjoy the rights of Palatines. And for a further lustre to it, Henry the VIII. appointed here a Council for the Governance of the Northern parts, consisting of a Lord President, certain Councellors, a Secretary, and other Officers. And yet in none of these hath York been more fortunate, than that it has adorned so many Princes of the Imperial Line of Germany, and blood Royal of England, with the Stile and attribute of Dukes and Earls of YORK.
